Five Men in Race for Detroit Mayoralty.

Maine, long regarded as the political weather vane, will hold the first statewide election of the year today, with leaders of both major parties awaiting the results on which to base predictions on the outcome of later elections. Eight states will hold primaries tomorrow and one Wednesday.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The most populous congressional district in the United States has been the scene of a campaign with prohibition as the principal issue for several weeks in preparation for Michigan's state-wide primary Tuesday.

This district—the Sixth—has a population estimated on the basis of the 1930 census reports at from 1,300,000 to 1,500,000, and includes a considerable portion of the city of Detroit, as well as all of Flint, a city of 156,000, and five other municipalities of more than 50,000 inhabitants each.

For eight years the district has been represented by Grant M. Hudson, former superintendent of the Michigan Anti-Saloon league and a militant dry. Strong efforts have been made to unseat him, and this year saw another vigorous campaign. Wet sentiment centered on State Senator Seymour H. Person, who was attorney for Mrs. Etta Mae Miller, first woman to be given a life imprisonment sentence in Michigan in a prohibition case.

Woman Also in Race.

The law under which Mrs. Miller was sentenced has been amended and she was freed several months ago after Person carried the case to the state Supreme court. Besides Person, Hudson is opposed by Mrs. Maud Slocum and Robert H. Cook.

Prohibition authorities became interested in one incident of the campaign—a dinner of Person supporters at which a "wine tonic" purchased at a drug store was served as a legal beverage containing 22 per cent alcohol. Person did not attend this dinner. A report of it in newspapers caused enforcement agents to investigate the "tonic" but no statement of their final attitude was made.

Five Out for Mayor.

Five candidates for mayor of Detroit, four of whom have made vigorous campaigns with apparent expectancy of winning, will test their strength in a special election Tuesday. The election, which is nonpartisan, is to fill the vacancy created by the recall on July 22 of Mayor Charles Bowles.

Under the Michigan recall law, which never before had been used in Detroit, Bowles remained mayor in the interim between recall and election and automatically became a candidate for reelection.

The opposing candidates are John W. Smith, former mayor, whom Bowles defeated in November, 1929; George Engel, former civil service commission chairman; Frank Murphy, who resigned as a judge of Recorder's court to make the race; and Phillip Raymond, a communist.

A heavy vote is forecast on the basis of a registration of slightly over 500,000, the highest in the city's history.

MAINE VOTES TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Maine election and primaries in nine states will make this week the most active thus far in the campaign period. In Maine tomorrow voters will elect a United States senator and representatives in congress, a governor, and other state officers. Maryland Democrats will hold a primary tomorrow, with local issues involved.

Primaries will take place in eight states Tuesday, the largest number to be held on any single day of the year. These will be in Michigan, Colorado, Louisiana, and New Hampshire, where nominations are to be made for United States senators as well as for representatives and for state offices, and in Arizona, Vermont, and Washington. The eighth is a run-off in South Carolina between Senator Cole Blease and James F. Byrnes.

CARDINALS WIN 2 AS PIRATE RALLY ROUTS CHAMPIONS

Pittsburgh scored six runs in the last three innings to defeat the Cubs, 9 to 7, before 35,000 at Wrigley field yesterday. The defeat reduced the Cubs' lead to 2½ games over the Cardinals, who won a double header from Cincinnati. The Giants remain four games behind the leaders and the Robins trail by 4½. Guy Bush, who relieved Bob Osborn in the first inning, pitched effectively for the Cubs until the seventh inning and then was routed in the eighth. Score:

Pittsburgh	300	000	231	9	11 1

Batteries—Spencer, Wood, Brame, and Bool; Osborn, Bush, Teachout, Root, and Hartnett.

THE ARGENTINE TANGO IS COMING BACK INTO FAVOR

Take Picture of "Explosion" of Auto Engine

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A "picture" of the peculiar shaped explosion in a speeding automobile engine was made public in a report to the American Chemical society here tonight.

It was given out as the first complete explanation of the bomblike action that drives the world's automotive equipment.

General Motors chemists at Detroit obtained the "picture," not by photography, but with a device which extracted from a firing cylinder samples of the exploding gases. They were able to pick out the first sample when the explosion was only a tiny flash, starting from the spark plug. They obtained samples of each succeeding step in the explosion until the entire cylinder was filled with fire. The report was made by Dr. Lloyd Withrow, Wheeler G. Lovell, and T. A. Boyd.

A Series of Explosions.

There is a main explosion wave, they found, which shoots through the center of the chamber, and another that follows the side walls. The central explosion travels the faster of the two, and is constantly accelerating until three-fourths of the gas charge has been burned. The last quarter of this explosion travels at decreasing speed. But the slower explosion along the side walls does not decrease speed in the final quarter. It is in this last quarter that "knocks" are produced, seemingly when there is too much speed of explosion at the finish. Tests of anti-knock substances showed that they did not affect the explosions during the first three-quarters rush.

The chemical society holds its eighteenth meeting here for four days, beginning Monday. More than 2,000 chemists are expected to attend.

Many Other Subjects.

Endocrine glands and hormones which control sex and health will be discussed in the biological and medical chemistry sections. High pressure chemistry, by which new compounds are formed cheaply by enormous pressures that force unlike molecules and atoms to unite, will be discussed in a special section.

The proposal to use one form of high pressure with hydrogen to turn nearly 100 per cent of any crude oil into gasoline will be discussed by chemists.

Girl Rider Thrown When Golf Ball Strikes Mount

BOLT KILLS MAN, INJURES WIFE ON GOLF LINKS

Madison, Wis., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Paul F. Henning was killed here today and his wife, Katherine, was seriously injured when a bolt of lightning struck a tree under which they sought shelter at the Burr Oaks golf grounds.

The couple had gone to play golf and had reached the third hole when it began to rain. They stood beneath one of the large oak trees within 10 yards of the green. Other persons on the links also sought refuge under the trees.

The bolt suddenly struck, tearing up the sod where they stood. The woman and the man were holding steel shafted clubs and it is believed that these served to attract the lightning.

Persons nearby rushed to their assistance. Mr. Henning was dead, with part of his clothing ripped off. Mrs. Henning was unconscious, but she was revived. She is suffering with shock and severe burns.

Mr. Henning was an employé of the Capital City Culvert works. They had no children.

Boy, 12, Ill of Headache; Find His Skull Fractured

Twelve year old William King, 5327 Blackstone avenue, complaining of a headache yesterday as result of being struck by a brick while playing on Saturday, was examined by a physician, who found he had suffered a skull fracture. He was taken, in serious condition, to the Chicago Memorial hospital.

3-Month Hunt Lands Berwyn Woman Killer

An unrelenting three months' search by Chief James Mikes of the Berwyn police for the robber who killed Mrs. Marie Pelletier, 49 years old, 2521 South Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, a few doors from her home on the night of May 22, was rewarded early this morning. Rudolph Hegovic, 21 years old, 2503 South 57th court, Cicero, who was arrested as a purse snatcher by the Town Hall police last Thursday night, confessed the murder.

Shot Down in Street.

Mrs. Pelletier was shot down about 10 o'clock as she was returning from a shopping trip to the 22d street business district. Her husband, Louis, a hat maker, heard the shooting and found her body on the sidewalk. Mystery surrounded the slaying, and members of the family were questioned but were able to throw no light on the tragedy.

One clew was the absence of Mrs. Pelletier's purse, and from this circumstance Chief Mikes concluded that the murder had been committed by a nervous holdup man who was too quick on the trigger. He went to work on this theory.

Purse Snatchers Questioned.

For weeks Mikes and his men came to Chicago and questioned every purse snatcher of whose arrest they read. The quest was fruitless. Then on Thursday night Hegovic was captured on the Wilson avenue elevated station platform, where he had fled after snatching the purse of Mrs. Hans Dose, 1315 Argyle street.

Hegovic was taken to the Berwyn station. He steadfastly denied any knowledge of Mrs. Pelletier's murder and was returned to the Town Hall police station. There, under further questioning by Sergt. Arthur Preufer, Hegovic's composure broke and he confessed.

VATICAN CITY, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Far from being at the point of death, as some Berlin newspapers reported him, Pope Pius today spent a Sunday of normal activity.

It was even more than normal, for he began with a lengthy audience to Msgr. Borgonginiduca, papal nuncio to the kingdom of Italy, to discuss many matters such as the Argentine revolution, the nomination of a successor to the late Cardinal Gamba as archbishop of Turin, and relief for the churches in the Santo Domingo earthquake zone.

After luncheon and a siesta the pontiff took an automobile ride in the Vatican gardens.

S. W. STRAUS, 63, PIONEER REALTY FINANCIER, DIES

Started Bank Career in Chicago.

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Simon W. Straus, chairman of the board of S. W. Straus & Co., who through real estate bond issues, in which he was a pioneer, financed the construction of some of the country's most famous and tallest buildings, died this morning at his home in the Hotel Ambassador. He was in his sixty-fourth year. Mr. Straus had been ill for more than a year.

In the early part of 1929 Mr. Straus went to Europe, where he became seriously ill following an attack of gallstones. He returned to New York City in October, 1929, and underwent an operation. He never fully recovered, although he rallied at brief intervals.

Mr. Straus, according to business associates, had practically dropped all business activities during the last year and a half, and for three years before that, realizing his health was not what it should be, the financier had begun to transfer his responsibilities to the shoulders of others. Management of the affairs of S. W. Straus & Co. recently has been directed largely by Nicholas Roberts, president of the company.

Brother Probable Successor.

While none within the Straus organization would hazard any forecast as to Mr. Straus' probable successor, it was believed his brother, S. J. T. Straus, vice chairman of the board, would advance to the chairmanship.

The resources of S. W. Straus & Co. corporations were estimated at close to $100,000,000 at the time of the change in the corporate structure in 1928 when S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., of Delaware, the parent company, was authorized to consolidate all the Straus mortgage bond, banking and other interests.

Born In Indiana.

Simon William Straus was born Dec. 23, 1866, at Ligonier, Ind., son of Frederick William and Madlon Goldsmith Straus. His forefathers were bankers. His father, a native of Rhenish Prussia, Germany, arrived in the United States in 1852 and settled in Auburn, Ind., whence he moved to Ligonier and there founded the Citizens' bank. From Ligonier he went to Chicago, where he launched a mortgage and loan business.

S. W. Straus attended the public schools of Chicago and the Hughes High school, Cincinnati. In 1884 he entered his father's business in Chicago, first known as F. W. Straus & Co. Two years later upon the retirement of the father his son took over the management of the business and the name of the company was changed to S. W. Straus & Co. Its growth was rapid and in 1905 the firm was incorporated with Mr. Straus as president, an office he held until two years ago when he became chairman of the board.

Began Career in Chicago.

Mr. Straus was generally recognized as the originator of the modern first mortgage real estate bond, and through that medium of financing he was one of the pioneers in the development of some of America's greatest skyscrapers.

Mr. Straus spent the early years of his business career in Chicago. He moved to New York City in 1915 and the business bearing his name began to assume nation-wide scope under his management twenty years ago.

In March, 1909, S. W. Straus & Co. made the first real estate bond issue to finance a building project. Since

Transit Gloria! Midget Golf in Auditorium

Fore!

Negotiations have about been completed, it was learned yesterday, to install a Lilliput golf course in the Auditorium theater, 56 East Congress street, Chicago's temple of song and civic culture for 38 years.

Tentative plans of the promoters contemplate two links, one of six holes in the foyer and one of 18 holes on the main floor. On the stage will be erected a stucco replica of a country clubhouse, with veranda and background of artificial trees, privet hedge and greensward, where hot dogs, pop and lemonade may be purchased.

Clinch Confirms Report.

R. Floyd Clinch, president of the Chicago Auditorium association, was appointed receiver for the property last February by Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan. In a long distance telephone conversation last night from Traverse City, Mich., where he was spending the week-end, Mr. Clinch confirmed reports of negotiations for leasing the theater.

"I was approached by outsiders two weeks ago," he said, declining to give their names. "We have since had several conferences. No papers have been signed. We are still talking price. They want a lease for the winter. I think negotiations have progressed to the point where only the consent of the court is now necessary to close the deal."

Bonds of $834,000 Overdue.

When Mr. Clinch was named receiver it was announced that bonds totaling $834,000, issued 40 years ago, were due and payable, but that the association lacked the funds to redeem them.

"Opera has never paid; the Auditorium has been operated at a loss," said Mr. Clinch, "but from what I hear of this midget golf thing, it will enable us to raise some much needed cash."

The promoters, it is said, expect to have both links ready by Oct. 15. The golfers will have a distinguished gallery. Looking down from the great prosecenium spanning the 110 foot stage, above the proposed hot dog stand, are such figures as Gluck, Handel, Beethoven, Schubert, Wagner, Liszt, Mozart, Verdi, and their peers.

Theater Opened in 1889.

These figures have seen history recorded in the noble old structure designed by Louis H. Sullivan, the architect, whose signature of the acanthus leaf is interwoven in the frescoing of the walls. They saw men and women whose names are synonymous with the city's growth present on the December night in 1889 when the Auditorium was opened.

Adelina Patti appeared that night in "Romeo and Juliet," and afterward sang "Home, Sweet Home." In the audience was "His Excellency Benjamin Harrison," as the program called him, President of the United States, and Vice President Levi P. Morton. Boxholders were the George M. Pullmans, the Marshall Fields, the Potter Palmers, the Martin Ryersons, the Lyman Trumbulls, the N. K. Fairbanks, the R. T. Cranes, the John B. Drakes.

Vanished Glories of the Past.

In the orchestra pit, where the ninth hole of the miniature golf course will be sunk in synthetic turf, Campanini and Polacco once waved their batons. On the stage to be occupied by the hot dog stand Garden sang her Carmen, Muzio her Aïda, Marshall his Pagliacci, Chaliapin responded to an encore with the "Volga Boat Song." Duse was last seen there before she died.

So much for the history of the structure that in 1889 was hailed as "the world's largest theater" and in 1893 as the wonder building of the fair. It's obsolete. The old style foundation has settled 22 inches in places. The Messrs. Gluck, Handel, Beethoven et al. can say, "Art is dead: long live midget golf."

REBELS CAPTURE LARGER CITIES; SHOOT LOOTERS

Buenos Aires Takes on Carnival Air.

Restless Republics

ARGENTINA.—With the army in control of Buenos Aires, Ex-President Yrigoyen ill and in flight, the revolution spread yesterday to a number of the other provinces of the republic. The cities of Santa Fe, Rosario, Santiago, Mendoza, Parana, and La Plata were in the hands of the revolutionists.

PANAMA.—Three of Panama's five cabinet ministers resigned as the national assembly demanded the resignation of Jeptha Duncan, cousin of President Arosemena and minister of education. Congress turned down president's plan for national economy.

PERU.—The revolutionary government released Lieut. Commander Grow and Charles Sutton, two Americans held in jail since the downfall of President Leguia, on condition they hold themselves in readiness for trial. Story of how radio and aviation made revolution a success is revealed.

BY HAROLD TATAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7.—Argentina's lightning revolution seemed to be a complete success today. Reports came from important towns in the provinces that the movement was spreading. News of the revolt was greeted by popular parades.

The troops of the revolutionary committee of junta seized control of Santa Fe, Rosario, Mendoza, and Parana without any opposition. Only in Santiago was there any appearance of support to the old régime. The police temporarily attempted to prevent revolutionary demonstrations. Military governors were appointed for seven of the 14 Argentine states.

Buenos Aires was jubilant all day. Theaters and movie houses which had closed down last night reopened and are packed with enthusiastic audiences who never seem to tire in their requests for the orchestras to play the national anthem, that animated piece which begins, "Mortals, hear the sacred call, liberty."

Carnival Spirit Rules.

Cafés are thronged and the streets are overflowing with people displaying almost a carnival spirit. The police force has been reorganized and the traffic officers are working at their usual posts.

Two looters caught early this morning were summarily shot today. Their execution was in accordance with the provisional government's decree last night that law and order should be preserved.

Most of last night's looting and burning was directed against the officials of the Yrigoyen administration, but one group of men looted the treasury of the state railroad and then held a shooting match over the division of the spoils.

Fallen President Dying Man.

Ex-President Hipolito Yrigoyen is at the barracks of the Seventh infantry at La Plata, 35 miles from the federal capital. It was there that he signed his resignation of the presidency. Once this was done the provisional government told him that he was free to go, but the fallen dictator chose to remain where he was, feeling too ill to go elsewhere.

An eyewitness to the last act in Yrigoyen's public career said the former president had lost his usual erect and stately bearing and that his humble attitude and trembling voice was a painful spectacle to onlookers. Many of them wept when the aged man, giving the impression of a virtually dying man, had to be helped from the room after signing his brief abdication. It is reported that the ex-president is suffering from pneumonia.

How Yrigoyen Fled.

When the president fled yesterday before the revolutionary wave that surged around the Casa Rosada, the government house, he was accompanied into exile by his daughter and by his closest friend, Vincente Scarletto, once a bootblack, who ran a cigar store on the street level of the house Yrigoyen lived in.

The octogenarian dictator remained obstinate until the eleventh hour, and only fled in his automobile when the white flag was hoisted at the government house. An eyewitness said that his escape formed a striking contrast to the scene two years before, when he had been carried down the Avenida de Mayo, the Michigan boulevard of Buenos Aires, like a Roman emperor,

The College Girls Are Selecting Their Wardrobes

Two weeks more and they will be gone. We mean the girls who will be carrying Paris to Champaign, Madison, and other places where there are semesters and deans and things like that. The annual assembly of the campus wardrobes is in progress. Did the shops have this very thing in mind when they sent their buyers to the foreign style places with instructions to bring home the best? It was nice of you to ask us. They did. The store managers have been thinking of the college girl for months. Let's not be technical and talk about tunics, jersey ensembles, cowl-neck lines and guimpes. We sum it all up when we say they are the right things to make a freshman a pledge, whether you look at it from the viewpoint of the senior or the freshman. And, keen as always, the stores are offering stylish garments at the prices the mammas are willing to pay.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

a popular idol such as Argentina had never made in her history. Now he fled stealthily a bent and broken man.

Provisional President Gen. José Evaristo Uriburu this morning ordered the arrest of Carlos Bottos, president of the Bank of Le Nacion, pending an investigation of the charge that the bank had illegally advanced the Yrigoyenists the sum of 530,000,000 pesos, about $185,000,000 at the current rate of exchange. It had long been alleged that Yrigoyen had been paying salaries to an enormous number of political adherents for fictional services, but few people were prepared to hear of such a fabulous overdraft.

The provisional government also arrested Gen. Toranso, inspector of the army, Elpidio Gonzales, minister of the interior in the fallen cabinet, and the radical senator Digo Molinari. The Yrigoyenist head of the secret service, Santiago, is also being sought, but he is believed to have escaped to Uruguay. Dr. Horacio Oyhnarte, Yrigoyen's minister of foreign affairs, is also hunted as the man who gave the police orders to fire upon the populace yesterday.

Revolt Carefully Planned.

Some interesting sidelights to yesterday's revolutions were revealed today.

The military upheaval, although thoroughly prepared, would probably never have occurred if Yrigoyen, instead of delegating his power to former Vice President Martinez, had resigned outright, since Dr. Martinez, with a cabinet of his own selection, would have been given a chance to make good.

What ensued demonstrated the thoroughness of the long preparations since no hitch whatever occurred in their execution. Gen. Uriburu arrived at the government house within ten minutes of the time he had planned to do so. The navy too was prepared. Admiral Renard—now minister of the navy—turned up at Mar del Plata with his battleship "Buenos Aires" when supposedly on a cruise. He claimed he was suffering from a sudden illness requiring expert medical attention, but was arrested on the charge of breach of discipline. Today he delighted the navy by turning the tables on the officer who arrested him by having him arrested.

Failed to Lure Admiral.

Another episode now smilingly commented upon occurred when Yrigoyen's secret service men yesterday morning endeavored to entice Admiral Hermelo to visit the police department to "confer with the chief." The invitation was declined by Admiral Hermelo who told the secret service men he would only consent to go the police department to be its chief. By nightfall he held the appointment of chief of police.

Some Civilians in Plot.

The military planes that circled over the city at 8 a. m. yesterday gave the first indication that a revolution had been started. Every one, including the government authorities, were supposedly taken by surprise. But a band of 500 or 600 civilians, evidently "in the know," had arisen early, armed themselves appropriately and formed a long cavalcade of automobiles to meet the incoming rebel troops.

However, it was soon learned from the leaflets dropped by aviators and by reports from outlying police stations that the population was enthusiastically welcoming the arrival of the incoming troops.

Guns Blaze at Crowds.

In a final stand Yrigoyenist machine guns, placed on the roof of the congress and nearby buildings, barked out upon the surging populace, driving it to fury, while military cadets, as cool as veterans, spiritedly returned the fire and finally silenced them. Then the inmates of the government house, realizing the hopelessness of trying to stem the advance of the calets, hurriedly hoisted the white flag.

More complete police reports today indicate that the total dead will not exceed 50 while the seriously injured will approximate 180.

Police Detain Chicagoan.

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Charles Harper, a Chicagoan, who is general manager of the local branch of the Walkover Shoe company, was detained by police, but it was said he was held only as a witness and soon would be liberated. His testimony was needed because his office is in the same building as the Café Molino, from which unidentified civilians last night shot at a group of revolutionary troops.

REVOLT SPREADS

Large cities in Argentina, such as Rosano, Santa Fe, and Santiago, yesterday hailed the revolution which successfully overthrew the Yrigoyen régime. The provisional government appointed military governors for seven of the 14 states.

ROW IN PANAMA

BY GERALD MARTIN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Sept. 7.—Panama's political pot boiled over this morning when the rumors of dissension in the cabinet were followed by the statement that three of the five cabinet ministers had submitted their resignations to President Arosemena. They are Minister of the Treasury T. G. Duque, Minister of Foreign Affairs J. D. Arosemena, the president's brother, and Secretary of State Adreiano Robles.

The Panama congress, or national assembly, is now in session and has bitterly attacked Minister of Education Jeptha B. Duncan and demands his resignation. He refuses to quit. Mr. Duncan's father was an American colonel.

Duncan President's Cousin.

Mr. Duncan is also President Arosemena's cousin, and the other cabinet minister, Luis Felipe Clement, who is in charge of public works, is supporting him.

The trouble is purely political. Former President Chiari is at the head of the Liberal party now in control, and Mr. Duncan's newspaper, Tiempos, is attacking him daily, so Señor Ciari demands he be dismissed.

President Arosemena gathered the congressmen at his palace and suggested that they support his plan to curtail public expenditures by reducing the wages of government employés, scaling these reductions from 10 per cent to 30 per cent.

The latter would include congressmen and cabinet ministers, but not the president and the judiciary.

The legislators ignored the president's demand and protested against Duncan appearing in the chamber to present his biennial report.

PERU RELEASES TWO AMERICANS JAILED BY REBELS

Flyer and Engineer Still Face Court Trial.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—Lieutenant Commander Harold D. Grow, American naval reserve officer jailed by the Peruvian revolutionary government a week ago and threatened with court-martial proceedings, has been ordered released from prison, the state department was informed today. The same telegram stated that Charles W. Sutton, another American citizen arrested by the revolutionary junta, also would be set free.

In releasing the two prisoners the Peruvian junta stipulated both Americans should be liable for legal proceedings on such charges as may be brought against them. State department officials expressed gratification over the action of the Peruvian officials.

Given Strong Aid by U. S.

The release of the two Americans followed vigorous action on the part of American diplomatic officers at Lima. Immediately following the receipt of word in Washington that Lieutenant Commander Grow had been arrested, Ferdinand L. Mayer, acting chief of the American diplomatic mission, was directed to take all necessary measures to effect his release. He went to Peru as member of the American naval mission assigned there to help ex-President Leguia reorganize the Peruvian navy. Later he severed his official connection with the mission and was engaged by the president as organizer of his air forces.

REVOLT WON BY RADIO

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 7.—The details of the machinery behind the recent successful revolt lead by Lieut. Col. Sanchez Cerro are now coming to light and mark the revolution as the first in Peruvian history in which radio and aviation played a predominant part.

While regiments remained in their barracks and warships at their bases, airplanes operating from Lima and Arequipa were being used as the key factors in the situation. At the same time telegraph lines were cut, cable lines were under censorship, and regular mail channels under control, radio telegraph keys clicked away, performing the essential communication work of the day.

Lieut. Col. Cerro was far ahead of his opponents in the appreciation of the possibilities of radio in such operations. It is now known that almost from the moment of the raising of the standard of revolt at Arequipa Lieut. Col. Cerro was in direct and constant communication with his supporters in Lima and was better informed of the actual situation there than the government officials here.

Appreciated Worth of Radio.

At many different points radio operators in his service were conveying him accurate news of developments in the south. To reach his objective Lieut. Col. Cerro seized a radio station at Cachendo, near Arequipa, changed its wave length on a prearranged plan, and was thus able to establish undetected code communication with Lima.

The possibility of receiving or tapping essential information through this source was apparently completely disregarded by the officials in charge here. Another noteworthy fact is that one of the first acts of Lieut. Col. Cerro has been the installation of a wireless station at the government palace.

Uruguay Severs Relations.

LIMA, Peru, Sept. 7.—(AP)—It was learned unofficially today that the Uruguayan legation intends to withdraw from the country and will leave for Montivedeo Wednesday. The motive has not been learned. Meanwhile the Cuban minister will take care of Uruguayan interests.

Ex-Bank Head and Girl Will Go on Trial Today

Elmer Langguth, former president of the defunct State Bank of Maywood, and his cashier, Laverne Lindgren, will go on trial before Judge Otto Kerner in the Criminal court today. They are charged with having taken more than $173,000 of the bank's funds. Although they will probably be tried on charges of conspiracy, they are also under indictment for embezzlement, receiving deposits while the bank was insolvent, making false statements to examiners, and forgery.

FIND KEY TO GOLD ROOM ON SUNKEN STEAMER IN SAFE

BREST, France, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The key to the bullion room containing $5,000,000 in gold ingots, which sank with the liner Egypt in 1922 off the French coast, was found today in the safe used by the liner's captain.

The safe, brought up last week by divers working for an Italian salvage company, was opened today by experts. Among other things found were a half rotted mail bag, containing British government letters, and documents addressed to various British consulates. The log book was not found.

However, while the salvage company now has the key to the bullion room, it still is a long way from the room itself. Much work remains to be done, including the blasting through a deck. The weather has steadily grown worse so that the divers fear that work may have to be abandoned for the year.

BUILDINGS FALL AS NEW QUAKE HITS CITY IN ITALY

MELFI, Italy, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A brief but sharp earthquake shock was felt here at 10:40 p. m. yesterday. Several buildings, already damaged by the quake of July 23, were knocked down. Residents rushed to the streets in panic, but no one was injured. A quake was also felt there Friday. A shock, accompanied by rumblings, was felt in this northern town in the was no damage, but the people, fearful of a catastrophe, spent the night outdoors.

Quake Felt in North Italy.

TOLMEZZO, Italy, Sept. 7.—(AP)—An earthquake shock of three seconds' duration, preceded by rumblings, was felt i nthis northern town in the Undine region shortly before midnight. There was no damage, but considerable panic ensued among the inhabitants of Tolmezzo and near-by villages.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, Sept. 7.—(AP)—This old city of the new world, which basked calmly in the warm tropical sun of last Sunday, today spent another period of horror in seeking out the bodies of Wednesday's hurricane dead and burying or incinerating those already removed.

Troops stood sternly on guard over the food and medical supplies rushed here as relief workers sought under the debris of wood, stone, and mortar for those who are swelling the great toll of dead.

Fire Pistols for Dead.

When a body is found a pistol shot is fired into the air, and the shots are heard frequently. So far the death toll is estimated at 4,000, with a promise that the number will be increased when all are accounted for.

Meanwhile, the relief expeditions from Porto Rico, Cuba, and Haiti have taken charge and are feeding the hungry and treating the ill.

The Dominican capital is still without lights, water, electric power, and gas. It is also a city of unsheltered. The night again hundreds of men and women were trying to sleep in the street cathedral where Christopher Columbus was believed to have been buried.

Fear Danger of Epidemic.

Washington, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A cablegram from the marine corps officers in charge informed the American Red Cross tonight that the city of Santo Domingo was virtually isolated except by air and that there was danger of an epidemic breaking out in the hurricane torn city.

The cablegram said: "Intend to send field hospital. Dredge sunk in Ozama River in flood. Asama bridge down. Ships cannot land. Cargo boats cannot penetrate river. Bridges down and roads out from Azua to capital. City practically isolated except by air. Apparently no immediate alteration of conditions possible.

"Great water and food shortage. Various estimates of killed 1,000 to 1,500. Wounded, 5,000 to 10,000.

"Great danger of epidemic. Army functioning well and in complete control. No disorder. Otherwise people sound and do not fully appreciate serious sanitary situation.

Tents for 3,000 Arrive.

At the same time Capt. Antonio Fiss, manager of the Red Cross chapter of Porto Rico, directing relief operations in Santo Domingo, cabled national headquarters:

"Medical personnel from Porto Rico arrived with medical supplies, some clothing, a few food supplies, landing with great difficulty. Dr. Fernos immediately visited the president and minister of health, offering services, which were accepted and units started to work Sunday morning.

"Tentage enough for 3,000 landed, also cots and blankets, all to be turned over to Dominican government. Food and additional clothing arriving today aboard S. S. Catherine from Porto Rico. As soon as available will be distributed.

Repairing Water System.

"I saw personally the executives of the Dominican Red Cross and gave them American Red Cross plans for disaster relief, which they are following now. Minister Curtis has formed relief committee which is functioning.

"Porto Rican engineers, together with Dominican government engineers, are repairing the water system and water will be available within a few days. I am advised greatest need now, tentage, cots, blankets."

Throngs Greet French Flyers in Capital; See Hoover Today

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—America's capital tonight was host to the French trans-Atlantic flyers, Dieudonne Coste and Maurice Bellonte, after giving them upon their arrival the most tumultuous reception since that for Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in 1927.

As if trying to outdo the Paris demonstration for Lindbergh, ten thousand Washingtonians turned out at Bolling field to greet the Frenchmen and cheered them wildly as they climbed out of their red and silver sesquiplane, The Question Mark, in which they flew from New York this afternoon. Thousands more acclaimed them as they rode to the French embassy, where they were guests tonight.

Many Notables Attend.

Tomorrow a series of honors awaits the airmen, including a personal greeting by President Hoover at the White House and a banquet by the Washington board of trade, to which Lindbergh, Byrd, and other notables of aviation have been invited.

Unwilling to divert attention from the French visitors, both of the famous American flyers, who were asked accompany them on their flight to to Washington, declined to do so, Col. Lindbergh explaining that "the whole show belongs to them."

Leading an escort of six army planes, the Question Mark slipped out of the low hanging clouds over the capital twenty minutes before five o'clock, the time scheduled for their landing.

Crowd Crashes Ropes.

Breaking over the ropes held by a hundred soldiers, a large part of the crowd swarmed out on the field, and all but drowned out the army band playing the "Marseillaise" with their shouting. Cameramen and several of the reception committee were engulfed in the crowd.

George Akerson, secretary to the President, and Jules Henry, charge d'affaires of the French embassy, greeted Coste and Bellonte as they threw off their flying helmets and clambered to the ground. M. Henry embraced and kissed them both. To Mr. Akerson, Coste said, in French:

"I am most grateful to your President for sending you to greet us and I wish that you should extend to him our felicitations."

At noon tomorrow morning the flyers will be presented to President Hoover by M. Henry and the President will give them the famous tricolor flag carried over the south pole by Rear Admiral Byrd as a token of friendship from the American to the French people.

Earlier in the day they will visit Arlington cemetery and lay a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier.

FRANCES WHITE PROMISES COURT TO PAY TAXI FARE

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Frances White, musical comedy star, who touched the high spots in salary just a few years ago, pleaded guilty in court to a charge of disorderly conduct, the result of not being able to pay a $3.50 taxi fare. She was given a suspended sentence after she explained who she was and promised to raise the required funds within three days.

Miss White admitted that at present she is unemployed, and that she has run down the scale of funds. The court record, she said, told the story of her present financial standing.

Miss White said she received a divorce from Clinton T. Donnelly, New York broker, several months ago in Chicago.

HAWKS DENIES CALLING COSTE FLIGHT FOOLISH

Curtiss Airport, Valley Stream, L. I., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Capt. Frank Hawks, who flew here today from Chicago especially to see the French airmen and to correct a statement credited to him, saw them take off for Washington.

"I was quoted as saying that I regarded the great flight of Coste and Bellonte as foolish," Capt. Hawks said. "That is incorrect. I have said in the past that I did think it was foolish to expect regular trans-oceanic air transport in land planes and that it was foolish to say that the great feat of good flyers could be called an immediate forerunner of trans-Atlantic transport in heavier than air machines."

Capt. Coste and Bellonte assured Capt. Hawks that they had not taken seriously the statement attributed to him.

GIRL DIES; YOUTH BURNED IN FIRE RESCUE EFFORT

A 9 year old girl was suffocated and a man who carried her from her second story bedroom was severely burned in a fire which destroyed the frame restaurant and dwelling of Alexander Kuchinskas at Keene avenue and 83d street, Willow Springs, yesterday morning. The dead girl was his stepdaughter, Mamie Palonia.

Kuchinskas, his wife, Mary, and their son, Tony, 12, were hosts to Mrs. Anna Jasas, 4350 Honore street, her son, John, 24, and Albert Urban, 2931 West 40th street. The diners were startled by the screams of Mamie, whom they believed was sleeping. They found the upper floor enveloped in flames.

Lavergne Lamb, 21 years old, 7400 Archer avenue, Justice, attendant at a nearby oil station, secured a ladder and mounted to the girl's room. He was burned on the arms and shoulders in bringing the girl to the ground. Dr. J. J. Prendergast, who was summoned, said that the girl had died of suffocation, as she was but slightly burned.

The structure was entirely destroyed. The damage was estimated at $3,000 by the Summit fire department.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LJUBLJANA [Laibach], Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 7.—Learning from their own private sources of the execution of the four Jugo-Slav autonomists in Trieste, Italy, yesterday despite the Jugo-Slav government's censorship of the news in order to prevent anti-Italian mob violence, students today staged a demonstration in this Slovene capital. Scores of students and policemen were injured. The government's censorship was more effective in Belgrade, where the population is still unaware of the executions.

HARMONICA TUNE LEADS TO JAIL AND THEN OUT AGAIN

Eugene Monroe, a gray haired hobo, may or may not have established a nonstop endurance record on the harmonica yesterday. Anyway, he played his way in and out of the Evanston jail in six hours of harmony.

Gene was blaring a lively march when a policeman led a parade to the station. There, out of the rain, Gene began a concert which ran a gamut of arias and ballads. For five hours he exhaled music.

At the end of that period six fellow prisoners set up a howl that drowned his efforts and roused Lieut. Frank Weideling. The prisoners demanded humane treatment. Lieut. Weideling guided Gene to the door.

"You ain't heard nothing yet," Gene protested.

"Don't you blow that until you pass the city limits or we'll never let you in here again," Weideling warned.

POLICEMAN GETS A BEAT TO TEACH HIM POLITENESS

As a lesson in politeness Patrolman Ralph Catanese will begin walking a beat in Austin today. He was assigned to that district from the detective bureau, where he had been the chauffeur of a bureau squad.

On Friday Catanese parked in front of the police headquarters in South State street. A man asked him to move up so that he could park.

"What for?" Catanese asked.

"Because I said so," was the answer.

"Go peddle beer," Catanese retorted. "Who are you?"

The man introduced himself as First Deputy Commissioner James Scanlon. Acting Commissioner Alcock had appointed Scanlon to succeed him when he took charge of the department. Scanlon was then a sergeant.

An apology was spurned. Acting Commissioner Alcock issued the transfer order with the explanation that Catanese had failed to obey the order demanding politeness on the part of policemen.

SENATE RADICALS TO FIGHT SEATING MRS. M'CORMICK

Hope Nye Inquiry Will Prejudice Public.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Senate radicals are passing out the definite word that they will oppose the seating of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick if she is elected United States senator from Illinois. They are looking to Senator Gerald P. Nye [Rep., N. D.], the radical chairman of the senatorial campaign fund investigating committee to build up a case against her.

The radicals do not claim that any evidence of the improper use of funds in Mrs. McCormick's campaign has been disclosed. They say merely that she has spent a lot of money and accordingly should be barred from the senate. They are said to believe that if the question is agitated sufficiently and that if wide publicity is given the investigations of the Nye committee, which is to resume hearings in Chicago on Sept. 15, the public will get the impression that something is wrong and senators will find it to their political advantage to vote to deny her a seat.

Hope to Elect Lewis.

It is the belief of the radicals that the Democrats will join in the move to keep Mrs. McCormick out of the senate. Just at present, however, the Democrats are thinking more of the possibility of electing their own nominee, James Hamilton Lewis. Until Mrs. Lottie Holman O'Neill, independent dry candidate, entered the field Democrats at national headquarters had not had much hope of defeating Mrs. McCormick, the regular Republican nominee. Now they think Mrs. O'Neill may draw off enough dry Republican votes from Mrs. McCormick to enable former Senator Lewis to win.

The activities of the Nye committee represent a new phase of senatorial inquiries into campaign expenditures and reflect the increased power of the radicals. Formerly, committees were created to investigate specific charges of improper use of money. This was the case when two different committees were named by the senate to investigate the charge that William Lorimer had bought his seat as United States senator from Illinois by bribing members of the legislature in the days prior to the direct election of senators. Mr. Lorimer was expelled from the senate in 1912 following the investigation of the second committee.

Investigate Newberry Case.

The election of Truman Newberry as a senator from Michigan in 1918 was investigated by a senatorial committee as a result of charges of excessive use of money.

Again a special committee was created to investigate charges involving the nominations of Frank L. Smith in the Republican primary in Illinois and William S. Vare in the Republican primary in Pennsylvania in 1926.

In 1928, for the first time, the senate created a special committee in advance of primaries or elections for the purpose of keeping an eye on campaign expenditures. That committee was interested more in the presidential contest than in senatorial fights. This year the Nye committee was created for a similar purpose.

No Charges of Corruption.

No one has charged in the present situation that there is anything in the use of money by Mrs. McCormick which is comparable to the Lorimer case, where votes were said to have been bought, or to the Smith case, in which campaign contributions by public utility magnates figured, or to the Vare case, in which corruption at the polls was a factor.

The McCormick case most closely resembled the Newberry case, in which the senate did not expel the Michigan senator, but compromised on the adoption by a vote of 46 to 41 of a resolution declaring that the amount expended in his campaign was excessive. The resolution said nothing about corruption, nothing about the uses to which the money was put, and nothing about the sources from which it came. Mr. Newberry spent about $195,000, or less than the amount paid by Mrs. McCormick to finance her state-wide primary campaign.

The Democrats and radicals made the Newberry case an issue and four years later were able to boast that 19 Republican senators who had voted to seat Newberry had been defeated for renomination or reelection.

DEER, TO AVOID BEING SHOT, MUST KEEP AWAY FROM RIFLE RANGES

Peekskill, N. Y., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—A deer roamed upon dangerous ground at the rear of the Camp Smith range here today and was killed by a soldier's bullet that missed a target.

Not long after National Guardsmen had finished target practice the deer was found dead in the brush. The camp authorities notified Game Warden Douglas Heady.

Although this is not the season when shooting deer is permissible, Mr. Heady said he had no fault to find.

A deer, he said, should look after itself, at least to the extent of keeping away from rifle ranges.

SPANISH GENERAL STRIKE ENDS; KING VISITS RIOT CITY

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 7.—(AP)—With the general strike ended as suddenly as it had flared up, this city was tranquil today—the first day of the presence of the king, the queen, and the royal entourage for the summer court season.

The strike, which had resulted in numerous riots, was settled late last night, the strike committee agreeing to call off demonstrations and the civil authorities consenting to the release of demonstrators who had been arrested. The city has resumed its normal aspect; the swarms of extra police have been withdrawn.

King Alfonso received his greatest satisfaction in greeting his son, the Prince of Asturias, who had just returned from his first trip abroad. The prince's health has shown much improvement in the last six months. It is said this may have an important bearing on Spanish political developments, a Republican argument being that his succession to the throne was improbable because of his health.

LEGION TO MAP DRY REPEAL ACTION AT STATE LEGION MEETING

Resolutions advocating repeal of the 18th amendment and recommending the establishment of a separate branch of the federal government for the air corps as the first line of national defense are among 98 proposals to be considered by the 12th annual convention of the Illinois department of the American Legion, which will open in Aurora this morning.

Another resolution proposes the adoption of a mooring mast for dirigibles to the equipment of the Chicago Municipal airport. Immigration restrictions and additional legislation for war veterans' pensions are other questions to be considered by the Legionaires when the resolutions committee reports tomorrow.

Expect 100,000 to See Parade.

Officials have made preparations for handling a crowd of 100,000 along the streets of Aurora this afternoon during the annual Legion parade which headlines the opening day's program. Streets and sidewalks throughout Aurora's business district were crowded all day yesterday, with only about half of the convention delegates and visitors in town. It was estimated that 45,000 saw the parads of the Forty and Eight society Saturday night, and buses, trains, and automobiles entering Aurora yesterday carried additional visitors.

The program of preliminary activities during the day included a tour of Moosehaert and a luncheon in honor of Gold Star mothers. Last night Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom addressed a joint session of the Legion and the auxiliary. Nearly every Aurora pulpit was occupied yesterday morning by Legionnaires who took the pastors' places with sermons on the Legion's purposes and ideals.

Forty and Eight Elects Officers.

New officers of the Forty and Eight were chosen yesterday, Edward T. Schuessler of Joliet succeeding E. H. Burns of Champaign as the grand chef de gare. A. C. Larson of Springfield was named grand chef de train. Delegates to the grand national voiture in Boston next month are Mathew Murphy and James White of Chicago, and Richard Cordosi of Springfield.

The women's auxiliary of the Forty and Eight elected Mrs. Mabel B. Pantelis of Chicago as le chapeau. Margaret Lenoi of Lombard and Gail S. Searle of Rock Island were chosen as les demi chapeaux. Thelma Tickner of Alton was named la surintendante.

Two Seek Commander's Post.

Fence B. Orr of Joliet and Arthur G. Poorman of Chicago Heights oppose each other in the race to succeed Edward A. Hayes of Decatur as department commander. In the women's organization, Mrs. A. B. Middleton of Pontiac is unopposed for the presidency, now held by Mrs. G. M. Kellogg Jr. of Chicago.

No opposition confronts Mrs. C. H. Bartling of Rockford for the first vice presidency, but three women seek the second vice presidency—Mrs. William Noble of Galesburg, Mrs. Harry Mahoney of Alton, and Mrs. Melville Mucklestone of Chicago.

Commander Hayes will call the convention to order at 9 a. m. today, and Mayor Charles Greene will welcome the visitors. The morning will be given over to speeches and among the speakers are Maj. Gen. Milton J. Foreman, Maj. Gen. Roy D. Keehn, Rear Admiral Walter Crosley, and Mrs. Van Scott Seybert, national vice president of the Legion auxiliary.

PRIZE FLOWERS EXHIBITED

Flowers Men Grow

The annual fall exhibit of the Men's Garden club continued yesterday at Garfield park. The show has attracted many visitors. Every flower in the display was grown in an open garden by amateur gardeners. In most cases the flowers were grown by business and professional men. The exhibit features gladioli, dahlias, and lilies.

Disabled War Vet Leaps to Death Beneath Train

Edward Forsberg, 41 years old, 730 East 104th street, a disabled war veteran, was killed yesterday when he leaped into the path of a South Shore electric train at 104th street. The motorman, Edward Milhouse of Michigan City, applied the brakes when he saw Forsberg jump, but the latter was struck before the train could be stopped. The police believe that he committed suicide because of ill health.

40,000 POLES CRY HATE AT BERLIN IN BORDER ROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POZNAN, Poland, Sept. 7.—Forty thousand persons assembled in the Liberty square of Poznan at noon today in the greatest protest meeting in history, demonstrating against Germany's reported intention to influence the allies to revise the Polish frontier. It was the first time since the 1926 revolution that all parties have assembled under a mutual banner. Former Foreign Vice Minister Seyde, Marshal Pilsudski's bitter opponent, spoke from the same platform with ardent Pilsudski supporters.

AGENTS WARNED NOT TO SHOOT IN LIQUOR CHASES

Dry Officers Schooled in Deportment.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock's efforts to convince the public that he intends to stop violence in dry law enforcement were further emphasized today when the full text of the lectures being delivered to his school for agents was made public.

While page after page of the manuscripts prepared by Attorney Webster Spates and Field Supervisor Harry M. Dengler, instructors, are devoted to such topics as "The Rights of Citizens," "Sanctity of the Home," and "Search and Seizure Without Warrant," only one short passage in a lecture by Mr. Spates deals with the use of firearms. In this passage agents are warned against shooting.

"Self-Defense" Excepted.

"Except in self-defense an officer has no right to proceed to the extremity of shedding blood in arresting or in preventing the escape of one whom he has arrested for an offense less than a felony, even though the offender cannot be taken otherwise, a distinction being recognized in this respect between arrest for misdemeanor and arrests for felonies," Mr. Spates stated.

"Some courts have taken a contrary view, but the weight of authority seems to support this view. Of course you know that most of the prohibition violations are misdemeanors and you should be governed accordingly.

"Even in cases of felonies where the law attempts to justify an officer in killing in an attempt to arrest, you should bear in mind that the necessity for the killing is a question of fact for the jury, and should you be so unfortunate as to kill under the circumstances, even though you feel justified, you are reasonably certain of being put upon trial, for at least manslaughter, and it is in most cases difficult to justify your acts before a jury."

Deletes Passage About Boys.

Attorney Spates' warning is in line with several statements of policy by Director Woodcock declaring that agents must use firearms only for defense and with his plan to place shields on agents' automobiles to protect motorists. It also recalled the director's action in deleting from one of the Dengler lectures a passage advising the use of boys as dry spies.

NOTE IN CAN MAY BE CLEW TO 31 YEAR OLD MYSTERY OF THE SEA

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A message given up by the sea Saturday at St. Petersburg, Fla., may be a clew in the 31 year old mystery as to the fate of the crew of the Commodore of Philadelphia.

The message, contained in a rusted tin can, which fell apart when handled, read:

"March 21, 1899.

"Send help at once. Our ship, the Commodore, was wrecked two weeks ago; send help at once. Longitude 83; latitude 91.

Commend Cop Who Killed Bandit in Store Holdup

Capt. Paul Wheeler of the Wabash avenue police station will recommend Patrolman Young Hummer, colored, for honorable mention. Saturday evening as he passed a shoe store at 349 East 47th street he saw M. B. Fine, the proprietor, being held up by a colored bandit. He ordered the bandit to drop his gun. The bandit whirled about, but before he could fire, Hummer shot him. The bandit died, unidentified.

SIMON W. STRAUS, PIONEER REALTY FINANCIER, DEAD

Rose to Banking Fame in Chicago.

the first bond issue was made that type of financing by Mr. Straus' company has amounted to more than one billion dollars. The business grew to enormous proportions, with branches in 50 cities and with 1,000 employés in those branches.

Founded Chicago Banks.

In 1911 Mr. Straus founded the Franklin Trust Company and Savings bank in Chicago, and in 1928 he established the Straus National Bank and Trust company of Chicago. He retained the presidency of these banks until his death. He also organized the Ambassador Hotels system and was its first president.

The Chicago home of S. W. Straus & Co., a 32 story skyscraper, represents a cost of twelve million dollars.

In 1915 Mr. Straus founded the American Society for Thrift and wrote weekly articles on the subject of thrift, which appeared in newspapers throughout the country.

Noted for Philanthropy.

Mr. Straus participated actively in charity work in Chicago and New York.

In recognition of his interest in charitable work in France he was made a chevalier of the Legion of Honor on Dec. 30, 1927.

Mr. Straus was married April 25, 1893, to Miss Hattie Klee of Pittsburgh, Pa. He is survived by his widow, and three daughters, Mrs. Herbert S. Martin, Mrs. Louise Celestin, and Mrs. Vladimir S. Rachevsky of New York, and two brothers, S. J. T. Straus, and Arthur Straus of Chicago.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at Temple Emanuel. Interment will be in Cypress Hills cemetery, Brooklyn.

Blood Volunteers Asked to Save Life of Interne

Bay City, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Physicians at Mercy hospital here have appealed to the public in an effort to save the life of one of the internes who is suffering from granulocytic angia. The only certain cure for the malady is a blood transfusion from a former sufferer of the disease who has recovered from it. The physicians have been unable to find such a patient and are appealing to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for aid. Any one having information which will be of aid is asked to telegraph Dr. W. J. Gamble Jr., pathologist at the hospital. The subject's expenses will be cared for.

HOLD UP SOUTH SHORE SHOP.

As David Saper, owner of a dress shop at 2104 East 71st street, was about to close shop on Saturday night, two armed men entered and took $250 from the cash register.

HUSBAND TO FACE COURT TODAY ON SLAYING CHARGE

Watson W. Moore, 38 years old, an accountant, of 9722 Winston avenue, charged by the police with the murder of his wife, May, 46 years old, will be arraigned this morning before Municipal Judge John Sbarbaro in Felony court. His case, it is expected, will be continued pending a completion of poison tests on the body.

Capt. James L. Mooney of the Gresham police ordered the murder charge placed on Saturday following the finding of a bottle, believed to have contained poison, hidden in Mrs. Moore's workbasket. Moore admitted, the police said, that he once suggested to his wife that she poison herself. Moore refused to testify at the inquest.

Moore still declined to discuss the case yesterday when he was visited in his cell by Police Lieuts. Roger Murphy and John McCarthy. "I've talked too much already," was his reply to all questions. Moore several years ago spent several months as an inmate of an insane hospital, Capt. Mooney learned.

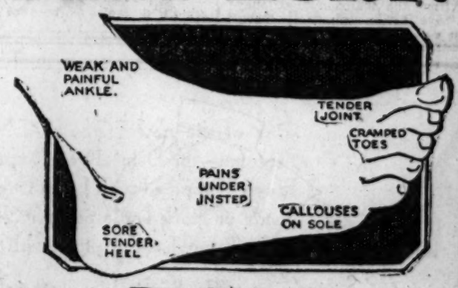
FEET HURT?



Dr. Scholl's
METHODS WILL MAKE THEM COMFORTABLE

Seven persons in every ten have some form of foot trouble. It may be weak or broken-down arches, weak ankles, corns, callouses, or bunions—possibly a case of tired, aching, painful feet. Regardless of what may be the nature of your suffering, you will find quick and permanent relief at Dr. Scholl's Foot Comfort Shop.

Foot Comfort Experts to Serve You

This shop is in charge of experienced experts who have been trained under the supervision of Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, noted Foot Expert. Quickly, and without removing the hose, they will make a Pedo-graphic print of your feet that show the nature and extent of your foot trouble. They will recommend the correct, individually adjusted Dr. Scholl Appliance or the Dr. Scholl Remedy that will give comfort and relief. You are also given valuable advice as to the style and size of shoe which your foot requires for perfect freedom and comfort.

There is no charge or obligation for this service, and if you decide to employ the methods recommended, you will find the expense very small.

16,000 WOMEN LAUNCH BALLOT WAR ON DRY LAW

Prepare for Senatorship Fight in Illinois.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

An organized force of Illinois women now numbering sixteen thousand, and growing daily, will take part in this autumn's campaign for the election of an anti-prohibition United States senator and repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

They are members of the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

"If Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick abides by her decision to keep silent on the most important issue before the American people, our organization will not be sympathetic toward her candidacy for the United States senatorship.

Membership Equal to W. C. T. U.

"The Illinois branch of the W. O. N. P. R. has today reached a membership equalling that of the Women's Christian Temperance union in Illinois.

"By energetic work we have acquired that membership within the last four months. The W. C. T. U. has been functioning in Illinois for more than half a century.

"We are now definitely organized in thirty-six of the one hundred and two Illinois counties and we have individual adherents in all of them. This work is going forward steadily, but it will not be finished by election day, because we are organizing on the basis of ten years and a long hard fight.

"In the last ten days alone we have enrolled twelve hundred and thirty-eight members from all over Illinois.

Plan First Campaign Action.

"Our first step toward active participation in the impending campaign will be the appointment next Wednesday by our executive committee of three delegates who will be empowered to formulate with committees from the Crusaders and the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment plans and policies for the campaign. That conference will take place Sept. 15 in Chicago. Prospects for united action are bright."

News of the most effective action which the W. O. N. P. R. has yet taken is only now coming out. That action was their participation in a long and private midnight conference at the executive mansion in Springfield with Illinois Republican leaders the night before the state convention of Aug. 22.

Present on behalf of the W. O. N. P. R. were Mrs. Clifford Rodman and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler. They represented the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment as well as their own organization. The Republican leaders present were Gov. Emmerson, Senator Glenn, Speaker of the House Shanahan, Mrs. McCormick, B. W. Snow, and Cornelius J. Doyle.

Women Called to Conference.

The women were informed by telephone from the mansion that they could have fifteen minutes. Their purpose was to urge upon the leaders the incorporation in the Republican state platform of a resolution demanding repeal of the eighteenth amendment, as the Democratic state platform demands.

Mrs. Rodman and Mrs. Wheeler were listened to intently by the leaders and frequently were cross-examined.

The allotted fifteen minutes ran to two hours, "and even then," one of the delegates reports, "we were not dismissed, but excused ourselves."

At the close of the conference Senator Glenn—more or less a dry—said to the women:

"I am half with you. I think your organization should have been formed long ago."

Aided by Chairman Snow.

At first Mrs. Rodman and Mrs. Wheeler had thought that they would be heard only in a routine way by the resolutions committee of the convention. What they achieved was the two hour hearing by the politicians who were deciding the night before what the resolutions committee should do in the morning. The long hearing was due to the good offices of Mr. Snow, Cook county chairman of the Republican party who did not wish the convention to make a dry reaffirmation and who asked the W. O. N. P. R. delegation to support his demand for a resolution for a referendum.

Later he wrote to the organization. "As we were working with the same object in view, permit me to say that the appearance of your committee at Springfield was of material help to me in accomplishing the result for which I was laboring."

The conference was so emphatically private that not a line about it was sent out by the Springfield correspondents.

Meet Evasionist Officials.

Members of the organization say they have encountered amazing evasions and tergiversations by some men in public life, who declare themselves sympathetic to their cause but fear to come out against Volsteadism. One of them is a man of large fortune, who sees to it that the least of the women's worries is the rent for their spacious headquarters at 700 North Michigan avenue.

These headquarters were opened on May 12 and in them the work of state organization is directed. It has comprised building up of membership, perfecting of a speakers' bureau, and response to requests by women's clubs and women's labor unions for speakers.

Scores of speakers have been sent out and all were well received, except in Winnetka, where they were heckled.

The Lake Bluff Campaign.

Responses to the campaign for members in districts reputed dry often astonishes the organizers. Mrs. Stanley Field, chairman of the Lake Bluff committee, was told by neighbors, "O, you'll never get anywhere in Lake Bluff—it's dry!"

There are three hundred and four women voters in Lake Bluff.

Mrs. Field now reports a Lake Bluff membership in the W. O. N. P. R. of two hundred and forty-four.

In their work of recruiting members and shaping policies the women say they are avoiding all partisan affiliations and making it clear that they stand definitely for repeal of the eighteenth amendment as being "the parent of intemperance, tyranny, corruption, disorder, and contempt for all laws."

They have declined invitations from both the major parties to sit as delegates in state conventions.

Volunteers Perform Tasks.

A large amount of the work done at 700 North Michigan is undertaken by volunteers, among whom are Mrs. George E. Brennan, Mrs. William Mitchell, Mrs. Helen Cudahy Niblack, Mrs. Leslie Wheeler, Mrs. Alice McCormick, Mrs. Clifford Rodman, Mrs. Ellen Stearns Ament, Mrs. Darrow Fulton, and Mrs. Vincent Healy.

Their salaried aids are Mrs. Harvey Tyler, director in the Women's City club, and a typist and a filer.

Special acknowledgement is made by her colleagues of Mrs. Brennan's work. "Without her," said Mrs. Niblack, "this organization would have folded its tent and faded away in the first week of its existence. She has taken charge of ward organization and has traveled through the state to assist county chairmen."

"The Voice of Labor," radio of the American Federation of Labor, gives the women ten minutes a week, and they have also been given time by W-G-N and KYW.

MRS. ELLA A. BOOLE, W. C. T. U. PRESIDENT, HERE FOR DRY PARLEY

Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president of the W. C. T. U., arrived in Evanston from Washington yesterday to confer with officers of the organization on plans for the W. C. T. U. convention to be held in Houston, Nov. 14 to 19. Mrs. Boole declined to comment on the Illinois political situation or to predict what attitude the association would take towards the prohibition referendum. The decision rests with Illinois officers of the W. C. T. U., she explained.

FRANK REYNOLD'S DETECTIVE SQUAD GETS EXTRA PAY

Sergt. Frank J. Reynolds, three times winner of THE TRIBUNE'S hero award, and members of his detective bureau squad yesterday were each awarded $300 extra compensation for the year by an order of Acting Commissioner Alcock commending them for exceptional service in July and August. The squad members are John J. McNamara, James I. Woulfe, John J. Manger, and Orin Ross. Among other exploits the squad captured a counterfeiter with $35,000 in $10 bills and three Negro bandits who confessed to 27 holdups.

Boy of 14 Disappears on His Way to School

Fourteen year old Allen Deering Odle, son of Mrs. Bessie Geagan, 6225 Dorchester avenue, has been reported to the police as missing since last Friday when he left home presumably to attend classes at the Walter Scott school. His teacher says he never appeared. He had neither hat nor coat. It is believed he may have tried to follow his grandmother, Mrs. J. R. Anderson, to Houston, Tex.

"Ten Years' Suffering—Now Bad Stomach Ended"

New Formula Acidine Brings Relief That No Other Remedy Could

"For ten years I have been suffering with a bad stomach and have taken everything under the sun but to no avail," says Harry G. Marks of Port Morris, N. J. "Then I tried Acidine. Up to date I have taken seven packages and can say that they have done me more good than everything I had taken in the past ten years." Take Acidine at the first sign of acidity or gas and get amazing relief where all other remedies fail. Acidine is entirely different from other remedies. Contains an effective starch digestant, Japtase, which promptly liquefies 800 times its own weight of starchy food, in laboratory tests. Five other scientific ingredients relieve burning acid, stop gas formation and soothe irritated stomach lining. Don't suffer burning, acid stomach, terrible pains before or after eating, belching, gas, bloating, heartburn, dizziness or short breath. Acidine stops pain and gas quickly and ends acid stomach trouble. Eat, drink, smoke what you want. Results guaranteed or money promptly refunded. Get Acidine from your druggist today or write Health Laboratories, Inc., Pittsburgh, Pa.

G. O. P. TO MEET TOMORROW TO NAME JUDGES

Snow Predicts Dry Law Repeal Platform.

The task of designing a platform for the fall campaign and of selecting candidates for the six vacancies on the Superior and Circuit court benches will be undertaken by Cook county Republicans tomorrow in their convention.

Bernard W. Snow, county chairman, said yesterday he expected the adoption of a platform in harmony with the state declaration adopted recently. He said, however, that the county convention "undoubtedly would take a positive stand against the income tax amendment" and probably would declare for the repeal of the 18th amendment and modification of the Volstead act.

The Republican convention also may choose a candidate to fill the vacancy on the county ticket caused by the withdrawal of Ald. Arthur Albert [43d] from the county commissioners' race. Mr. Snow said Mr. Albert had not formally resigned his nomination, and until this was done a successor would not be named. The convention is to be held at the Hotel Sherman.

Democrats Meet Thursday.

On Thursday the county Democratic organization convenes to select its candidates for the judgeship vacancies and to supplement its platform, adopted last April following the primaries. The Democrats also intend to pass a resolution against the income tax amendment, making the opposition unanimous in Cook county.

Michael L. Igoe, Democratic national committeeman for Illinois, said yesterday the convention might have an additional resolution regarding the prohibition question, criticizing the Republican attitude.

The Democrats have discussed their candidates for the judicial vacancies, and more than a dozen names have been mentioned by the party leaders in their survey of bench timber. Several of the prospects are present judges of the Municipal court, who include Frank M. Padden, Joseph Burke, Donald S. McKinley, Matthew D. Hartigan, and John J. Rooney. Another possible candidate is Everett Jennings, master in chancery and formerly attorney for the state utilities commission under Gov. Dunne.

Others Are Mentioned.

Among the others mentioned by the Democratic leaders are former Judge Charles A. McDonald, Ross Hall, Oak Park lawyer; William Friedman, Second ward leader; James Joseph Kelly, Walter Stanton, James Skinner of Beverly Hills, and Leo J. Doyle.

The six judges whose deaths left the vacancies were equally divided politically. The three Republicans were William N. Gemmill, Jesse Holdom, and Hugo Pam, each on the Superior bench; the Democrats were Frank D. Comerford and Jacob H. Hopkins of the Superior court, and Ira Ryner of the Circuit court. Gov. Emmerson provided that the special election to fill these vacancies be held in conjunction with the regular election Nov. 4.

The committee on candidates of the Chicago Bar association met last week with leaders of both the Democratic and Republican organizations, urging that candidates of proper character and qualifications be chosen by both parties.

Mention Several Republicans.

While the Republican leaders were hesitant to discuss their choices, it is known that among the aspirants for the Republican nominations are Judges George A. Curran and Edgar A. Jonas of the Municipal court; James W. Breen, first assistant corporation counsel, and Henry T. Chace, attorney who was defeated in the last judicial election.

Ald. William D. Meyering [8th], Democratic nominee for sheriff, issued his first formal statement of the campaign yesterday, pledging a renaissance of "old-fashioned homespun peace officer methods" in the sheriff's office if he is elected.

KIDNAPED ON EVE OF SUING GOVERNOR, HE'S BACK; GOES ON AIR

New Orleans, La., Sept. 7.—(AP)—A man who claimed to be Sam Irby, one of two men who disappeared from Shreveport last week as they were planning to file suits against Gov. Huey P. Long, spoke over the radio tonight from the governor's hotel suite and said he had asked to be spirited away.

The speaker said he found $2,500 under his pillow in a Shreveport hotel and had arranged his disappearance because he feared he would not be safe alone with the money. He said he did not know whether the money was placed under his pillow for something he had done or for something he was supposed to do.

The man speaking over the radio said he left Shreveport of his own free will. The speaker, who was introduced over the radio by Gov. Long, further said he had telephoned the governor today and had been advised to "slip into the hotel."

James Terrell, former husband of the governor's secretary, and Irby were together at Shreveport and both disappeared the same night. Irby that day had announced his intention of filing in court there a slander suit against the governor, who is opposing United States Senator Joseph E. Ransdell in Tuesday's Democratic primary.

JUDGE M'GOORTY TO RULE TODAY ON 2 JAILED GUNMEN

Trial of Frank Foster Is Due Tomorrow.

Chief Justice McGoorty of the Criminal court will give a decision today in the habeas corpus proceedings brought in behalf of two gangsters, Izzy Alderman and Joe Condi, who had been arrested as suspects in connection with the killing of Alfred Lingle and were sentenced under the vagrancy law to six months at hard labor in the Bridewell by Municipal Judge Lyle.

Another legal development of the Lingle case is scheduled for tomorrow before Judge Daniel P. Trude in the Criminal court. Frank Foster, member of the Aiello-Moran gang under indictment for the murder of Lingle and former owner of the gun which killed Lingle, will come up for trial.

Lyle Acts with Speed.

Alderman and Condi were sent to the rock pile last Wednesday when Judge Lyle waved aside their pleas to have their lawyer, Benjamin Feldman, present.

Chief Justice McGoorty previously had issued a writ of habeas corpus at Attorney Feldman's request. After Judge Lyle had passed sentence on the gangsters Chief Justice McGoorty declared the men should have been permitted the advice of counsel.

Foster Trial Due Tomorrow.

Foster was captured in California after a nation-wide search which followed his being named as the owner of the Lingle murder gun. Failing in his fight against extradition, Foster was brought back to Chicago. He was identified as the man who fled from the scene of the murder by Policeman Anthony Ruthy, who was directing traffic at Michigan avenue and Randolph street when Lingle was shot to death in the Illinois Central pedestrian subway and gave chase to the supposed slayer.

Foster's attorneys have subsequently appeared before Judge Trude demanding trial. They announced that successive demands would be made each month, explaining that if four demands for trial are made and the trial does not proceed Foster is entitled to discharge. Judge Trude set the trial for Sept. 9. It will begin tomorrow unless the state or Foster's counsel gains further delay.

HANGS HERSELF IN HOME.

Mrs. Anna Kamark, 38 years old, 4539 South Turner avenue, hanged herself yesterday from a beam in the attic of her home. Her husband, John, told the police she had been ill.

$55,725 IN REWARDS.

Rewards totaling $55,725 are offered for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alfred Lingle. Of the $25,000 reward offered by The Tribune $10,000 will be paid to any person who will give confidential information identifying the slayer of Lingle. All information should be sent to the headquarters established by State's Attorney Swanson in room 503 Temple building, 77 West Washington street. Telephone State 3729.

Self-Inflicted Gun Wound Is Fatal to Elgin Widow

Mrs. Irene Althen Bopp, 35 years old, who on Saturday shot herself in her home at 132 North Gifford street, Elgin, died last night in Sherman hospital. According to friends, Mrs. Bopp, who was a daughter of County Supervisor Louis Althen, had been despondent since the sudden death of her husband, L. T. Bopp, several months ago.

Logansport, Ind., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Charging that her son-in-law, Gerald Watts, entered her home in an intoxicated condition and destroyed 312 cans of fruit, Mrs. Lillian Baldwin has entered a suit in Circuit court to recover $200 damages from Watts.

Accept Ride in Stranger's Car; Lose $900 in Holdup

Two baseball fans, Charles Pirelli of 3141 South Wells street and Felix Smorowski of 5306 South California avenue, accepted a ride home with a stranger yesterday and thereby lost $900. They were motoring from the park with a new acquaintance known only as Pete, when, at Lake and Halsted streets, another car crowded Pete's to the curb. Three gunmen covered them and Pirelli handed over $500, Smorowski the remainder. The robbers took the keys from the car to block pursuit, and escaped.

RECORDS SHOW HOW U. S. BALKED JAPAN'S SCHEME

Stopped Chinese Grab by Loan Plan.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Details of the formation by the United States in 1918 of an international banking group to make loans to China as a means of protecting its sovereignty, menaced by the flow of Japanese gold secured by Chinese resources, were revealed today. The disclosure was made in correspondence compiled by the state department and published as the 1918 volume of "Papers Relating to Foreign Relations of the United States."

The papers reveal that the Wilson government was gravely concerned over the increasing number of loans made to China by Japanese interests. The loans were looked upon as a threat to the American "open door" policy and as a peril to the political entity of that country through Japanese control of her resources. The industrial funds were usually diverted to the military and politicians, the papers state.

United States Withdraws.

The papers disclose that the United States had withdrawn from the original six power consortium, formed to make loans to China, which included England, France, Japan, Russia and Belgium. According to the papers, Japan took advantage of this withdrawal early in the Wilson administration and the wartime period to establish its ascendancy in Chinese affairs.

As early as Feb. 12, 1918, Paul N. Reinsch, then American minister in China, pointed out, in communications to the state department, that Chinese independence was being injured by Japanese loans. In April of that year while China was ridden with internecine strife, he wrote:

"While any intention to interfere in Chinese affairs has been disavowed, nevertheless a loan of 14 million yen was made in January for the purpose of supplying the means for a large purchase of arms on the part of the central government. At the same time, however, relations were maintained with provincial authorities in the north and south and many loans were consummated."

Business Termed "Nefarious."

Again in October Mr. Reinsch wrote, "To stop this nefarious business . . . there must be complete and world-wide publicity. The Japanese government should understand without delay that the methods and aims of its present action in China are viewed with the severest disapproval and that the results of such action cannot be accepted on the basis that unconscionable or monopolist arrangements will have to be canceled and rightful relations established after the war in the joint interest of the Chinese people and the nations dealing with it."

The state department is said to have taken the initiative in forming a four power group, omitting Russia and Belgium, in a combine which has resulted in the stopping of all loans to China. The first step was the organization of American bankers which included the Continental Trust and Savings bank of Chicago, the Guaranty Trust company, and J. P. Morgan & Co.

No Loans Are Made.

Negotiations with foreign bankers followed. Difficult details were raised and the situation in China remained so disturbed that no loans were made and the matter remained quiescent. The purpose of the union, as outlined by Robert Lansing, then secretary of state, was to maintain Chinese sovereignty and preserve the "open door." Members in the union were required to relinquish options on loans then held, which clause was pointed at Japan. Mr. Lansing promised that Americans doing business abroad would have the prompt and vigorous support of the government. Communications from President Wilson are included, which hold for the protection of China.

Apart from the correspondence of the consortium, the 1918 volume of foreign relations is considered more remarkable for what its leaves out than what it releases. There is no reference to the Tacna-Arica dispute or to the Guatemalan-Honduran boundary dispute. Doubts have been expressed that the state department will facilitate the publication of diplomatic documents.

The 1917 volume was released four years ago, and it is two years since the 1915 volume was released. The 1916 supplement is still under lock and key.

MICHIGAN VOTE BATTLE CENTERS ON PROHIBITION

in Maine tomorrow is expected. Upon the size of the majorities of Representative Wallace H. White, the Republican senatorial nominee, and Gov. William T. Gardiner, Republican nominee for reelection, will depend the verdict of the rival political managers as to the significance of the election.

Four present United States senators besides Senator Blease are up for renomination during the week. They are Senator James Couzens, who is opposed by former Gov. Chase S. Osborn for the Republican nomination in Michigan; Senator J. E. Ransdell, who is opposed by Gov. Huey Long for the Democratic nomination in Louisiana; Senator Henry W. Keyes, who has no opposition for the Republican nomination in New Hampshire; and Senator W. J. Harris, who is opposed by former Gov. John B. Slaton for the Democratic nomination in Georgia. All of the present senators are regarded as having the advantage.

The primary contest which has attracted the most attention and which is surrounded with the greatest uncertainty is that in Colorado, where Senator L. C. Phipps [Rep.] did not seek renomination. William V. Hodges and George H. Shaw, the former having the Anti-Saloon league support, are seeking the Republican nomination, while E. P. Costigan, Morrison Shafroth, and J. P. Marsh are candidates for the Democratic nomination.

COURAGE THAT WILL BE REWARDED.

The president of the Pennsylvania railroad system, Mr. Elisha Lee, estimates that the railroads of this country are spending a billion dollars in improving their facilities, confident that economic recovery in the future will justify the expenditure now. To many business men today that announcement will carry the note of great daring.

That is the measure of their shortsightedness, their timidity and, above all, what the psychologists call their suggestibility. Any one with intelligence enough to direct any business enterprise must know, as Mr. Lee knows, that the slump cannot last much longer. There are signs already of its passing. There have been depressions in the past far more serious than the one which we have just experienced and they have been followed always and inevitably by periods of expansion and increased profits. Always the men who thought for themselves and dared to act on their independent judgment have profited by buying their capital improvements when prices were depressed, thus assuring a minimum overhead against future production. And always 99 per cent of those who waited for the bottom of the market, whether of goods or securities, waited too long. That is what has happened over and over again in the past and what is happening today.

The men who will wield influence and power in business ten or fifteen years from now are the men who today are not running with the pack. They know that the recovery cannot be long delayed. The stock market panic occurred in October and November, nearly a year ago. A year ago—just a month before the deluge—men were saying that we had entered definitely upon a new era. Any one who ventured the opinion that second rate stocks could not sell permanently on a 2 per cent basis was regarded as an old fogy. Today folly has run to the opposite extreme and any one, like Mr. Lee and his associates, with the courage to spend money wisely against future needs is regarded as a dare-devil. The herd mind has seldom displayed itself in a more contemptible light than it has in the last few years in this country.

All that can be said for running with the pack is that it is easy and comfortable. You don't have to think and you don't have to exert independent judgment and initiative. It should be added that the profits and satisfactions are pretty well adjusted to the effort put forth. Courage and persistence in the face of adversity have generally been well rewarded in this country and there is no slightest reason to suppose they will not be rewarded in the future as in the past.

A RECORD OF ACHIEVEMENT.

Two years ago the voters of Wisconsin elected a business man as governor. On Sept. 16 a primary will be held for a new gubernatorial term, with young Philip La Follette, representing the official dynasty, running against Gov. Kohler. The choice before the voters ought to be a foregone conclusion. Mr. La Follette is a smart young man with the La Follette machine behind him. But Gov. Kohler's two year administration has brought results which will assure his continuance in the service of the state if the voters of Wisconsin want the ablest administration of their public affairs. With the support of state officers and legislators in harmony with his constructive ideas he will be able to function even more effectively in his second term.

By creating a full time highway commission and budget department and by the consolidation of state branches and departments Gov. Kohler has achieved an amazing economy in state administration.

A score of bills passed on his recommendation express his real understanding of labor. Agriculture benefits through his knowledge of marketing as applied to the farm industry. He vetoed the Hitt tax bill because he knew it was needlessly burdensome and would have added 25 per cent to the income taxes of the man of modest means.

Within a few months he was able, through the help of the new budget law and by repealing appropriations, to overcome a deficit of $3,500,000 in the state's operating funds and leave an estimated accrued surplus of $500,000 in the treasury.

Gov. Kohler was elected as a conservative Republican, but he has gone far in advocating progressive measures. To this extent he has distanced his opponents on every issue presented.

He has been made to stand the brunt of reckless charges and irresponsible claims. He has been blamed for many things, from the latest Republican tariff to the drought, including the general economic conditions and the gangland murders.

When he agreed at the Green Bay convention two years ago to become the regulars' candidate to the highest office in the state he realized that he was assuming the risks of every candidate for public office—criticism, misrepresentation, and the attacks of ambitious, professional political enemies. Of the latter he has received more than the usually allotted share. His opponents' charges at times have come near to slander.

Gov. Kohler can well be proud to stand on his record of achievement. He defies his enemies and consoles himself with Lincoln's philosophy that you can't fool all of the people all of the time.

CRIMINAL HIDEOUTS.

Searching in Indiana for one of the men wanted in the investigation of the Lingle murder, Chicago detectives were informed that a band of notorious gangsters had been living in cottages at Bass Lake. It was reported that the widow of Diamond Joe Esposito, late politician and underworld boss, had been occupying one of the cottages and had recently been visited there by Capone.

The report is more than plausible, for city gangsters have of late been known to infest such resorts and Zuta was run down in one in Wisconsin and killed there. This new phase of criminal tactics should have the attention of the rural authorities. The mobility which the automobile has given criminals is one of the new difficulties city police have to deal with and the country police authorities should realize that they have a new responsibility to their own communities and a new duty to society to increase their vigilance in their territory and to coöperate more effectively with the city authorities for the control of malefactors who have invaded the country and use hitherto respectable places for concealment. City police cannot cover all such places within easy access by motor from the city and the local authorities should take over this duty and coöperate actively with them. By so doing criminals can be kept under pretty constant surveillance and the running down of offenders or witnesses can be made much easier and more effective.

PULLING TOGETHER.

One of the reforms which American defense needs is a mitigation of jealousy and an increase of effective coöperation among the different branches of the services. There is far too much friction between the navy and army at points where their responsibilities meet or overlap. There is also too little energetic coöperation even among branches of the same service where coöperation in training and experiment in preparation, as in operations in war, are essential to maximum results. We do not say this is peculiar to American conditions, but, though it may exist elsewhere, it should not be permitted with us.

One place for active coöperation is aviation and anti-aircraft service. The air service should be helping to teach the anti-aircraft service how best to meet air attack, and vice versa. They should not look upon each other as members of a hostile body, but should work constantly together to make both as effective as possible. In the larger field the ideal of maximum efficiency through constant coöperation should make wrangling over jurisdiction, authority, rank, and prestige impossible. It is foolish and unworthy of officers and gentlemen. The true objective is the highest possibly efficiency of defense, and every other consideration should give way to this.

CRITICISM OF THE COURTS.

There has been a disposition among some American judges in recent years to develop a doctrine that criticism of judges or their decisions is improper and in itself contemptuous. Such a doctrine cannot be derived from anything explicit in our constitution or laws. Free speech and free press are guaranteed without exception as to comment upon the judicial any more than the executive and legislative branches of government. It is therefore worthy of note that in his address before the American Bar association and its distinguished foreign guests the chief justice took occasion in discussing the functions of the Supreme court to touch upon this subject. "Naturally," he said, "when legislative arrangements become the subject of judicial examination, when statutes of state and national legislatures are subjected to constitutional tests and difficult questions give rise to serious differences of opinion, decisions become the subject of keen public scrutiny and sometimes of severe criticism. That is wholesome."

It may be conceded that criticisms of the courts should be in the main more guarded than criticism of the legislature or the executive, for the nature of the latter branches of government is political and their business largely controversial, while the judicial branch is, in theory at least and in practice usually, so far as is humanly to be expected, a disinterested and impersonal agency. Fair, or, to use the chief justice's word, "wholesome," criticism of the courts must take this into consideration. But the court is the judge and the judge is the man, and men are not infallible either in wisdom or morals. The difficult duty and task of the courts is to interpret the laws and apply them to cases. In so doing they are developing American constitutional law and American jurisprudence, the legal framework of American society, the expression and protection of American political and social rights and interests. But this process is not academic. It is a part of the full current of American life, of which it is the legal interpretation. The thought and instincts of the people, their conceptions of right and wrong, of individual and social justice and well-being, must enter it to give it reality. Hence the propriety and indeed the necessity of criticism.

Editorial of the Day

[Public Ledger, Philadelphia.]

The adoption of a prohibition referendum plank by the Illinois Republican convention, followed by the announcement of Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick, the party's senatorial nominee, that she would adhere to the platform, averts another wet-dry contest in the November election. Prior to these developments on Friday Illinois was viewed by political observers as the state most likely to provide a test of prohibition sentiment in the fall. The Democratic nominee, James Hamilton Lewis, is a dripping wet, while Mrs. McCormick has not only been a dry but has had the support of the Anti-Saloon league. The platform agreement and her decision to abide by the result of a triple referendum on Nov. 4 mark a triumph for the Chicago wets over the dry downstaters, but may result in the entrance of an independent prohibition candidate into the race.

In this decision Mrs. McCormick follows the example of three arid senators—Jones of Washington, Walsh of Montana, and Sheppard of Texas—who have recently modified their views. The New Jersey Republicans took this issue "out of politics" by nominating Dwight W. Morrow for the senate, and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler has been appealing to the New York Republicans to adopt a wet platform. A wet Democrat opposes a dry Republican for the senate in Ohio, but since both parties in that state nominated drys for governor the issue there is clouded. Unless the remaining primaries and conventions differ from those already held, there may be no outstanding wet-dry contest in November.

How to Keep Well By Dr W. A. Evans

FLEAS.

[Copyright: 1930: By The Chicago Tribune.]

FLEAS lay eggs which hatch into small worms, and these mature into the wicked flea whom all men pursue. So far, this sounds like an essay coming from the fourth grade, but it will be informative to some.

The flea has a mind of its own. It likes certain odors and tastes, and this leads it to search out certain animals and certain individuals, and to shun others. Perhaps when a man boasts that fleas do not trouble him he is only confessing that his body odor makes no appeal to a discriminating insect. As a rule a dog flea will stick to dogs, a cat flea to cats, though occasionally they swap hosts—it is generally from necessity rather than choice.

Since they are so sensitive to smells and tastes, flea repellents are effective. Of these naphthalene is the best, so far as our present information goes. The use of repellents has its limitations, just as does every other measure directed against adults. The more effective procedures, with fleas as with other insect pests, are those directed against breeding.

Fleas breed in dust. A dusty basement is an ideal place for the deposit of eggs. Dusty carpets, rugs, upholstery, curtains are all good breeding places. To clean up all breeding places does more good than to go after the dogs, cats, rats, and other feeding grounds. It occasionally happens that flea eggs are deposited in the hair or even on or in the skin. There are reports of tropical fleas that deposit their eggs in or under the skin of human beings, causing an itching chigger eruption. When these eruptions are scratched the finger nails may carry the pest to other parts of the body, in that way spreading the infestation to new areas of skin.

Physicians who practice in badly infested flea countries not infrequently see cases of flea hives. People become sensitized to flea poison, and when that condition has developed flea bites become wheals with many of the bad qualities of urticaria patches. It follows that persons become quite immune to the bites of fleas. There are some lovers of animals who might prefer immunizing themselves to giving up their pets.

We know of at least one very deadly disease that is flea borne. That is plague.

DIET IS IMPORTANT.

C. C. C. writes:

Please give remedy and cause for gravel, with which my husband is bothered.

REPLY.

Chemical examinations repeated several times should point to the cause of the trouble, as well as its prevention. If the crystals are composed of oxalates, he should avoid rhubarb, sorrel, cranberries, sour fruits, pepper, cocoa, and salads and greens. If due to uric acid or urates he should exercise more and eat more potatoes, sauerkraut, and bananas. If due to phosphates and calcium he should eat more meat, eggs, bread, and cereal.

BOY IS OVERWEIGHT.

R. M. V. writes:

I am a boy 12 years old and weigh 105 pounds. Several teachers have said this is bad. Can you confirm this? If so, can you recommend anything to cure or remove superfluous weight?

REPLY.

You are overweight, but how much we cannot say without knowing your height. A weight of 85 pounds is normal for a 12 year old boy 4 feet 10 inches tall, or average medium height. My guess is that your obesity is due to abnormality of some ductless gland. If so, the best plan is to have a physician give you the proper gland therapy.

WON'T AFFECT CHILDBIRTH.

Mrs. E. G. C. writes:

My sister is 26 years old. She has had stomach ulcers or ulcer for the last two years, which apparently have been healed by milk and cream, diet, etc. She now expects to be married very soon.

Is there any danger in her having children? Would her former trouble cause any ill effects in a child?

REPLY.

No.

GARTERS MAY BE CAUSE.

J. M. writes:

1. Kindly state the cause of varicose veins in single girls.
2. Is it dangerous?

REPLY.

1. Among causes are wearing round garters and other tight garments; hard muscle work.
2. No.

SIDE MONEY.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Please advise me if I can collect from my employer for wages which are due me. I was hired by the owner's son, who is manager, and the son agreed to pay me $5 more per week than the owner was to know about.

We do not understand how you could receive more than the manager knew about unless the money was stolen. We cannot advise without having a clear statement of the facts.

IN DANGER ZONE.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Friend of the People.]—Next door is the remains of a house whose walls are on the verge of collapsing. The house is on Artesian avenue. Have heard this building is now in the hands of the city because of delinquent taxes. If not torn down soon it will fall against my house. J. K.

Upon inspection of the building located on Artesian avenue we find same to be in a dilapidated condition. We are trying to locate the owner and when same is found he will be notified to wreck building.

Commissioner of Buildings.

NOISE ANNOYS.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can anything be done when a baker has an electric fan or blower stuck opposite one's window, creating a severe noise? G. K.

There is no express time limit in our statutes or ordinances, but noises amounting to legal nuisances can be enjoined, or if the facts amount to disorderly conduct can be stopped by the police. In determining whether a noise amounts to a nuisance the previous character of the neighborhood must be considered.

TENNIS OR GOLF.

RECENTLY the then Wake, now Wake-Line, wrote a sportorial concerning our Davis cup defeat with comment on the number of boys now playing golf who, if they played tennis, might become future net stars. Therein we gave some of the reasons, one of which was that opportunity for competition, especially in local tourneys, was far greater in golf than in tennis. This fact offset in part, according to our theory, the fact that tennis is a less expensive game for the player in the matter of club dues and paraphernalia. Our conclusion was that the ranks of youthful golf stars lessened by so much the ranks of potential tennis stars.

This brought from Harry S. Knox of the United States Lawn Tennis association a letter which says:

"I read your article on 'Tennis Renaissance' and it is a 'darned good one.' You have the slant on it just about as it is, but there are one or two other things that enter into it.

"One of them is that the poor boy first plays tennis because golf is too expensive. About the time he is playing real good tennis, however, he is out of school or college and has to go to work and cannot take the time for tournaments. If he is a rich boy, his 'old man' will furnish all the money he wants for golf, but kicks on tennis. He wants the boy to excel in a game that he himself plays so that he can brag about it to his friends.

"In spite of this we are bringing up some pretty good tennis players. Some time I want you to go to Culver with me and see the kids play in our national junior tournament. Ellsworth Vines and Gledhill were juniors last year."

Mr. Knox's suggestion is hereby approved for the next national junior event at Culver.

OBVIOUS.

Listen, lover, I can be Anything you want of me,
Passionate or prudely prim,
Laughing lips or eyes grown dim
With too much of love for you;
Can be quiet when you do
Not desire to romp or play,
Frolicsome when you are gay.
How, you ask, can I attune
Every mood to fit your own?
What a question! You should know
It's because I love you so.

E. LESLIE SPAULDING.

BUT WE'VE NEVER VISITED LAGNIAPPEA.

HTW: Never mind the distress signal. In following the long and familiar tradition of neighbors left in charge of a family pet, you quite sufficiently apprise us of the fact that the Line is in the hands of an indifferent stranger. Not once have you taken "Lagniappe" out of the composing room and permitted it to share the popularity of your brain children. AB-RUM.

SO THE PER CAPITA cost of prohibition enforcement is six cents. So far as we have observed, it isn't worth a cent.

NO JUDGE OF DEPRESSION.

Harve: In visiting with a local merchant I casually remarked that we had been having hard times, but apparently they were becoming better, and he sez: "I can't tell whether it is hard times or not; my business is always rotten."

BOOING.

HTW: Just where, in American games, does that great European custom of booing come in? Young America seems to be taking to it readily, perhaps without knowing it is un-American and the badge of poor sportsmanship. Newspapers and radio announcers could do a lot to stamp out this habit while a sign over score boards, "Booing Is Un-American," also would help in curbing the practice. DICK MCD.

HAUNTED.

You may be dead, yet something of you glows
And lingers like a poem come to birth
At dawn. Perhaps the little things of earth
Can tell; the petals of a yellow rose
Touched by your lips; the lonely wind that knows
The breathless wonder of your name; mirth
Of stars stolen from laughter loving eyes, worth
More than dreams of actuality that froze.

Perhaps when reaching fingers of a palm
Dip low to brush my hair, I feel the calm
Caress of hands I loved; perhaps I let
My fancy roam too far. . . . I do not know.
I only know when you are gone and yet
My heart sings bravely that it is not so.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1914.

LONDON.—The first day's fighting in the great battle which may decide the fate of France has resulted in victories for the allies along the whole line extending from Nanteuil to Verdun. A Boulogne dispatch says Gen. Pau announced a victory at Precy sur Oise. The imperial guard, under Crown Prince Frederick William, is reported to have been annihilated by the British. The action referred to at Precy sur Oise is one of the most significant of the whole war. It would appear that the German plan of massing all the kaiser's troops in an endeavor to overwhelm the allies has been met squarely.

LONDON.—"It is not conceivable that we should fail. If we fail the lights of freedom go out over the entire world." This was the statement of Rudyard Kipling in a stirring address at Brighton.

PEKING.—Germany and China are near a rupture. Baron von Maltzan, the German chargé d'affaires, declared that Germany would hold China responsible for permitting Japanese and British troops to cross its territory.

PETROGRAD.—The following official announcement was given out: "The Austrian army corps between the River Vistula and the River Bug is retreating, with enormous losses. The resistance of the enemy has been broken. There are evidences of the possibility of a famine in Austria."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1900.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Tomorrow afternoon, in all probability, will see a strike called which will involve over 140,000 miners in the anthracite coal region, and on which half a million persons depend for support. The executive board of the United Mine Workers of America spent the day in conferences and later President Mitchell said: "I have said for some time that there would be a big strike. I have not changed my opinion."

DECATUR, Ill.—In a speech in which he denounced those who have taken possession of his old party as the motley combination of madcaps and disgraced factions, Owen Scott, long a leader in Democracy, formally renounced his political faith and cast his lot with the Republicans. He declared the followers of Bryan are not entitled to a party name.

CHICAGO.—A detail of policemen has been ordered to patrol the stock yards pending a thorough investigation of charges of wholesale theft of city water. Four arrests were made yesterday of employés of stock yards firms.

CHICAGO.—Ex-Judge E. H. Gary of New York, president of the Federal Steel company, will visit Wheaton in a few days to make arrangements for the erection of a new Methodist Episcopal church. It will cost $75,000 and will replace the church building where Mr. Gary used to worship during his long residence in Wheaton.

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPTEMBER 8, 1865.

MADISON, Wis.—The Union convention voted for attorney general today. On the fourth ballot Col. Charles R. Gill of Vernon county was declared the nominee The vote stood: Col. Gill, 143; Levi Hubbell, 111, and scattered, 4.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—A tremendous explosion occurred on the Nashville and Northwestern railroad seven miles from this city. The train left the depot with one passenger car and two box cars, seats all filled with passengers. A car loaded with powder and shells was placed next to the locomotive. The powder was ignited, supposedly by sparks from the locomotive. The explosion was terrific. The loss of life is not yet known.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The President granted fifty-four pardons, mainly to persons of the $20,000 class. Among them was one to the Hon. Eli S. Shorter of Alabama, a former member of congress.

NEW YORK.—The New York Times' Washington special says: "The President has received, within a few days past, numerous letters from prominent citizens o. Virginia, North Carolina, and Mississippi, expressing apprehension of insurrection by freedmen in those states."

A SUBURBAN SCHOOL PROBLEM.

Palatine, Ill., Sept. 4.—L. M. H. thinks it grievous that the schools' opening adds to Labor day's congestion. I wish that were the extent of my school troubles.

When I bought my home in the village of Palatine to give my children the advantage of clean suburban life, I naturally thought they would go to the village school. When it came to sending them, I found that school districts have no relation to village boundaries and that we would have to pay $3.50 per month tuition for each child. Our taxes, I found, went to maintain a far distant one room district school. That gives my children the privilege of walking on a busy road, and of crossing an unguarded busy railroad and the Northwest highway. Could they have gone to the Palatine school they would have had sidewalks all the way, no highway to cross, and a guarded railroad crossing. And I cannot afford to pay $14 a month tuition for my four children. A neighbor who has lived here over three years has kept her children home during that time. Lucky for her she is an ex-teacher, but few are so fortunate.

Similar conditions must exist in many villages adjacent to Chicago. Must the Illinois school law remain behind for another hundred years? Can't county superintendents do something about it? Cannot parts of Cook county be redistricted with the safety of children under present conditions as a guide? Most of these districts date back to the civil war when automobiles were undreamed of and railroad traffic as we know it now did not exist. H. J. K.

A QUESTION FOR CANDIDATES.

Chicago, Sept. 2.—I am one of those drys who believe that people have a perfect right to undertake to secure the repeal of a law, providing the methods which they employ are those worthy of an American citizen. I also believe that until a law is repealed it should be respected and enforced. Therefore, I wish you could add this question to those you are sending to candidates for office, and thus give those of us who are dry a chance to have a little more satisfactory knowledge concerning the people for whom we are to vote:

"So long as the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act continue to be the law of the United States will you obey the law and use your influence and position to see that it is strictly enforced?" FRED D. STONE.

A HILL OF BEANS.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Re Mr. Orr's cartoon of Sept. 4 depicting Old Man Earth as not amounting to a "hill of beans" in the earlier years of his life and then making tremendous progress in the last fifty. We notice, however, that the progress indicated in the volumes deals only with science. These are great discoveries and benefits to mankind, but is it fair to art and literature to intimate that their contributions are so negligible as to be placed in one small volume along with "two billions years" of history and progress?

Surely Aristotle, Plato, Newton, Raphael, Descartes, Kant, and Dante, as well as their contemporaries, deserve more consideration. J. R. KIERDING.

CERTAIN DEFEATS.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Joseph Mills quotes Brown as saying, "Never had Scotsmen been so disgracefully beaten by the English." I am afraid they have even made a worse record since then. At the battle of Preston Cromwell took more Scotch prisoners than his entire army amounted to. At Dunbar, 22,000 Scotch against 11,000 English, the Scotch lost 10,000 prisoners, left 3,000 dead on the field; and Roosevelt, in his book "Oliver Cromwell," says "the Scotch general, Leslie, escaped by the speed of his horse." Cromwell said in his dispatches to the English parliament, "I do not believe we have lost 20 men." At about the time Bannockburn was fought Scotland and France were nearly always in alliance against England. At one time the kings of Scotland and France were both prisoners of war in London at the same time. A line from Shakespeare reads: "He who would France win must with Scotland first begin."

BESSIE AYLIFFE.

AN ASSESSMENT EXPLAINED.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—Some time ago in your columns there was printed a letter signed "A Resident and Property Owner," inquiring why a 26 foot lot with frame house located at 622 North Leamington avenue should be assessed only $65 when frame houses in the neighborhood on 25 foot lots are assessed $96 to $118—these properties all being in the 600 block on Leamington avenue.

In checking this matter we find that the property at 622 North Leamington avenue covers two taxable descriptions of 13½ feet and 12½ feet respectively. Undoubtedly "A Resident and Property Owner" was shown only one tax bill.

Under the law where a separate taxable description is entered upon the warrants by the county clerk it is necessary to submit a separate tax bill.

From the foregoing it is quite evident that the assessment on this property for both portions of the 25 foot lot would be approximately $125, or in line with the other properties in the block. HARRY S. CUTMORE,
Director of Appraisals, Cook County Board of Assessors.

INTERPRETING THE CALIFORNIA PRIMARY.

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 29.—You may assure your readers that the primary election in California on the 26th inst. was not a dry and wet fight in spite of the fact that the Young faction tried to introduce that as an issue to befog the true issue of excessive expenditures of public funds and the domination of the state administration by the state teachers' association. We have a school tenure law in our state which will demoralize our school system if continued in the present form and through the present administration there was no hope of a repeal or modification of this law. Hence the defeat of C. C. Young and the nomination of James Rolph Jr. We feel James Rolph Jr. will be another Theodore Roosevelt for the good of our state, especially for the common people. HOMER L. WEBBER.

AMERICAN HEROES.

Chicago, Sept. 1.—After reading the sketch of the life of Samuel Adams in SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE an idea occurred to me which, I hope, will merit your approval. Upon completion of this series I believe THE TRIBUNE would secure much commendation by publication in booklet form of all the sketches contained therein. Its value as a source of information about the lesser, though not unimportant, men in American history cannot be questioned.

DETECTIVE AND GUNMAN KILLED IN DETROIT RAID

Dying Policeman Slays His Assailant.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Detective Edward J. Barney, 33 years old, and a gunman were shot to death this afternoon in a pistol duel. Barney, dying fatally wounded on the floor, killed his slayer.

A woman who refused to give her name called the Highland Park police, saying that gangsters, machine guns, and liquor could be found at 1511 Pasadena avenue.

Barney and Detective Bethel Wade went to the address, where they were joined by other policemen. They were met by Mr. and Mrs. Casar Sebastian, tenants of the home. They denied they were harboring any one. The officers heard a noise in a bedroom located at the front of the house.

Barney went to the bedroom. As he was opening the door, the gunman, believed to have been Leo Genova, fired two shots at him. Both struck him in the head. As Barney fell he fired five bullets into the gunman. Both were dead when other policemen rushed into the house.

TRAFFIC BELOW ST. LOUIS SAVED BY LAKE WATER

Increased Flow Keeping Boats Moving.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The problem of the lower Mississippi today occupied the attention of Secretary of War Hurley's staff of engineers. When the U. S. S. Mississippi leaves tomorrow for New Orleans with the secretary aboard, the great river in its most puzzling mood will be presented to the experts who are seeking to discover how a navigable system of inland waterways may best be maintained.

Just as cities along the upper Mississippi are complaining that the six foot channel is drying up and barges and towboats constructed to navigate in that depth are constantly running aground, so the nine foot channel in the lower Mississippi is proving to be a myth, the engineers were told.

The government barge line has already recorded 369 hours of delay this season. One barge which left New Orleans July 18 is still a few miles south of St. Louis, whereas the scheduled running time between the two cities is eight days.

Diversion Saves Navigation.

The main topic of conversation among the engineers today was the statement made by St. Louis officials at a luncheon in honor of Secretary of War Hurley yesterday that diversion from the lake at Chicago was the sole reason why navigation had not stopped completely in the Mississippi from Grafton, Ill., at the mouth of the Illinois to St. Louis.

Opinion among those in Secretary Hurley's party was in agreement with the assertion. The Illinois river, with its added 12,000 cubic feet per second pouring into the Mississippi, has been an important factor in maintaining river levels, the engineers agreed. The added flow raised the Mississippi from six inches to one foot, according to their estimates, and enabled boats to drift safely over sandbars upon which they might have been stranded.

"We are keeping the lakes to the gulf waterway constantly in mind in all our plans," said Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers. "The people of the middle west have been trying to get such a waterway, to my knowledge, ever since the time of Lincoln and he was in favor of it. They had to wait until the last congress put it through, but they may be assured that all possible speed is now being made in constructing a channel upon which barges may cruise from Chicago to the Mississippi and from there to all river ports.

Inspects Works from Air.

Maj. Gen. Brown today flew to Kansas City along the Missouri river, inspecting the site of proposed improvements along that stream. His report on a survey of that river is to be included in the general report which the secretary of war will make to President Hoover upon his return to Washington.

An army plane will accompany the river expedition tomorrow. When the party reaches Cape Girardeau, Mo., the secretary plans to fly over flood control works there. He will make other flights over the river from time to time, including a bird's-eye inspection of the proposed flood control floodways at Lebouef and Atchafalaya.

"THE LITTLE MASTERS"
IMPORTS
—each with its own Paris label!

$15

"—91, Rue de Richelieu," ordered our millinery buyer. The address was merely one of many little out-of-the-way shops she visited on her recent trip to Paris. Though these "little masters" are not internationally known, as la haute mode, their hats are often just as smart, individual, as those of the famous modistes . . . And isn't it thrilling to be able to get a Paris Hat, for so little!

Sketched are but two from a fascinating collection in Felt

FRANCE CHEERS JOFFRE—THE MAN WHO SAVED PARIS

Celebrates 16th Year of Battle of the Marne.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEAUX, France, Sept. 7.—The 16th anniversary of the battle of the Marne was celebrated here today when Minister of War Andre Maginot credited Marshal Joffre with all the responsibility for the victory. M. Maginot at the same time warned Europe that France would be unable to make further reductions in armaments until some other solution for safeguarding peace and the security of France was reached.

Military attachés of Great Britain, the United States, Belgium, Italy, Spain, and Jugo-Slavia attended a luncheon given by the war minister. Before the fête a wreath was placed at the foot of the monument to Gen. Gallieni, whose "taxicab army" rushed reserves to Ourcq to strike the flank of Gen. Von Kluck's forces and so materially aided in rolling up the German menace to Paris.

Taught Army to Hold.

"We cannot forget," said M. Maginot, "what we owe to the illustrious Gen. Joffre and the optimism he showed before the peril that was facing France. He was the man who gave the nation confidence, so permitting it to react. He taught the army to hold fast.

"For the last ten years we have gone further than any other nation on the road to disarmament. To go further before security is realized among the nations would be folly."

M. Maginot struck a grave note when he went on to say:

"As far as we are concerned we cannot continue to remain indefinitely unilateral. The situation of Europe does not encourage us to further reduce our means of defense. We can still less reduce what is left of our military forces while such forbidding clouds darken the horizon. We have multiplied our efforts towards the rapprochement between the nations lined up against each other in the great war."

Takes Rap at Germany.

Referring to the recent evacuation of the Rhineland, he said:

"One act we consider as an unfortunate sacrifice, but sacrifices once they have been made do not count for certain people except to cause them to make new demands.

"Such a mentality does not serve the cause of peace, and whosoever continues to endanger the peace treaties, on which the new Europe is based, risks to ignite the conflagration anew."

DONALDSON, WAR ACE AND D. S. C. WEARER, CRASHES TO HIS DEATH

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 7.—(AP)—John O. Donaldson, Newark, N. J., pilot, plunged to his death at the municipal airport here late today.

Donaldson served with the United States air forces in the world war. He attained the rank of captain and officially was credited with eight victories over German planes. He received the Distinguished Service cross and the prince of Wales personally decorated him with the British Distinguished Flying cross. Four other decorations for valor attested his bravery.

For more than eleven years Capt. Donaldson had been an outstanding pilot. In 1919 he won first place in the SE-5 class, transcontinental air races.

Two Killed in Kansas.

Baxter Springs, Kas., Sept. 7.—(AP)—An airplane crash here today cost the lives of Melvin Mishler, the pilot, and Ray Phillips, a passenger. The plane fell from an altitude of 200 feet as Mishler banked in a turn and burst into flames. Airmen believed Phillips had "frozen" to the controls in the second seat.

ONE KILLED, 20 HURT IN HAMBURG ELECTION RIOT

Reds Attack Fascists in Political Parade.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—One man was killed and a score, including several policemen, were seriously wounded in a preelection riot in the San Pauli waterside district of Hamburg tonight. Many others, who were slightly wounded, were carried off by friends.

The riot started when a group of communists attacked a Fascist procession. The battle raged with the political foes swinging fists and clubs. Police on hand were unable to quell the disturbance and a call for reinforcements was made. The combatants were separated after the officers fired warning shots. Thirty-one were arrested.

Seize 75 in Berlin.

Seventy-five persons were arrested here today when political demonstrators met in defiance of police orders.

Five hundred thousand Germans have been appointed by the government to control next Sunday's reichstag elections. Police forces throughout the country have been reinforced and the reichswehr has been instructed to intervene in case communists or Fascists try to stage election riots.

Foreign Minister Julius Curtius arrived in Geneva today for the league of nations session, at which he hopes informal talks among European statesmen will open discussion for the return of the Saar, as well as helping to improve the lot of minority groups of Germans scattered in Europe by the Versailles treaty.

See Foreign Policy Unchanged.

His position at Geneva, political observers say, will not be weakened by the elections, because, whatever the result, the government is confident it will not affect the nation's foreign policy.

Only the Communists, Nationalists, and the Hitlerites are against the policy of conciliation, but, according to reliable information, this opposition will, at the utmost, get 150 seats out of a total of 500 and thus will be powerless to interrupt.

SEARCH FOR MISSING N. Y. COURT OFFICIAL DEVELOPS NO CLEWS

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Continued search for Joseph Force Crater, missing Supreme court justice, proved futile again today. In Belgrade Lakes a detective interviewed Mrs. Sally Crater, the jurist's wife, but this examination was interrupted by a recurrence of Mrs. Crater's nervous condition and he gleaned little information from her. Other detectives searched private sanitariums in Westchester county without success.

Assistant Chief Inspector Sullivan admitted the police were without "any tangible clew" and added that although the police have no reason to believe the jurist is dead, they also have no reason to believe he is alive.

Chicago Pilot to Hop East Today for Atlantic Flight

Capt. Roy W. Ammel of Chicago, former army pilot, who plans to make a trans-Atlantic flight in a Lockheed monoplane, will fly to New York today where alterations are to be made on his plane and weather data is to be gathered for his flight. Capt. Ammel flew into Curtiss airport on Saturday from Los Angeles. Ammel plans to make his flight alone with Paris as his objective. From there he may fly on to Rome or Berlin, depending on weather conditions and the amount of fuel remaining when he arrives in Europe.

GUARANTEED FOR LIFE

"I'm paid a bonus if my point gets 11 okays—I pay a forfeit if it fails to earn them all!"
The Parker Point-Smith

Parker Point-smiths are the aces of the pen industry. We pay them a cash Bonus for every Duofold Point. But first it must pass 11 merciless tests. If it fails in any one, we reject it and the point-maker pays us a forfeit.

The life of the Parker business depends on this pressureless writing Pen that is Guaranteed for Life.

So we limit the number a man may produce per day. This gives him time to make each point as good as his best. And 7 times out of 8, he does it, and wins a cash reward.

Beautifully streamlined in rich colors—jade, lacquer, jet, iridescent pearl and lapis lazuli—Parker Pens hold 17.4% more ink than average, size for size. They are non-breakable.

Pen Guaranteed for Life

Parker Duofold Pens—and Pencils to match—are convertible. They give double-duty writing; in Pocket or in Desk Set Pocket caps and tapered Desk Set tips are interchangeable. Ten seconds changes them.

Thus when you own a Parker Duofold you need only get a Desk Base to have a complete Desk Set. The same Pen serves both purposes. No other pen offers this convertibility, so why pay more for one that gives less?

See Parker Duofolds at any pen counter. Each has a bonus point. Each is Guaranteed for Life. Pens $5 to $10. Pencils $2.50 to $5. Desk Bases (with tapered end, free) $3.75 and up.

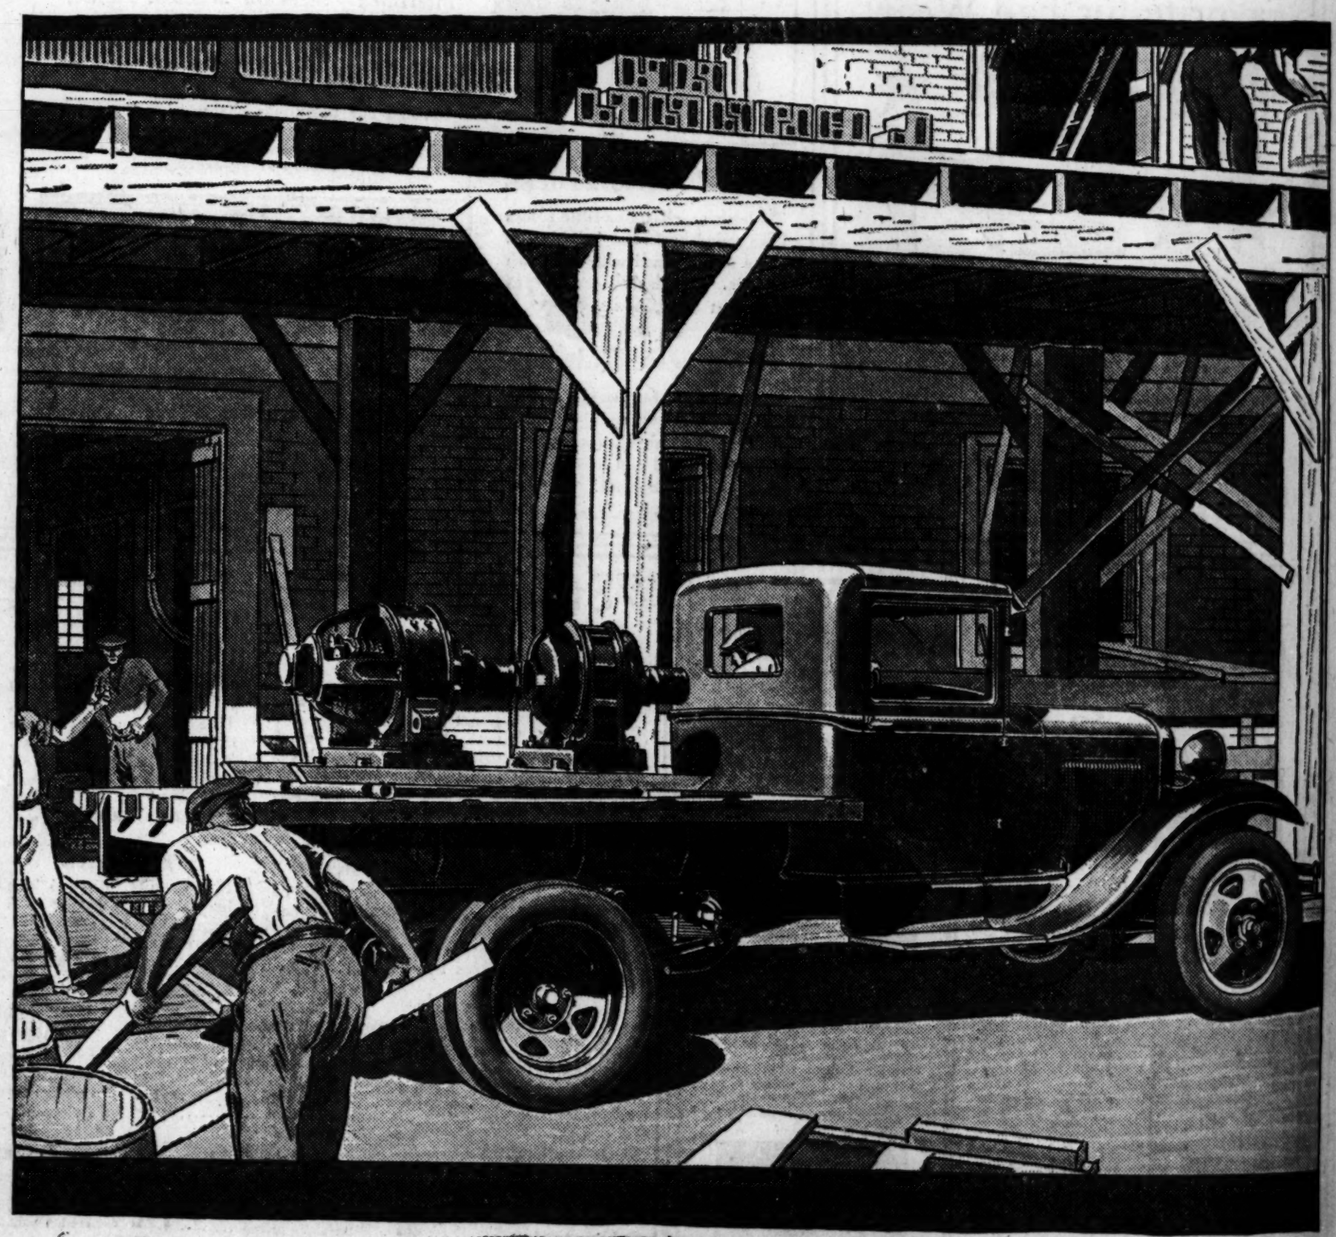
The Ford Truck hauls costs down



IN HAULING supplies on contract, where schedules must be met — or bettered — the Ford 1½-ton truck is prompt and reliable. For this, and for numberless other types of service, the Ford truck offers an additional haulage value, which is economy. It is low in first cost, and low in cost of maintenance.

The way in which fine materials have been incorporated into parts of simple and rugged design is one of the features which increase the ability of the Ford truck to move a load from here to there at a minimum of effort and expense.

Forty different kinds of steel are used, for example. There is no thought, in making the Ford truck, that one or two — or a dozen — kinds of steel will have to serve, if a larger number will give added strength, longer life, or greater reliability.

Ford policy has always been to use the best possible material for each part, and then, through large-scale production, to give it to the public at low cost.

Other features of value are the new spiral bevel gear rear axle; the option of two gear-ratios; 4-speed transmission; provision for power take-off mounting; larger brakes; heavier front axle and spring; dual rear wheels, available at small additional cost; and a chassis of 157-inch wheelbase, for carrying light but bulky loads.

Standard bodies are the platform, stake, panel, and hand and power-operated dump types. Both open and enclosed cabs can be provided. All are equipped with Triplex shatter-proof windshields — an additional safety feature. Go to your Ford dealer and see how well this truck can serve your hauling needs.

BARGAIN FOR 1931

NO INCREASE IN RATES

Liberty Magazine announces a guarantee of 2,500,000 average net paid circulation for 1931. Advertisers placing orders before January 1 will be protected against any rate increase for 1931.

In this way, Liberty is reducing its rate per page per thousand black and white from $1.89 to $1.70. Liberty has long had the lowest advertising cost among major magazines. Now this cost goes even lower.

Liberty has the biggest newsdealer circulation of any magazine. Newsdealer sales constitute 99% of its circulation. The 1931 guarantee of 2,500,000 average net paid will be maintained in this same ratio.

O. K. NAVY PACT! JAPAN'S CABINET TELLS COUNCIL

Accuses Body of Using Dilatory Tactics.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Sept. 7.—In a formal statement issued today the Hamaguchi cabinet flayed the privy council for assuming an "antagonistic attitude" towards the government and for delaying ratification of the London naval treaty by dilatory tactics. The statement also alleges that a certain member of the privy council, believed to be Chief Secretary Futagami, has circulated false reports to weaken the position of the government.

The cabinet's statement is taken to indicate the government is prepared to take a firm stand in its future dealings with the privy council, and is also seen as an appeal to the public which is strongly in favor of the London treaty. It is certain to arouse public sentiment against the privy council and lend strength to agitation already under way for the reform of that body and its eventual abolishment.

Charges Dilatory Tactics.

The cabinet's statement begins by reviewing proceedings of the privy council up to the present. It reveals that when Premier Hamaguchi asked the council to expedite its consideration of the treaty, Count Miyoji Ito, head of the privy councilors' committee, which is studying the pact, informed the government it would take no orders and refused to proceed with the examination of the treaty.

"More than forty days have passed since the treaty was submitted to the privy council." The statement says "examination has proceeded at a very slow pace, only two or three hours being actually spent in examination of the treaty at each meeting."

The cabinet's statement charges that "propaganda has been circulated by a certain influential member of the privy council" to the effect that the government was going to resign, both at the time of the resignation of Admiral Kanji Kato, former chief of the naval staff, and later, when the supreme military council went on record as finding the treaty defective.

Finds Leak in Proceedings.

Since then, the statement says, this same party circulated a report the government would resign because of difficulties with the privy council.

The statement further expresses surprise that the proceedings of the council, supposedly secret, have been accurately reported in the press, and charges that "members of the council have allowed details to leak out purposely" in order to embarrass the government.

The statement concludes with the words, "The cabinet hopes the council will examine the treaty as quickly as possible."

Mrs. Kathryn Simmons Blankenhorn Dies in West

Mrs. Kathryn Simmons Blankenhorn, daughter of the late Francis T. Simmons, for 15 years president of the Lincoln park board, died yesterday at Pasadena, Cal. News of her death was received here by her uncle, William H. Bush, 1538 North State parkway. Mrs. Blankenhorn was 38 years old. Her marriage to Louis Mac Blankenhorn, Pasadena real estate man, was a social event in 1921. Mrs. Blankenhorn had since made her home in California. She had been ill a year. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Hattie Bush Simmons; her husband, and two children, Mary Louise, 6 years old, and Barbara, 2. Funeral services will be held at Pasadena.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: A Sure Sign

ONLY ROUGH ROAD LINKS CHICAGO TO TRIPLET CITIES

Highway Is Crowded All Day Long.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Rock Island, Ill., Sept. 7.—Special.]—These triplet cities on the Mississippi river—Moline, Rock Island, and Davenport—with a combined population of more than 140,000, are without anything better than a narrow, twisting, and in some places rough, pavement for a highway connection with Chicago. The popular route is up the Rock river valley to the Lincoln highway, otherwise known as Illinois 6 and as Roosevelt road and thence into Chicago, a total distance of a little more than 175 miles.

The traffic included those fast drivers who were in their cars for the sole reason that they were going somewhere, and those slow drivers who weren't going anywhere, but merely enjoying a ride. It also included lumbering trucks, carrying farm products to cities and merchandise from cities and it included buses, those big passenger carriers that thunder over the highways day and night on schedules like railroad trains.

Such traffic on a tortuous two lane pavenment, antiquated as to width and as to alignment, keeps a driver's nerves tense, and the accident records prove that the hazard is not imaginary. Such traffic on a winding narrow road also is a serious handicap to rapid motor communication between these two important commercial centers, the Tri-cities and Chicago.

This driving condition is arousing sentiment here for a four lane pavement to Chicago. A program prepared by the Chicago Motor club for presentation to the next session of the legislature calls for the widening of Illinois 6 to west of Sterling, about 60 miles from here, and for widening for a few miles out of the Tri-Cities toward route 6.

Russia Executes Six for Reselling Hoarded Food

MOSCOW, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The cheka, or secret police, announced tonight that six persons were shot today and others were sentenced to imprisonment for attempting to disrupt the food market by acquiring large quaunities from government shops under false pretenses and reselling the food privately at high prices. The cheka said the ring has been broken.

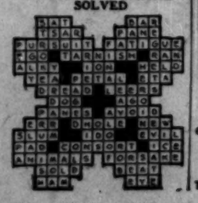
SATURDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



FIND SKELETON OF THIRD ANDREE MAN ON WHITE ISLAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 7.—Dispatches received here today from the whaler Isbjoern, recently sent to White island with a party of newspaper men aboard, stated the expedition had discovered new traces of Andree's death camp. They found frozen portions of a man's skeleton, also a skull, believed to be that of Knut Franckel; instruments, wearing apparel, and portions of canvas believed to be part of Andree's balloon used on his Arctic trip 33 years ago.

The expedition also reports large quantities of other objects have been discovered tending to show that Andree landed with his balloon at a point near White island. This information indicates that the explorer lived on the island for some time. The expedition's theories are that Andree and his men died from a sudden catastrophe, probably an arctic blizzard.

The whaler also reports that portions of a new document and note books, probably belonging to Frankel, were found. Memorial services for members of the ill-fated expedition of 1897 will probably be postponed until it is learned whether the Swedish warship Svenskund will wait at Tromsoe for the Isbjoern's return.

SIMPLE RITES HELD IN CAPITAL FOR MRS. GRANT

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Simplicity marked the funeral services today for Mrs. Frederick Dent Grant, daughter-in-law of President Ulysses S. Grant and for years a society leader in Chicago and Washington. The services, held at St. John's Episcopal church, were brief and the rites of the Episcopal church only were used. The Rev. Leon A. Shearer officiated.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, representing the President's family, occupied a seat near members of the Grant family, including Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant III., Mrs. Grant's son, and Potter Palmer, her nephew. Mrs. Grant was the sister of the late Mrs. Potter Palmer. Other persons attending included Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. Charles P. Summerall, and Gen. and Mrs. Edgar Jadwin.

Following the service the body lay in state in the church until 10 o'clock tonight, when it was placed on a special car and taken to West Point, N. Y., where Mrs. Grant will be buried by the side of her husband. No services will be held at West Point.

Pedestrian Hit by Auto Is Found Dying in Road

George Bockus, 35 years old, 714 Broadway, Melrose Park, died in the Westlake hospital, Melrose Park, last night a few hours after he was found lying in Mannheim road, south of Lake street. The police said he apparently was the victim of a motorist who drove away after his car hit Bockus. The death increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 696.

LITHUANIA HAILS UNCROWNED KING; IS DEAD 500 YEARS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KAUNAS, Sept. 7.—Looking into the past when Lithuania was one of the most powerful countries in Europe with boundaries touching both the Black and the Baltic seas Lithuania today observed the 500th anniversary of the death of the country's greatest ruler, Grand Duke Vytautas. Historians have laid his mysterious death on the eve of his coronation as king to Polish plotters.

The Kaunas airdrome was crowded with 30,000 Lithuanians, Jews, Russians, and Tartars to meet the airplane which brought back to Kaunas the portrait of Vytautas. The portrait had been sent all over the country as symbolizing Lithuania's determination to again become an important country in Europe.

The Tartars, who joined the celebration, are descendants of the members of the Golden Horde which followed Vytautas' banners in his victories against Teutonic knights, changing the historic destiny of northeastern Europe which then was threatened with annexation by Germany.

WOMAN ENGLISH PROFESSOR ENDS LIFE WITH GUN

Greeley, Colo., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Children playing today in the bleachers at Jackson athletic field came upon the body of Miss Alice Johnson, 39, English professor at the Colorado State Teachers' college, who had been missing since Friday night.

A revolver lay by her side. She had shot herself through the left breast just below the heart. The coroner said she had been dead forty-eight hours.

Miss Johnson's disappearance came one day following a secret conference with college authorities and about which they refused to comment tonight. It is said several students had registered complaints against Miss Johnson.

Friends could ascribe no other reason for her act. They said it is probable she became despondent over the possibility of dismissal.

Miss Johnson was graduated from the University of Chicago. Before she came to Greeley six years ago she was an English instructor at Twin Falls, Idaho.

Two sisters, Miss Frankie Johnson of Pasadena, Cal., and Miss Sue M. Johnson of Memphis, Tenn., a brother and two adopted children survive Miss Johnson.

Youths Back to Pacific, Then Back Back to N. Y.

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Two young men from St. Louis backed their automobile into a plaza at the southern tip of Manhattan today and took a long breath before posing for pictures. They had backed all the way across the continent to Los Angeles and return. The youths, James B. Hargis and Charles Creighton, started their journey in reverse July 26 at the behest of an oil company seeking to prove something or other about its oil.

Rev. F. M. Johnson, Swedish Covenant Pastor, Is Dead

The Rev. F. M. Johnson, one of the organizers and for more than fifty years pastor of Swedish Mission Covenant churches in Chicago and Rockford, died yesterday at the Swedish Covenant hospital at the age of 72. Graduated in 1880 from Knox college, he was during his ministerial career president of the Swedish Mission Covenant Ministerial Association of Illinois and president of the board of directors of North Park college, a seminary of the denomination at Kedzie avenue and Foster street. One son and two daughters survive. The funeral will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday from the North Park Mission church, Berwyn avenue and Christiana street, with burial at Rosehill cemetery.

Mrs. Ida Richards Funeral Services to Be Tomorrow

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida B. Richards, 75 years old, who died Thursday in Los Angeles, will be held at 3:30 p. m. tomorrow in a chapel at 1610 Maple avenue, Evanston. Prior to the death four years ago of her husband, Edgar G. Richards, once the American agent for an Austrian steel company, Mrs. Richards had been an Evanston resident for 23 years. Two sons, Dr. Claude E. Richards of Evanston and Elmer G. Richards of Oneida, N. Y., survive her.

KEEP THAT YOUTHFUL FRESHNESS

How surely it depends upon how you feel, the way you look—and upon healthy teeth and gums! But what is the best way to care for teeth and gums? You see so many conflicting theories, you notice so many different dentifrices. ★★ E. R. Squibb & Sons asked a famous research institution to get 50,000 American dentists to give their opinions. Read the summary of the replies received:

95% of the answers stated that germ acids most frequently cause tooth decay and gum irritation.

95% of the answers agreed that the most serious trouble occurs at The Danger Line, where teeth and gums meet.

85% stated that the best product to prevent these acids from causing decay and irritating the gums is Milk of Magnesia.

Surely this is convincing evidence that Squibb Dental Cream will protect your teeth and gums. For it is made with more than 50% Squibb Milk of Magnesia. ★★ Squibb's contains no grit, no astringents, nothing which might injure. Get a tube and use it regularly. See the results. Your teeth gleam. Your mouth feels refreshed, so clean. And your smile simply sparkles!

Fly to Remote Beach for Japan-Tacoma Hop

AOMORI, Japan., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Having flown their big vermillion monoplane, the City of Tacoma, to Samishiro, a remote beach near the northern tip of Hondo island, Harold Bromley and Harold Gatty today made strenuous preparation for the start this week of a proposed trans-Pacific flight. Bromley hoped to start at dawn Tuesday but it was believed the ship may be held a day or two longer by uncertain weather. Shamishrio is 550 miles nearer Tacoma, Wash., the final destination, than the Kasumigaura naval base, where the flyers tried unsuccessfully to take off recently.

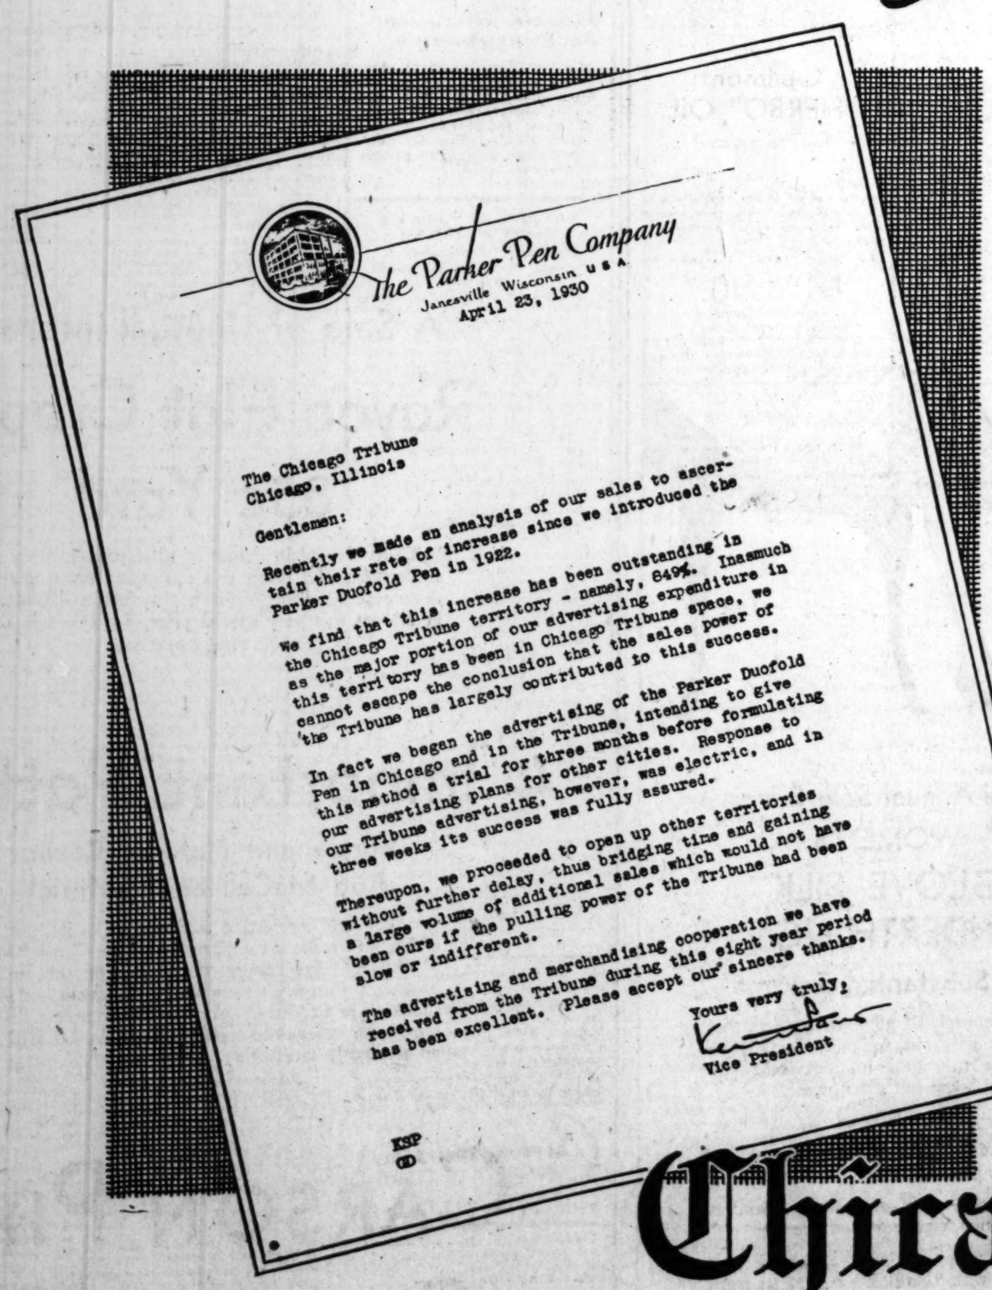
Parker Pen increases sales 849% in the Chicago Tribune Territory



The Parker Pen Company
Janesville Wisconsin U.S.A.
April 23, 1930

The Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Gentlemen:

Recently we made an analysis of our sales to ascertain their rate of increase since we introduced the Parker Duofold Pen in 1922.

We find that this increase has been outstanding in the Chicago Tribune territory - namely, 849%. Inasmuch as the major portion of our advertising expenditure in this territory has been in Chicago Tribune space, we cannot escape the conclusion that the sales power of the Tribune has largely contributed to this success.

In fact we began the advertising of the Parker Duofold Pen in Chicago and in the Tribune, intending to give this method a trial for three months before formulating our advertising plans for other cities. Response to our Tribune advertising, however, was electric, and in three weeks its success was fully assured.

Thereupon, we proceeded to open up other territories without further delay, thus bridging time and gaining a large volume of additional sales which would not have been ours if the pulling power of the Tribune had been slow or indifferent.

The advertising and merchandising cooperation we have received from the Tribune during this eight year period has been excellent. Please accept our sincere thanks.

Yours very truly,
Kenneth Parker
Vice President

IN 1922, the Parker Pen Company developed an improved type of fountain pen—the Parker Duofold To introduce this new product, Parker decided upon the Chicago territory. Here sales and advertising effort, following a tested procedure, could be expected to produce a maximum return.

"We began the advertising of the Parker Duofold pen in Chicago and in the Tribune," writes Kenneth S. Parker, vice-president of the Parker Pen Company, "intending to give this method a trial for three months before formulating our advertising plans for other cities.

"Response to our Tribune advertising, however, was electric," continues Mr. Parker. "In three weeks its success was fully assured.

"Thereupon, we proceeded to open up other territories without further delay, thus bridging time and gaining a large volume of additional sales which would not have been ours if the pulling power of the Tribune had been slow or indifferent.

"Recently we made an analysis of our sales to ascertain their rate of increase since we introduced the Parker Duofold Pen in 1922.

"We find that this increase has been outstanding in the Chicago Tribune territory—namely, 849%.

"Inasmuch as the major portion of our advertising expenditure in this territory has been in Chicago Tribune space, we cannot escape the conclusion that the sales power of the Tribune has largely contributed to this success.

"The advertising and merchandising co-operation we have received from the Tribune during this eight-year period has been excellent."

Here is the experience of a company which today sells its product all over the globe. Yet when they set out to introduce the Parker Duofold Pen they chose the Chicago territory and the Chicago Tribune.

This sound method which worked with such great success in 1922 works with equal success today.

Other manufacturers, seeking the markets that will pay out in 1930, will profit by concentrating in this great regional market that responds to the sales power of one great medium—the Chicago Tribune.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Young Jim Moore, who reported to the White Sox nine days ago from Little Rock of the Southern association, started his second game for Manager Donie Bush yesterday. He set the Cleveland batters down with six hits, one of which was for two bases, and had no trouble winning, 5 to 2.

Moore exhibited the same control he had when he made his losing debut against Detroit a week ago, walking only three men. None of the passes figured in the scoring. Moreover, he held the Indians hitless until the fifth inning, when Luke Sewell solved his delivery and lined the ball into left field.

Finish Season Series.

The victory was at the expense of Clint Brown, who also is one season removed from the Southern association, and it was the second win for the Sox in the five game series. Yesterday's contest was the last of the year between the two clubs. The final tabulation of victories reads: Sox, 10; Cleveland, 12

The Sox gave young Mr. Moore much more assistance yesterday than when he lost to Detroit, 4 to 1. In that game they accomplished but four hits. Yesterday they counted ten, five of which were bunched in the sixth inning with two out to score three runs and assure victory. And Jim aided his own cause with the fifth successive single in the inning.

Manager Bush switched his lineup a bit yesterday, sending Willie Kamm to third base, Cissell moving over to second, and Johnny Kerr taking a day's rest. It was just as well, for Willie singled to center to drive in the first run of the sixth inning rally and disported himself excellently in the field. His stop of Montague's one bounce drive was the first out in the sixth inning, while he grabbed an even harder blow from Brown's bat to force Goldman at second for the third out in the seventh.

Sox Fill Bases, Can't Score.

The Sox passed up an opportunity to score in the opening session. Mulleavy led off with a single to left, the first of his two hits. Cissell bunted, but Sewell threw wildly to second trying to force Mulleavy, and Sox runners were on third and second with none out. Reynolds grounded to Montague, who threw him out, the runners holding on. Jolley was walked purposely, filling the bases. However, Watwood bounced to Brown and Mulleavy was forced at the plate. Then Barnes' roller to Montague forced Watwood at second.

The scoreless tie was broken by the Sox in the fifth. Crouse, first up, singled off Brown's glove, Hodapp fielding the ball but not in time for a play at first. Moore sacrificed, Morgan to Hodapp. Mulleavy then doubled to left field, scoring Crouse. Cleveland tied the count in the first of the sixth with two out. Averill doubled to the right field score board and came in on Morgan's single to left.

Hose Take Lead in Sixth.

Then came the winning sixth. With two down Watwood singled past Montague and moved to second on Barnes' drive into left field. Kamm singled to center, scoring Watwood. Crouse slashed a single inside of first base, scoring Barnes while Kamm reated at third. Crouse stole second. Brown threw two strikes to Moore before the Sox rookie bounced the ball back high over his head for an infield hit which sent Kamm over the plate with the third run of the rally.

The Hose made the score 5 to 1 in their next turn at the plate. Cissell survived on Montague's error and dashed to second on Reynold's bunt to Morgan who tagged Carl on the line. Jolley grounded to Hodapp for the second out, but Watwood's hit to left sent Cissell home.

Falk Starts Feeble Rally.

Bib Falk, pinch hitting for Montague, started Cleveland to a run in the eighth. He singled just out of Mulleavy's reach. Gardner went in to run for him and scored on Porter's single and Averill's grounder to Cissell on which Porter was forced at second.

The Hose rest today before preparing for their final series of the year with Boston's eighth place Red Sox. Still a half game behind St. Louis, the Hose hope to step into sixth position at Boston's expense.

GoldenAuburn Makes Local Debut Today

BY FRENCH LANE.

Golden Auburn, the champion handicap performer of Ohio, moves into Chicago today and will hook up with such local favorites as Annapolis, Suitor, Rolled Stocking and Who Win in the Old Elm Country club purse at a mile and a sixteenth at Lincoln Fields.

It is only an overnight purse with a value of $1,600, but Golden Auburn comes here with such a good record, having won four of his six starts at Bainbridge Park and showing a fine turn of speed in all his victories, that his showing against the Chicago performers will be watched with interest.

Won 2 Races Last Year.

Of course, if Golden Auburn conquers this field he still will have Lady Broadcast, Plucky Play, Pigeon Hole, My Dandy and other crack performers here to beat before he can be hailed as a western champion. Golden Auburn is a 5 year old son of Golden Guinea and out of the mare Deserted Village. Until he started his winning streak in Ohio this summer he was not considered much of a horse, and throughout his campaign last year he was only able to win two races in 16 starts.

Annapolis, a son of Man o' War, has three victories in a row to his credit in Chicago, and Suitor has won two of his last three starts. Annapolis and Suitor have been beating better horses in Chicago than Golden Auburn has been running away from in Ohio. All three are at equal weights today and the best horse should win.

Sprinters Meet Today.

There are two other allowance races on today's Lincoln Field program. The Crystal Lake purse at six furlongs engages the good sprinters Hot Shot, Beaming Over, Supreme Sweet, T. S. Jordan, Amyvale and Stock Market. The Geneva purse for 2 year olds has a field including the four time winner Voltagreen, Decorous, Doris Jean, Cousin Jo, Kamalii, In Haste, and Plucky Lady to draw from.

The next stake race on the Lincoln Fields program is the $5,000 added Steger handicap, to be run next Saturday. It will attract most of those that took part in the Lincoln handicap, with the possible exception of Lady Broadcast. It is planned to save Lady Broadcast for the Hawthorne Gold Cup to be run in October, in which she will meet all the best handicap stars from the east and the west in a $25,000 skirmish.

DIEGEL DEFENDS TITLE IN P. G. A. TOURNEY TODAY

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Leo Diegel begins defense of the Professional Golfers' association championship he has held for two years at the Fresh Meadow club tomorrow.

Diegel stopped the reign of Walter Hagen in 1928 after Sir Walter had won the title four times in a row. Last year he retained the crown by defeating Johnny Farrell in the final round.

The field this year will have to get along without Hagen, who failed to qualify, but most of the other top-notchers are entered, including Farrell, Gene Sarazen, over whose course the championship will be played; Horton Smith, Al Espinosa, Tommy Armour, Harry Cooper, and Bill Mehlhorn.

The low 32 in tomorrow's qualifying medal round of 36 holes will qualify for match play, starting Tuesday.

THERE'S A BOOM MARKET COMING IN SPORT CROWNS

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The sporting side of life in the United States represents a distracting jam of championship events to be run off in the space between the present writing and world series time in October.

The international polo matches and the national tennis championship both are under way on Long Island, the professional golfers will begin their championship tournament at Flushing Monday, and, lest things show a tendency to quiet down, the Enterprise and Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth Shamrock will sail out of Newport, R. I., next Saturday for the first of their races for the America's cup. In the meantime, on Thursday evening, there is to be a prize fight, of no great social significance but of considerable artistic interest, between Al Singer, the new lightweight champion, and Jimmy McLarnin, at mixed weights, in the Yankee stadium.

Sharkey to Stage Party.

The yacht races will not be long over before the amateur golfers convene at the Merion club, outside Philadelphia, to interpose such resistance as they may against Bobby Jones' audacious ambition to corner all important titles in the game. Then, while the golfers are at their golfing, Jack Sharkey and Victorio Campolo will perform the prize fight industry's final affront to the customers for the outdoor season of 1930, a bout that seems irrelevant and immaterial.

The customers, however, have been manifesting more and more self-control of late and it is quite likely that the affair of Sharkey and Campolo will be not only irrelevant and immaterial but private and confidential as well.

Throughout all these goings on the ball clubs in the upper set of the National league will maintain their spirited competition for the championship, the best buy in entertainment that the entire program of industrialized sport now provides. A contest of corresponding significance in the prize-fight business would be offered to the patrons at $25 per seat, but a single dollar is still regarded as money at the ball grounds, and a whole generation has not produced ten fighters who have had the same expert command of their game that the average $5,000 a year ball player has of his.

Yachts Promise Discomfort.

The dispatches from Newport appear to promise distress, expense and discomfort for those who venture up there to watch the sailboats sail for the invisible cup which has occasioned more spending than any other sporting trophy ever offered. Yet, the railroads and steamship companies are arranging to ship great crowds from New York to Newport and return and the problem of policing the race course when the fleet of floating grandstands gathers in these waters seems even more difficult than the task of clearing the fairways and opening the green when Bobby Jones plays golf.

There were not many yachts on the water when the last America's cup races were sailed in 1920, but the manufacturers have been turning out boats by thousands in many sizes and shapes since then and it is not unlikely that some of the skippers will be just a little bit awkward in their sea manners.

The change of regulations, whereby the first yacht over the finish line wins the race, barring fouls, has stimulated the popular sporting interest in the America's cup races considerably. The change in construction from flimsy racing machines reaching to the sky for winds which they could not endure when they caught them to seaworthy boats with stamina and self-respect also has contributed to the change of mind.

Popular Attitude Altered.

Certainly the common attitude toward the racers was distinctly touched with derision when the Resolute and Shamrock IV. sailed in the calms off Sandy Hook in 1920.

The winning boat didn't always fin-

Bumps and Bruises Only Toll of First Polo Battle

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Both players and mounts came out of the fast play of the first game of the international polo series yesterday without a serious injury among them. In both stables today the report was of ponies that were on their feed and showing no signs of wear save a bit of stiffness here and there. The American string came through in the best shape, the reports in that stable being that every pony in the string was ready now for the second game.

WINSTON GUEST.

In the English camp there prevailed an optimistic outlook toward the second game of the series on Wednesday. Among the players only Capt. C. T. I. Roark, who played so brilliantly yesterday, had encountered anything in the nature of an injury. Toward the close of that first game Roark came down from his horse holding his hand where a ball had struck him. He climbed up and finished the play, however, and today said he felt all right.

Guest's Injury Is Slight.

On the American side Winston Guest today was nursing two bruises on his right side, one on his mallet hand and the other in the upper arm muscle. He explained that a ball hit by Lewis Lacey early in the game had struck him on the hand and that later on Gerald Balding's mallet had struck his arm. Neither injury, however, is serious and Guest is ready for play on Wednesday.

Capt. Maurice Kingssotto, who has had charge of the British pony string, said that his charges had come through in good shape and that he felt the hard play they had gone through yesterday would aid them and make them better ponies for the second game.

It developed today that both sides again will go through the ceremony of naming their lineups for the second game late Tuesday afternoon. The first announcements, it was pointed out by officials, were simply of the lineups of the teams for the first game. So on Tuesday afternoon both the United States and Great Britain will again name a team for the Wednesday game.

Britons May Use George.

It is not thought probable that the United States will change, but there were reports current that the British might use Capt. Richard George in the next game. Capt. George seemed to have clinched the number one post during the close of practice in England, but his play fell off on arrival here and then he contracted a cold and dropped out of practice. Today he said he felt all right and that he believed the practice game at the Rockaway Hunt club would give him enough work to be ready for action in case he was called upon.

With Dan Roark and Barney Balding both out of things because of illness and injury, the only change that the British could make would seem to be one putting George in at No. 1. Capt. Tremayne, who came across as nonplaying captain, is the only uninjured substitute left except Capt. George, and Capt. Tremayne has usually been a back field player.

Where the Americans are concerned, Capt. Thomas Hitchcock Jr. said they did not contemplate any work before the game on Wednesday. He said the men seemed to be in good shape and that they would wait for the second contest.

Praise Ability of McCarthy as Cub Leader

No baseball team, no matter how many stars it possesses, can win a championship without a competent leader. Give Manager Joe McCarthy credit for keeping the boys up there.

That was the tone of letters received yesterday from Cubs fans who were invited to join in the popular game of telling what makes the Cubs successful. The letters follow:

CREDIT WHERE IT IS DUE.

Let's give some credit at this time—where credit is overdue—for we feel sure that the big asset of the present Cub organization is Manager Joe McCarthy.

For some unaccountable reason this winning manager has never been given the praise and credit due him. The Cubs' winning ways developed with his taking hold of the team.

That fact is mighty evident to those of us who have been following the fortunes of our Cubs ever since their birth some 25 or 30 years ago, for we cannot forget those long, barren uninteresting years of play between the Chance and McCarthy régimes, when managers of all types and kinds were coming and going with the seasons.

So let's not dwell too much at this time on the details of the game—meaning individual players—but give credit to the real boss, the fellow who tells them all what to do and just when to do it.

Past results show McCarthy belongs in the same category with the master mind and the canny Connie, and the future will definitely place him there. Success, Joe. THEODORE THOMAS.

CO-OPERATION WINNING FACTOR.

I believe the Cubs are successful through coöperation with Joe McCarthy and each other. The outfield wouldn't be if Cuyler were missing, and it's widely known that Hack and Stevie are perfectly at home afield. Dan Taylor and Heathcote are also fine players.

The infield, Grimm, Hornsby, English, and Bell, regulars, and Kelly, Blair, Beck, and Farrell, subs, make a combination that ranks among the best.

As for pitchers, I wish all so-called fans who advise McCarthy as to the handling of his pitchers would shut up. If they took his place they wouldn't know where to turn. McCarthy has led the Cubs to first place with few good pitchers. Most National league teams have pitchers and some to spare. Not so the Cubs. They worked to the top with only Root, Malone, Bush, and Blake, with Osborn, Teachout, and the lately acquired Jess Petty as relievers.

What would they do without Boss McCarthy to lend a guiding hand?

DOROTHY DILLON.

CARNERA MEETS PAT M'CARTHY AT NEWARK TONIGHT

New York, Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Primo Carnera, giant Venetian, will engage in his last ring encounter in the metropolitan region tomorrow night. It will be one of the few final matches in which he will participate before returning to Europe. The mammoth Italian will seek to add Pat McCarthy, Boston's veteran heavyweight, to his list of vanquished rivals in a bout scheduled for ten rounds at the Newark Velodrome. The match has aroused unusual interest, and Promoter Harry Mandel is anticipating a capacity crowd.

VANCE, TRUE CUB COUSIN, SPANKS GIANTS, 5 TO 2

Herman and Wright Help in Robins' Victory.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 7.—Old Dazzy Vance is the right kind of a Cub cousin. This year he has been a gracious pushover for the Chicagoans at almost all times. And he has been equally consistent as a dynamiter of the New York Giants. Today the Dazzler made it five out of six against the talented gents from across the bridge by whipping Mr. McGraw's fellows, 5 to 2.

The contest was played before a Greater Manhattan mob of 30,000, which, strangely enough, included no active bottle throwers, this being due, perhaps, to the fact that the Giants brought their own gang along, bearing glassware for retaliatory purposes if necessary.

Would Rather Rest for Cubs.

Brooklyn, now only a half game back of the Giants, showed the stimulating effects of the three days of rest they enjoyed immediately prior to yesterday. The Robins are now conceding nothing, but, though they expect to fatten up in a double header at Philadelphia tomorrow, they say they'd rather be resting against the arrival of the Cubs on Tuesday.

Vance was aided immeasurably today in his victory enterprise by some truly brilliant fielding by Johnny Frederick, Babe Herman, and Glenn Wright, and the last two also were the big shots in the batting phase.

The victory today further confirmed the view of statisticians that this season's National league race, on comparative ratings, is one of the craziest in years. It gave the Brooklyn club 13 out of 8 against the Giants, the club that has beaten the Cubs 10 out of 19. And the Cubs have beaten the Robins 14 out of 19.

Reds Most Inconsistent.

When the Cubs get here Tuesday they will have something mutual to moan about in this comparison stuff—the Cincinnati club and its wicked inconsistency. The Reds have whipped the Cubs 11 out of 18 and they've whipped the Robins 9 out of 18, including five straight last month, whereas the Reds have beaten the Cardinals only six times in two years, three games last year and three this.

The Cubs, panicky as they've been, are expected to get their feet on the ground as soon as they arrive at Ebbets field. The Robins have no illusions about that. But the Flatbushers still are in the fight and tonight say they will have Phelps, Luque, and Vance for the Cubs in the order named.

The Giants aren't giving so much thought to the Cubs at present. The champs do not get to the Polo grounds until a week from Tuesday. The immediate concern of the Giants is the rampant St. Louis club, which arrives at the Polo grounds for a four game series.

Robins Take 2 Run Lead.

But getting back to the game here today. The Brooklyns stepped off to a two run lead in the first inning. Moore was safe on Marshall's error and went to second when Herman beat out a bunt. Wright then tripled, scoring Moore and Herman.

Vance was in two jams, one in the fifth, which gave the Giants their first run and made the count 2 to 1, and the other in the sixth, when the game was saved by two superb fielding plays.

After one was out in the fifth, Jackson, Roettger, and Pinch Batter O'Farrell singled in succession, Jackson scoring, but Critz and Leach couldn't help. In the sixth Leach opened with a single. Bill Terry then sent what seemed to be a homer to deep center, but Frederick made a leaping one handed catch, running away from the plate and Leach had to sprint to get back from third to first. Ott then singled, putting Leach on third, but Hogan hit into a double play.

The Giants' spirit wilted terribly after this inning and in the seventh the Robins ran over them for three runs. In this frame the Giants' des-

Hornsby Returns to Bench with Two Charley Horses

Rogers Hornsby's comeback as a Cub regular was limited to three games. He was back on the bench yesterday, his ailment being diagnosed by himself as a charley horse in the right leg and the same in the left. The strain of three days of fielding was too much.

Hornsby made his own decision about not playing. A half hour before game time he told Manager McCarthy of the leg trouble. McCarthy's reply was that Hornsby should use his own judgment. His judgment was that he should rest.

This is mentioned merely to bring out that there appears to be perfect harmony between McCarthy and the Rajah, despite the customary gossip of ill feeling between the pair. Hornsby thinks he'll be able to start again in a couple days.

The threatening weather of yesterday cut down by about 10,000 the possibilities of the Cubs' equalling the all time big league attendance record set by them last season. Including yesterday's turnout, the champs are within 50,000 of their at home record of 1,485,000 admissions. They have four more home games to play.

Fred Blake, who had been ailing for more than a week with what was thought to be a torn stomach muscle, leaped out of a hospital bed yesterday and accompanied the Cubs when they started east last night. His trouble was a kidney obstruction which has been eliminated. He expects to pitch in the Brooklyn series, which opens tomorrow. Root also has fully recovered from the injury in his right elbow.

Cards Gain on Cubs; Trounce Reds Twice

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—The Cardinals beat Cincinnati twice today, 11 to 6 and 4 to 2, and climbed to within two and a half games of the Cubs. The Cards also increased their second place lead over New York to a game and a half. Fourteen hits were assembled by the Cards in the opener, including homers by Douthit and Watkins. Meanwhile Rhem yielded twelve hits. In the night cap Haines outpitched Frey, Benton, and Kolp, Cincinnati getting only five hits. The victories gave the Cards a winning streak of seven games. Score:

Hauser Hits 60th Homer for Orioles; Ties Ruth's Record

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Joe Hauser, first baseman of the Baltimore Orioles of the International league, today drove out his 60th home run of the season and equaled the world record chalked up in 1927 by Babe Ruth of the New York Yankees.

PIRATES' RALLY DRIVES BUSH TO SHOWERS IN 8TH

Wilson Unable to Aid Bruin Offense.

The Cubs' lead in the National League was cut to 2½ games yesterday, for the second place Cardinals gained a game and a half by defeating the Reds twice while the champions were losing to the Pirates. The Cubs now lead the Giants by four games and the Robins by four and a half games.

If the Cubs win only half of their remaining 18 games, the Cards must win 13 out of 19 and the Giants 14 out of 18 to beat out Chicago. The standing then would be:

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Guy Bush yesterday traveled the pace that kills. That's the story of a Cub downfall in another of those frantic free-for-alls in which the bruising, attacking power of the champions finally faded out by 9 to 7 in the face of a stampede put on by the Pirates.

Evil dogged the Cubs from the outset, and that's how Bush happened into a setting of 35,000 fans. Bob Osborn started the pitching, but the Waner boys ruined him. He didn't last out the first inning, which netted three runs. Bush dashed to the rescue. For five innings he was invincible. In the meantime the Cubs were blowing homers over the walls, mixing singles with the homers, and getting themselves into what appeared to be a comfortable 6 to 3 lead.

Then Bush collapsed, and two Pirates' runs in the seventh, followed by three in the eighth, when Bud Teachout failed in a relief rôle, let the enemy snatch away the decision.

Bruins Hit Three Homers.

Three of McCarthy's men played prominent parts in assembling the advantage that Bush couldn't hold. Lester Bell was one. He unfolded the first of the three homers which gave the Cubs the lead. Ol' Hoss Stephenson was next with a similar feat. It remained for George Highpockets Kelly to eclipse them both. With two runs already home in the fifth and a mate waiting, he drove one over the wall. That put the Cubs 6 to 3 to the good and induced Glen Spencer to abandon the job of pitching.

After that the champions were meek, except for a mild outbreak that brought them their last run in the seventh.

Inability of Hack Wilson, possessor of 47 home runs, to do anything of consequence kept the Cubs from a run total that would have carried them through. He walked in his first appearance. When he came up again there were two on, and he tapped into a double play. He fanned in the midst of a fifth inning rally. He fanned again later with two mates waiting. And in the eighth, with the tying run on second, he walked again. Barring the pitchers, Hack was the only Cub to be denied a hit.

Waners Spoil Homecoming.

Bush's brilliance as a rescuer is evidenced by four perfect innings. Not a Pirate reached base on him until after two were out in the sixth. The fast pace began to show its effect in the seventh when Bush walked a couple who were driven home by Paul Waner's second three bagger. Then a pass and two hits finished him in the eighth, thus making room for Teachout, who couldn't prevent the Waner boys from breaking loose again and pounding in the runs that put the champions down to stay.

Baby Waner slashed a single past Blair to start the rumpus that gave the Pirates their three run lead and erased Osborn from the scene before the first inning was completed. Then brother Paul drilled a liner down the right field line. The younger Waner tore around to the plate and brother

HERE'S THE WAY TO KICK GOALS IN TRIBUNE CONTEST

Read These Tips, Then Mail Your Entry Blank.

Entries close for THE TRIBUNE'S drop kicking and forward passing contests a week from today, but the boys who enter have nearly two weeks of practice before the tests are held at seven centers on Sept. 20. The preliminary contests are scheduled for Bessemer park, Washington park, Douglas park, Kelvyn park, Mills' stadium, De Paul university field and Loyola university field. The finals will be conducted at Mills' stadium Sept. 27. All contests start at 9 a. m.

There are two age divisions. Boys between the ages of 15 and 19 will compete together. Boys 14 and under form the other group.

Accuracy's What You Need.

Drop kicking from these distances requires accuracy and rythym rather than power. It is well to remember the following rules for drop kicking.

First, and most important. Keep your eye on the ball. The common error of beginners is to look at the goal posts. Watch the ball. To look up does not help your aim and invariably breaks the rhythm of the kick.

If you need an aid to determine the direction of your kick, draw a line on the ground which, if extended bisects the cross bar on the goal posts. When you kick swing your foot along this line. The direction will be accurate, provided, of course, you catch the ball in center.

How to Hold the Ball.

Bend over. Hold the ball for short distance kicks so that the points of the ball are perpendicular to the ground. The hands should be placed opposite each other on the sides of the ball. Hold the ball with your finger tips along the seams, so that it may be released easily to fall directly on the point.

Some coaches require that the kicker drop the ball on the point at an angle toward the foot. This is particularly desirable for long distance kicking.

For long distances the kicker generally takes two or three steps, but this is not true of 20 and 30 yard attempts. The left foot should be kept stationary. Rock back a normal step as the ball is held in the finger tips, with your weight on your right foot.

Now step forward, throwing your weight on your left foot. Drop the ball on the line which you have drawn and a few inches in advance of your left toe. Just as the ball rebounds from the ground catch it with a powerful swing of your right foot.

The winners of the drop kicking and passing contests will be the guests of THE TRIBUNE at a college football game. The champions may chose either the Navy-Notre Dame game at South Bend on Oct. 11, or the Illinois-Northwestern game at Champaign Oct. 18.

Clip the entry blank in THE TRIBUNE and mail it today. Then you will be assured of your chance to compete in the contests.

ish first and the fact that a committee of professors of mathematics was required to decide the result gave the affair a ponderous formality that tempted the michief wits. Then, after drifting through the dumping grounds for several days the boats one morning caught a breath of a breeze and both put in behind Sandy Hook for shelter, to the rude amusement of the laymen bouncing over the ripples on board a variety of gallery boats.

Old Mr. Lipton in his recent memoirs has confessed to lifelong purpose of self-advertisement as a means of promoting his business, but this motive probably has not had anything to do with his fifth challenge for the America's cup. Originally, his pleasure in sending expensive boats across to challenge for the cup may not have been entirely unmixed with business considerations, but his name needs no advertisement any more and the present challenge would seem to have issued from a genuine sporting ambition to win.

A Purchased Victory.

He has been a strange figure yachting, for he is not a skipper and the sailing of the race is no more intimate to him than to a common customer following the boats on a $2 excursion ticket, except that he is privileged to talk it over with his hired yachtsmen afterward, and, of course, to pay the bills. It is all very much the same as though some exceedingly rich man were to hire Bobby Jones to play his bag of clubs for him in a national open tournament, the victory, if any, to stand to the credit of the employer.

SENATORS RALLY IN NINTH TO BEAT ATHLETICS, 7-6

Marberry Holds Champs After 2d Inning.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Washington remained in the American league race today, beating Philadelphia with two runs in the ninth inning, 7 to 6. The two teams leave for the west tonight with the Athletics six and a half games in front.

Marberry's pitching featured the game of many thrills which stirred the crowd of 30 000 to a frenzy of excitement. After Philadelphia drove Sam Jones from the mound with five runs in the second, Marberry gave the Athletics two hits in the third and then set them down without a hit for the last six innings.

Marberry resented some remarks from the Philadelphia bench in the seventh inning and after striking out Foxx to retire the side he started for Al Simmons. Ruel and Bluege almost had to tackle the big Texan to restrain him until other players interceded.

BROWNS, 9; TIGERS, 6.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns today won their final game of the season with the Detroit Tigers, 9 to 6, during an almost steady rain. The victory gave the Browns an even break with Detroit for the year, with 11 victories each.

Tom Bridges, rookie pitcher, started for Detroit and was followed by Sullivan, Cantrell, Hoyt, and Hogsett. The game was stopped twice because of heavy rainfall, and the playing field became muddy. Because of this several of the total of 26 flits were flukes.

REINKING TAKES $10,000 CUP IN OUTBOARD RACE

Arthur Reinking, Butler university student, yesterday won the $10,000 Commander Eugene McDonald trophy in the ten mile race for the midwest outboard championship off Navy pier. His time was 31:15.

Reinking was a close second to John Maypole, 14 year old River Forest schoolboy, in the first heat. Maypole's boat broke down in the second heat and Reinking took the lead. Behind Maypole was Horace Murray of Chicago.

Lawrence Masters of Chicago captured the class B race, while the class C event went to Reinking. The meet attracted 40 entries, but 24 withdrew because of the rough water.

Yankees Lose to Boston, 5-3; then Win, 5-2

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Yankees ended their final home stand today by splitting a double header with Boston, losing the first, 5 to 3, and winning the second, 5 to 2.

Lou Gehrig hit his 39th homer in the second game and also secured a single and two bases on balls.

In the opener, Milton Gaston pitched and batted the Red Sox to victory. He allowed the Yankees only 4 hits, but his 7 bases on balls, three of which came in the ninth, prevented him from finishing. MacFayden retired the last two batters. Scores:

Cubs Lose to Pirates, 9 to 7; Lead Slashed to 2½ Games

Paul pulled up at third. The situation became more aggravated when Osborn walked Grantham.

Traynor sent a hopper to English and there would have been a double play if it hadn't been for Grantham's speed. English scooped the ball to Blair at second, and Blair relayed it to Kelly to get Traynor. Grantham, however, was safe at second and P. Waner scooted home. On Comorosky's grounder Grantham was cut down at third, English to Bell. Comorosky stole second and continued to third when Hartnett's peg sailed into center field. He scored on a single by Bartell. Suhr also singled, and that was the end of Osborn. Bush got Bool on a fly to right.

Stephenson Salls One Over Fence.

Two were out in the second before the Cubs settled to the task of whittling down the handicap. Bell stepped up and arched his homer into the open space behind the flag pole in right. For a few moments in the third it looked as if another bite might be taken from the Pirates' lead. English and Cuyler singled with one out, but Hack bounced into a double play.

The fourth brought better times for the champions. This was where Stephenson, leading off, let two bad pitches go past and then crashed into the next to send it into the right field seats.

An apparently harmless single by Blair was the first happening in the miniature riot that grew into four Cub runs in the fifth. Blair's hit was a slow hopper that leaped over Bartell's glove in deep short. English hoisted a single into short right, and Blair legged it for third. He scored the tying run while English was being forced on Cuyler's tap. Cuyler then stole second and dashed to third on Catcher Bool's wild throw. Another chapter of Wilson's unprofitable day was unfolded. Hack died swinging vainly at a third strike.

Straw Hat Barrage Follows Homer.

Stephenson renewed the onslaught. He lined a single to center, sending Cuyler across with the run that put the Cubs in front. Then Kelly took charge. He spurned the first ball pitched to him. It was a bit wide. The next was just what he wanted, and he expressed his appreciation with a swing that sent the ball over the left field barrier. Stevie hiked over the plate and Kelly followed him amid a straw hat barrage laid down by reckless customers. That made it Cubs, 6; Pirates, 3.

Bush's first indication that he was going to slow down came when he walked Comorosky with two out in the sixth. Bartell singled and Comorosky went to third. Suhr's pop foul saved Bush from this predicament, but the seventh was different. He walked Bool and he passed Mosolf, who batted for Spencer. A fly to Stephenson eliminated Baby Waner, but Brother Paul hit his second triple of the afternoon, Bool and Mosolf scoring. After Grantham had fouled out Blair staged a beautiful one handed scoop of Traynor's grounder and got him.

Cubs Come Back with Run.

In response to the assault on Bush, the Cubs broke loose with one run in their half of the seventh. Wood assumed the Pirate pitching burden and Stephenson welcomed him by singling to left. Kelly flied out. Hartnett lined to Grantham, and Stevie would have been doubled off first if the throw hadn't plunked him in the back. Then Bell looped a two bagger into the left field corner and Stevie tore for home.

It was a pass that put the Pirates on their way to three runs in the eighth. Bush walked Bartell with one out. Suhr slapped a single between Kelly and Blair. Bool ripped off a single to left, Bartell scoring and Suhr going to third. Bush then departed for the clubhouse. Teachout hustled into the breach and fanned Pinch-Batter Engle.

Then the Waner boys spread the bad news. Lloyd punched a single into left and Suhr carried home the tying run. Paul singled to center, and Bool registered. That was all except that Bartell made the decision more secure by hitting a homer off Root after two were out in the ninth.

peration became so great that Catcher Hogan tried the old bat tipping stunt but was caught at it, contributing considerable to the Robin rally, for Moore was permitted to go to first and Frederick to second as a result of the maneuver. They both scored subsequently.

Slifer Post Wins State Legion Rifle Match

The Hiram J. Slifer post, with 1,079 targets, yesterday won the annual rifle meet of the Illinois department of the American Legion at Fort Sheridan. North Shore post No. 21 was second with 1,004, and Howard third with 996. J. W. Ferrman of Elgin led in the pistol matches with 282.

Siren Wins Lutz Trophy in Yacht Race

The T. C. Lutz trophy, for which Chicago Q class yachts compete annually, has generally been regarded as the property of the Jackson Park Yacht club, but yesterday it went north for a year. The Karas brothers' Siren came up from the Chicago Yacht club and by placing second in the final race of the three day series off Jackson park harbor, rolled up a total of 10 points to win the trophy.

The final point standing for the series was: Siren, 10; the O'Rourke brothers' Intruder, defender of the cup, 8; Ed Jedrzy-Kowski's Princess, 7, and Samuel B. King's Chaperon, 4.

Yesterday's race, sailed over a twice around quadrangular course, one and one-half miles to the leg, was won by the Intruder, with an elapsed time of 2 hours 2 minutes and 23 seconds. The others finished as follows: Siren, 2:03:48; Princess, 2:04:58, and Chaperon, 2:07:29.

Had Siren finished last yesterday the Intruder would have been enabled to tie for the trophy which she won last year. Skipper Ole Karas of the north side boat was taking no chances, however, and was bunched with Intruder and Princess when they crossed the starting line.

The northeast breeze favored the Intruder on the first leg, a beat to weather, and it had a margin of a minute and a quarter at the first mark. Meanwhile Princess and Siren were having a battle of their own for second place, but Siren finally pulled away and cut down Intruder's advantage by 50 seconds before the finish.

Fort Sheridan Polo Team Wins in Last Period, 7-6

Brandt's Two Hit Game Fails to Save Braves.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Braves and Philadelphia split a pair of pitchers' battles here today. After Philadelphia won the first game, 1 to 0, the Braves took the second, 2 to 1.

The Phillies won the first game on the two hits Pitcher Brandt allowed them. Their single run in the first inning was sufficient to beat the Braves, who wasted seven hits trying to score on Phil Collins.

The reverse was true in the second game, when Ray Benge outpitched Socks Seibold. Benge allowed only five hits to Seibold's eight, but his base on balls to Rabbit Maranville and Buster Chatham were fatal, each scoring. Scores:

AMERICAN FIRMS BUY INTO BRITISH CAN INDUSTRY

Will Promote "Open Top" Container Sales.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Entry of leading American manufacturers of cans into the British isles in the last year is expected materially to increase the output of these companies in the lines of containers used for fruit packing and other "open top" lines.

While Great Britain is ahead of the United States in the use of cans for other purposes, the "open top" containers there never have reached anywhere near the volume that they have attained in American trade, and the substantial interests which the American Can company and the Continental Can Company, Inc., have acquired in British companies is expected to result in a rapid expansion of this line.

Buy into British Firms.

Metal Box and Printing Industries, Ltd., the largest manufacturer of cans in the British isles, is the company in which the Continental Can company has acquired an interest, while the American Can company has become interested in the British Can Company, Ltd., which manufactures about 50 per cent of the "open top" cans which are used in Great Britain.

The use of "general" line cans by British manufacturers is more widespread than that by American firms, the majority of teas, oils, paints, varnishes, coffees, candies, and numerous other commodities being packed in cans, the decorations of many of which are striking examples of lithographic art.

Few Open Top Cans Used.

The small extent to which "open top" cans are used in Great Britain has been mentioned by Sir Edward Jones, chairman of the British national food canning council, who put the annual consumption of this type of can by British manufacturers of foods at between 16,000,000 and 18,000,000 annually, or "less than one can for every three of population."

National Tea Reports Drop in August Sales

The National Tea company reports consolidated sales for the month of August, 1930, of $6,894,570.22, as compared with $7,438,331.62 for the corresponding month of last year.

International Match.

Is the International Match preferred considered a sound investment and is it likely to prove a profitable one? Any information on this subject will be appreciated. Miss E. M.

Although International Match corporation is an American company, incorporated under Delaware laws in June, 1923, it is controlled by Swedish interests and operates in many different countries.

As a subsidiary of Swedish Match company it is associated with Kreuger & Toll company. The latter is a financing company interested mainly in the match and building industries. These interests have expanded rapidly through the acquisition of match monopolies in various foreign countries, such monopolies being obtained in return for large loans made to the government by Kreuger & Toll Co. Ivar Kreuger is president of International Match corporation.

This company was formed to acquire from the Swedish Match company and other interests the greater part of the capital stocks of companies owning ninety match manufacturing plants in various European and other countries. It also owns Vulcan Match Co., Inc., and its subsidiaries, the sales organization of Swedish Match company in the United States.

As a result of the increase in the tariff on matches President Kreuger announced plans for the beginning of manufacture of matches in the United States.

International Match corporation's earnings, as a result of its extensive expansion program, have increased rapidly since its formation. For the year ended Dec. 31, 1929, net income, available for dividends, was $20,623,530, which was equal to $15.28 per share earned on 1,250,000 preferred shares and $17.11 per share on 1,000,000 common shares. Net income in 1928 was $19,098,861, against $16,618,888 in 1927, $14,586,272 in 1926, $10,896,604 in 1925, and $7,623,028 in 1924.

At the end of last year current assets were $23,616,531, and current liabilities were $18,346,408, leaving a net working capital of $5,756,535 against $5,985,582 a year before. During 1929 earned surplus was increased from $47,216,658 to $59,800,622.

As of Dec. 31, 1929, total assets and liabilities were $217,615,838. Funded debt was $48,849,000.

The cumulative participating preference stock [par $35] is high grade. Dividends are $4.00 per year. The majority of the common is owned by Swedish Match company.

Southwest Gas Utilities.

Please advise if you consider Southwest Gas Utilities corporation first lien and secured sinking fund bonds, 6½% series, due 1943, a sound investment.—B. U.

They are somewhat speculative.

ILLINOIS POWER AND LIGHT CORPORATION

BOARD OF TRADE PLANS CHANGES TO HELP BUYERS

Feed Shortage May End Wheat Export.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Grain traders are confronted with two of the most important factors that have ever been presented.

One is the great shortage of feed grains and feedstuffs created by drought and heat of the past summer, which, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde says, may result in prohibiting exports of wheat and bring about consumption of the country's surplus by the end of the season. The other is prospects of a change of most vital interest in regulations of the Chicago Board of Trade which, it is believed, will put it on a better standing than ever before.

It is recognized that the Chicago Board of Trade stands as the leader of the world's grain trade, and plans are under way which will give it a higher place than heretofore. Rules and regulations that have favored elevator interests to the detriment of the speculative trade are to be changed. Rules that are said to give buyers a more even break with the sellers instead of the latter having most of the advantages. Elimination of contract grades of grain that never come to Chicago, and placing of the market in a position where a buyer who wants red winter, hard winter or spring wheat can secure a delivery of the grain suited to his requirements by purchasing futures are understood to be in contemplation.

Changing the rules favoring the delivery of grain in cars on track in the last three days of an expiring future, which permits private elevators to take grain out of their houses and deliver it on track on future contracts and at the same time controlling storage facilities, are considered objectionable factors, and there is a desire for a change, so that track deliveries will apply only to country shipments.

May Eliminate Reporting Trades.

Regulations that have kept many large speculators out of the market because they objected to having their trades reported are to be modified or removed entirely, as well as a number of other factors that have stood in the way of a wide open market.

There have been conferences between leading grain men and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde, and President John A. Bunnell of the Board of Trade is said to have been in Washington recently and conferred with officials of the agricultural department. It is also said that the Board of Trade directors at their meeting on Tuesday will take up a number of these points, as they are anxious to do everything possible to benefit the trade.

Discussing the situation, a leading official of the Chicago Board of Trade said: "Give us a free open market and speculation will increase and prices advance so that little or no farm relief will be needed from the government. The Board of Trade will furnish it.

Speculation Under Last Year's.

Speculative trading on the Chicago Board of Trade, while heavy at times during the last eight months, has fallen below last year's in wheat and corn, and increased in oats and rye. Aggregate of all sales this year is 12,578,222,000 bu, against 14,580,436,000 bu last year, a decrease of 13.7 per cent as given by the grain futures administration. Comparisons with the last three ciphers omitted follow:

Wheat	9,163,515	10,183,385
Corn	2,548,715	3,603,574
Oats	448,100	561,310
Rye	416,892	232,367
Total, bu, 8 mos.	12,578,222	14,580,636

Unexpected Change in Wheat.

One of the most unexpected changes in sentiment and position in the Chicago wheat market occurred on Friday after a three day break, with outlook in favor of still lower prices, despite the fact that they were down to the lowest of the season, also the lowest since July, 1914, when cash wheat in Chicago sold at 77¾c. Advances of 4@4c a bu resulted in the two closing days of the week. Recent longs have liquidated and the market oversold.

The statistical situation of wheat is bearish in North American, and fairly bullish abroad, outside of Russia and the Danube countries. Should the United States get on a strictly domestic basis it would not be necessary to pay any attention to what Canada, the southern hemisphere countries, or Europe does, as they will have to work out their own salvation.

Heavy Marketing in Canada.

Marketing of wheat in western Canada is of record volume and it is said that the pool is being forced by the banks to sell their wheat as fast as possible. December wheat in Winnipeg, which a year ago was a premium over, is now at a discount under the same delivery at Chicago.

The week's fluctuations covered a range of more than 6c, with the close ¾@⅞c lower than a week ago, September being 51¼c; December, 90⅞@91⅝c; March, 94⅝c, and May, 97⅝@97⅞c.

Government Report on Wednesday.

A bullish government report is expected on corn on Wednesday. Estimates are that it will show around 1,840,000,000 to 1,980,000,000 bu. Last month's estimate was 2,212,000,000 bu and last year's 2,614,000,000 bu, with a five year average of 2,700,000,000 bu. Estimates on spring wheat are ex-

More Public Purchases of Bonds Noted

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The bond market celebrated the passage of Labor day by advancing to the highest levels in about three years. Buying is still largely institutional, but dealers report that the increasing strength of prices is bringing a better demand from private investors who are beginning to pick up obligations which have not shared in the rise.

The volume of new financing in recent weeks has been small, but better competition from that source is in sight. Dealers report that numerous large loans, particularly utility financing, are in sight and it is expected that offerings will be made as soon as convenient. Few new foreign issues are anticipated since the market for issues of that description has been rather unsettled.

Will Watch Financing.

Recalling the heavy bond flotations of last spring and the market's tendency to ease under the burden thus placed upon it observers will watch closely the reaction to the forthcoming financing.

It is pointed out, however, that prices have been gathering strength most of the summer, that there is a scarcity in floatnig supplies of the best issues for which the demand has been most insistent, that another perodic bond cycle has apparently started, and that no interruption to the course of easy money is in sight. For these reasons students of the market are viewing the immediate future optimistically.

The features of the last trading week, shortened by the Labor day holiday, were the bullish demonstrations made by the highest grade domestic liens and the erratic moves of the Latin Americans. The latter, affected by uncertain political conditions in the republics, bobbed up and down within wide ranges.

European Issues Firm.

European bonds were generally firm, especially the French governments, which touched record highs. Buying of these obligations come chiefly from French sources, for the Paris authorities are seeking to repatriate the issues, sold here several years ago.

Domestic rails were buoyant and many new highs were reached. Utilities were less spectacular, but there was better inquiry for industrials, which usually lag behind the other major groups in an upturn. United States governments tended to ease, for money was firmer.

Sales of 23 Chain Systems Drop 10 Per Cent in August.

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Sales of 23 leading chain store systems for August showed a decline of 10 per cent, compared with the same period last year, while for the eight months ended Aug. 30 the sales for the same systems decreased 2.73 per cent, compared with the like period of 1929, a compilation by George H. Burr & Co. shows.

Mexico Orders 115 Freight Cars from American Firm

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Pressed Steel Car company has received an order from the Mexican railway for 85 box cars, 15 automobile cars, and 15 flat cars. The New York Central railroad has ordered 50 milk cars from the Merchants' Dispatch.

RASKOB CONCERN SEEKS CONTROL OF PARMELEE CO.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—The Checker Cab Manufacturing corporation, in which John J. Raskob owns about 200,000 out of 375,000 shares outstanding, is planning to acquire a controlling interest in the Parmelee Transportation company, in which it already owns an important interest, it was learned today. The directors of the Parmelee corporation are expected to meet on Tuesday to ratify the proposal, according to reports.

If the plan to acquire a 60 per cent interest in the Parmelee Transportation company is consummated, the Checker Cab Manufacturing corporation will control a company with subsidiaries operating 7,500 taxicabs, buses, and trucks in New York, Chicago, and Pittsburgh, with plans to extend operations to other principal cities in the United States.

The Parmelee Transportation corporation was formed in April of last year as a holding company for taxicab and other motor transportation companies. It owns about 30 per cent of the Chicago Yellow Cab company, 92 per cent of the Yellow Taxi corporation of New York.

COMMODITY PRICE INDEX SHOWS SLIGHT MOVEMENT UPWARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 7.—Prof. Irving Fisher's index number of commodity prices, based on 100 as the average of 1926, is 83.5, which compares with 83.3 a week ago, 82.8 two weeks ago, 83.8 three weeks ago, and 83.1 four weeks ago. The average of Jan. 24, at 93.7 was the highest of the year to date and also the highest since the last week of October, 1929; the average of two weeks ago was the lowest. The highest average of 1929 was 99.2 on July 2; the lowest was 92.2 on Nov. 22.

The average for the full month of August was 83.2, which compares with 83.7 for July, 86.4 for June, and 97.3 for August, 1929.

Crump's index number of British commodity prices, as cabled, for the last week and also based on 100 as the average for 1926, is 75.2, which compares with 75.5 a week ago, 76.3 two weeks ago, 76.7 three weeks ago, and 76.6 four weeks ago.

BUSINESS IDLES AS SENTIMENT GROWS BETTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—The improvement shown in the business indices a week ago was not sustained this week. Although signs of moderate progress were furnished by the production figures for the steel industry and by a small improvement in freight loadings, the majority of reports on the week's activity showed a decline.

A sharp drop in electrical production was registered for the last week of August, indicating a rather widespread curtailment of factory activity prior to Labor day; building contracts fell to the lowest levels since last January; automobile production declined; bank clearings, while slightly better than the previous week were lower by 33.9 per cent than in the corresponding week of last year; the record of failures continued large and the price level as a whole was substantially unchanged, although wheat slumped to new lows for the year to date.

Despite the somewhat disappointing record of the week, sentiment continued to show improvement. This was reflected in a strong stock market culminating at the close of the week in the breaking through of the July highs. Expectation of more tangible evidences of a pick up in business has become widespread in the financial district.

Steel Operations.

In good measure the failure of business to push ahead last week has been ascribed to the normal slackening which is apt to precede the Labor day holiday. The decline in electrical production is largely the result of this factor and the small size of the rise in steel operations may also be due to the holiday.

According to the Iron Age, thee steel industry as a whole was operating at 55 per cent of capacity last week, compared with 54 per cent a week ago and 52 per cent the week before that. The reviews of the industry displayed a more optimistic tone and pointed out the efforts of manufacturers to halt the price decline.

Car loadings for the week ended Aug. 23 totaled 940,549, an advance of 17,736 over the previous week, but 197,000 under the corresponding week of last year. Building contracts reported to F. W. Dodge corporation showed a daily average for the last week of August of $9,660,986.

Ford Cuts Output.

Electrical production totaled 1,664,643,000 kilowatt hours against 1,675,757,000 the preceding week and 1,738,812,000 in the last week of August, 1929. Automobile production came to 66,145 units, against 73,129 the previous week. Ford production has been reduced by 4,000 cars.

The record of failures embraces only five business days, owing to the holiday and shows a totals of 336, compared with 300 in the corresponding week of last year.

Number of Firms Cutting Wages Reported as Small

BY SCRUTATOR.

Perhaps the most hopeful business sign in the atmosphere of the last ten or eleven months has been the resistance of wage scales to cutting. While there has been considerable amount of nibbling at them, their staunch stand has been given notice even by the American Federation of Labor.

The last monthly survey of business by this organization contains a chart showing the number of firms which, since the first of the year, have reduced wages by the direct method of lowering pay per hour or per day. On the percentage basis this number seems remarkably small.

Until March of this year no month had shown as many as three out of 1,000 reporting firms cutting wages. The percent per month remained below five to the 1,000 through May. In June there was an upward trend and in July, the last month for which statistics were shown, there was a rise. In that month the number of wage cutting firms rose to eighty-six in each 10,000, considerably less than one in a hundred.

The year 1924, a period of minor depression, found wage cutting much more prevalent. Five months after the depression started, 141 firms out of 10,000 reduced pay scales. On this basis of comparison, the federation holds, wage earners suffered more in five months of 1924 than in thirteen months since the 1929 prosperity began to fade out. The chart, it is added, "shows distinctly that there has been a widespread appreciation of the necessity of high wages to create purchasing power."

Disturbing the equation, however, is the rapid upward turn in July and the fear that August figures, when published, will show its continuance. The forecast of the federation experts is that if retail business develops this fall in sufficient volume to set retailers buying and manufacturers working, the purchasing power of wage workers, representing 55 per cent of the national income, will be kept intact. If the buying does not develop, it is indicated, that more wage cuts will come and depressed conditions continue through the winter.

Wage workers have undoubtedly suffered more from unemployment and part time work than in 1924. The federation's index shows that 22 per cent of the union men in the country were out of work in August and that the number not working had not fallen under 20 per cent since February. At this time last year only about 9 per cent of the union forces were unemployed.

Try to Keep Scales Intact.

In summary it may be said that employers are more anxious now to keep wage scales intact than they were in the past at such times. Where wage cutting is done it is not ballyhooed. Far more business leaders have announced opposition to cuts than have advocated them. That line is in pleasant contrast to 1921, when corporation management was almost unanimous in its decision to lower wages. The consequences were strikes and other painful disturbances.

Some liquidation of labor costs, particularly in the building trades, may have to come. But the maintenance of wage standards gives promise, if it lasts, that incomes will be available to purchase freely in future at price levels as high, or higher, than those prevailing today for commodities.

FINANCE CARDS ARE STACKED IN FAVOR OF U. S.

Conditions Not So Bad as Thought.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—Two years ago the stock market had passed from a condition in which the realities of the financial and industrial condition were seriously considered, into a condition in which the imagination, the emotions, had become almost the sole guide to judgment.

We had entered the period in which speculators' borrowings, increasing half a billion dollars or so per month, were explained as meaning nothing but provision of working capital for normal requirements or industry. Wall street was presently to insist that an advance of 50 to 100 per cent in the price of a highly speculative stock meant simply that it was worth 50 to 100 per cent more than prices already reached, and would presently sell at that figure.

If Wall street's borrowings carried the money rate to 10 or 20 per cent, that was either because the certainty of 25 or 50 per cent profits in speculation made the cost of money to equip the venture negligible, or else because the reserve board was meddling with the market.

A Bit Insane.

The oracles of the stock exchange [and with them some stray economists] assured an interested public that the reserve banks ought to force down Wall street money rates to help prosperity and that, so far from a billion dollar increase in brokers' loans being alarming, the market ought to look hopefully forward to a further increase of five billions.

We know now that the community in general, and Wall street in particular, were just a bit insane in that period. But we have faced the reckoning. It has been such a reckoning as the imagination could not have pictured in the early days of 1929. The structure of stock exchange prices built up since 1927, and the credit accumulated for that speculation, were swept away almost in a single month.

Then came the aftermath of disordered business and falling prices for Heavy Consumption of Oats.

Consumption of oats on the farms is heavy and expectations are that supplies will all be wanted before another crop is available. In the aggregate, supplies are larger than last year, and prices are relatively low as compared with other grains.

Hedging operations develop on all bulges, while breaks run into good support from industries and speculators. Prices moved within a moderate range and closed ½@⅝c lower for the week. September finished at 40c; December, 43½@43⅝c; March, 45½c; May, 47@47½c. Prices follow:

Shorts in rye had a bad time most of the week as offerings were not heavy when they wanted to buy, and there was liberal liquidation in sympathy with other grains early, and a sharp advance with them later. The close was at net losses of 1⅜@1⅞c, with September 57⅜c, December 63c, March 67c, and May 69¼c.

HEALTHY TRADE IN LARD

Speculative and consumptive trade in lard and meats is the best in recent years. Foreigners and domestic users are taking cash lard, and in some instances the latter are paying 10c premium. Foreigners are buying earlier in the season than usual as their stocks are said to be low. Stocks in the United States are the lowest in recent years.

Speculators have bought millions of pounds for December and January and sold their nearby deliveries, while packers and cash distributors have taken the latter and sold deferred months in a liberal way. Make of lard is said to be small. There was moderate selling for profits at the last, but values finished close to the best of the season, with net gains of 57½@67½c.

Cured bellies are in light supply and bring premiums. Prospective prices of hogs are considered favorable for an advance in product. Cotton seed oil interests are understood to have been in the market, but spreads have not made any money so far. Prices follow:

FUTURES IN BUTTER AND EGGS ARE LOWER ON MERCANTILE MART

Butter and egg futures worked lower on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange during the past week, a flow of bearish news bringing in a volume of selling pressure which the bullish element was unable to withstand.

November butter opened the week at 40¾c, gradually dropping from day to day and reaching a low point at Saturday's close when sales went at 39½c, off $264 per car from the close of the previous week. Trading in December butter started last Monday, opening sales being at 41c. The close yesterday was 40c, off $192 per car.

Of major interest in the trading were reports from the principal storage centers showing less butter being removed than a year ago. This was a direct reversal of the news during the previous six weeks. It indicated that production of butter was on the increase. The bearish traders seized upon the news as a selling incentive, while nervousness resulted on the part of scattered long holders. Profittaking and short selling carried the delivery lower.

The bullish element counters the reports of increased production with figures which show the present holdings still far below those of last year, but so far the support behind the market has not been of enough strength to offset the selling.

November eggs held firm early in the week but weakened toward the close, selling pressure causing a price recession here as in butter. The daily reports from the principal storage centers have shown fairly good withdrawals over last year but bears maintain the withdrawal rate is not sufficient to absorb the present surplus. November eggs closed the week at 28¼c, off ¾c from the close of the previous week.

Sales were: Butter, 794 cars, or 15,600,000 pounds; eggs, 151 cars, or 1,800,000 dozen. Butter sales in the five days' trading this month has already exceeded total trading in September, 1929.

Axton Fisher Tobacco to Pay Regular Dividend

The board of directors of the Axton Fisher Tobacco company on Sept. 2, 1930, declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on the class "A" common stock, payable Oct. 1, 1930, to stockholders of record Sept. 15, 1930.

DEPUTIES OF MEXICO TO STUDY MORGAN ACCORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 7.—An agreement closed July 25 by Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., chairman of the international committee of bankers of Mexico, and Minister of Finance Louis Monez de Oca regarding the future payments on the Mexican foreign debt and the national railway obligations, which is generally accepted as the main step in this republic's financial rehabilitation, will go to the chamber of deputies tomorrow for a detailed study. An approval of the agreement by the Mexican legislators is expected, although special sessions for study of the pact may be expected.

BUSINESS LIGHT IS NOW GREEN, CLOTHIER SAYS

"The business light is showing green for the first time in six months," J. B. Connor of Chicago, executive secretary of the Clothiers' corporation, which began a three day buying meeting yesterday in the Congress hotel, said at the opening of the session.

Managers and buyers of 64 stores throughout nine central states are attending the meeting. "Reports from various stores, especially in the west, in Indiana, and around Detroit, indicates a stable increase in business over reports of six months ago," Mr. Connor said. "This is no flash in the pan, no boom, but a slow, gradual improvement."

Announces Plan for Cut of Third in Cotton Acreage

St. Matthews, S. C., Sept. 7.—(AP)—Plans for a one-third reduction of the cotton acreage in the south in 1931 were announced here today by J. Skottowe Wannamaker, president of the American Cotton association. Efforts will be made, Wannamaker said, to divert 15,000,000 acres from cotton production to the production of feed crops. Farmers will be asked to pledge to hold this year's crop until next season in an effort to boost the price.

Independent Oil to Vote on Sale to Phillips Sept. 30

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—A special meeting of stockholders of Independent Oil and Gas company has been called for Sept. 30 to vote on a proposal to sell the company's assets to the Phillips Petroleum company.

U. S. TREASURY MAKES $325,000,000 OFFER OF CERTIFICATES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—The United States treasury is today offering for subscription, at par and accrued interest, through the federal reserve banks, an issue of twelve month 2½ per cent treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1931, dated and bearing interest from Sept. 15, 1930, and maturing Sept. 15, 1931. The amount of the offering is $325,000,000 or thereabouts.

The treasury will accept in payment for the new certificates, at par, treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TS-1930 and treasury bills dated July 14, 1930, both maturing Sept. 15, 1930, but such subscriptions will not be given preferred allotment.

About $350,000,000 of treasury certificates of indebtedness, about $51,000,000 in treasury bills and about $35,000,000 in interest payments on the public debt become due and payable on Sept. 15, 1930.

SHARE EXCHANGE OFFER IS MADE BY PRUDENTIAL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 7.—The directors of Prudential Investors, Inc., have approved a limited offer to common stockholders under which they may exchange their shares for preferred stock, paying cumulative dividends, at the rate of $6 a share annually.

The offer, which will expire on Oct. 15, permits the exchange of four and one-half shares of common for one share of preferred. The maximum amount of preferred which may be issued under the plan is 50,000 shares. The plan is designed to provide income for common stockholders who desire it, as the common shares are not on a dividend basis.

John C. Maxwell, president of the company, said it was considered inadvisable to establish dividends on the common stock while the net assets of the corporation had a market value less than the amount of paid-in capital. He said the new preferred stock, as of Aug. 31, had behind it liquid assets of more than $332 a share, after giving effect to the proposed exchange.

Acres make MILES

AGRICULTURE, first business of civilized men, is similar to the electric light and power industry in its need of much fixed capital in proportion to its annual sales.

The farmer's investment in land and buildings is usually about five times his gross income.

They both produce prime necessities—food for bodily energy and power for machines. Both must be made available in great quantity and low unit prices. The financial value of the services rendered is no index of the social value.

Both industries are extended in space—farms cover greater areas than factories of equivalent output, and successful electric systems embrace wide areas within their webs of distribution and transmission lines.

The extension of electric service to farms on sound business lines is dependent, then, upon the establishment of useful and profitable connections between relatively large amounts of fixed assets.

The distances from farm home to farm home, the sizes of farms, farm income and profits, kinds of crops, types of farming and the efficiency of farmers are among the elements which determine whether the electrification of a farm or group of farms is practical.

The cost of rural electric lines, the ability of the power company to induce farmers to use power in sufficient volume, and the perfection of cheap, efficient electrical farm appliances enter into the problem of farm electr

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

SYNOPSIS.

Mr. Clement is the vicar of a country village in England. His attractive wife, Griselda, is nearly twenty years his junior. The vicar's young nephew, Dennis, lives with them.

Col. Protheroe, a pompous parishioner, who makes life miserable for his daughter, Anne, and his second wife, is expected at the vicarage at 6:15 one evening. At 5:30 the vicar is called to visit a dying parishioner and leaves word for the colonel that he will be late. On returning at 7 the vicar meets Lawrence Redding, an artist, who is working in a studio on the vicarage grounds, coming out of the house in an agitated state. The day before the vicar had discovered the artist and Mrs. Protheroe in each others' arms and they had confessed to him their love for each other. In his study the vicar finds the colonel sprawled across the desk, shot through the head, murdered apparently, as no weapon is found. Dr. Haydock is sent for and he says Protheroe has been dead half an hour and calls the police. A note which the colonel started to write to the vicar is headed 6:20. A clock, overturned when the colonel fell forward, stopped at 6:15, but it was always kept fifteen minutes fast.

Lawrence Redding confesses he murdered Col. Protheroe. Shortly after Mrs. Protheroe tells Col. Melchett, the chief constable of the county, that she shot her husband. Miss Marple, whose house adjoins the vicarage, saw Anne Protheroe going to the vicarage about 6:15. From there she went to the studio. She carried no hand bag and had no place to conceal a weapon. Redding came along shortly after and joined her at the studio. They came out about twenty minutes later and walked towards the village.

Lawrence and Anne admit they had confessed the crime thinking the other had committed it. Lawrence said he had come back to see the vicar after leaving Anne and had found his pistol lying on the floor beside Col. Protheroe and thought Anne must have taken it.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

RETRACTING STATEMENTS.

"Perhaps Anne had had it with her today," Lawrence continued. "After we parted in the village she must have come back here and—and—O! I suppose I was mad to think of it. But that's what I thought. I slipped the pistol in my pocket and came away. Just outside the vicarage gate, I met the vicar. He said something nice and normal about seeing Protheroe—suddenly I had a wild desire to laugh. His manner was so ordinary and everyday and there was I all strung up. I remember shouting out something absurd and seeing his face change. I was nearly off my head, I believe. I went walking—walking—at last I couldn't bear it any longer. If Anne had done this ghastly thing, I was, at least, morally responsible. I went and gave myself up."

There was a silence when he had finished. Then the colonel said in a toneless, like voice.

"I would like to ask just one or two questions. First, did you touch or move the body in any way?"

"No, I didn't touch it at all. One could see he was dead without touching him."

"Did you notice a note lying on the blotter half concealed by his body?"

"No."

"Did you interfere in anyway with the clock?"

"I never touched the clock. I seem to remember a clock lying overturned on the table, but I never touched it."

"Now as to this pistol of yours, when did you last see it?" Lawrence Redding reflected. "It's hard to say exactly."

"I will tell you. I suppose you know about—about everything."

"You left it lying about carelessly?"

"Yes. I really didn't think about it. It was just there."

"So that any one who came to your cottage could have seen it?"

"Yes."

"I'm almost sure it was there the day before yesterday. I remember pushing it aside to get an old pipe. I think it was the day before yesterday—but it may have been the day before that."

"Who has been to your cottage lately?"

"O, crowds of people. Some one is always drifting in and out. I had a sort of tea party the day before yesterday. Lettice Protheroe, Dennis, and all their crowd. And then one or other of the old pussies came in now and again."

"Do you lock the cottage up when you go out?"

"No, why on earth should I? I've nothing to steal. And no one does."

"Do you think she would remember when the pistol was there last?"

"It comes to this—that almost any one might have taken that pistol?"

"It seems so—yes."

The door opened and Dr. Haydock came in with Anne Protheroe. She started at seeing Lawrence. He, on his part, made a tentative step towards her.

"Forgive me, Anne," he said. "It was abominable of me to think what I did."

"I—" she faltered, then looked appealingly at Col. Melchett. "It is true, what Dr. Haydock told me?"

"That Mr. Redding is cleared of suspicion? Yes. And now what about this story of yours, Mrs. Protheroe? Eh, what about it?

"I suppose you think it dreadful of me?"

"Well, shall we say—very foolish? But that's all over. What I want now, Mrs. Protheroe, is the truth—the absolute truth."

"I will tell you. I suppose you know about—about everything."

"Yes."

"I was to meet Lawrence—Mr. Redding—that evening at the studio. At a quarter past six. My husband and I drove into the village together. I had some shopping to do. As we parted he mentioned casually that he was going to see the vicar. I couldn't get word to Lawrence and I was rather uneasy. I—well, it was awkward meeting him in the vicarage garden whilst my husband was at the vicarage."

Her cheeks burned as she said this. It was not a pleasant moment.

"I reflected that perhaps my husband would not stay very long. To find this out, I came along the back lane and into the garden. I hoped no one would see me, but of course old Miss Marple had to be in her garden! She stopped me and we said a few words and I explained I was going to call for my husband. I felt I had to say something. I don't know whether she believed me or not. She looked rather—funny.

"When I left her, I went straight across to the vicarage and round the corner of the house to the study window. I crept up to it very softly expecting to hear the sound of voices. But to my surprise there were none. I just glanced in, saw the room was empty, and hurried across the lawn and down to the studio where Lawrence joined me almost at once."

"You say the room was empty, Mrs. Protheroe?"

"Yes, my husband was not there."

"Extraordinary."

"You mean, ma'am, that you didn't see him?" said the inspector.

"No, I didn't see him."

"Do you mind, Mrs. Protheroe, just showing us exactly what you did?"

"Not at all."

Somehow I didn't much like doing it. It gave me an uncomfortable feeling. But of course I complied.

Presently I heard footsteps outside, they paused for a minute, then retreated. Inspector Slack indicated to me that I could return to the other side of the room. Mrs. Protheroe reëntered through the window.

"Is that exactly how it was?" asked Col. Melchett.

"I think exactly."

"Then can you tell us, Mrs. Protheroe, just exactly where the vicar was in the room when you looked in?" asked Inspector Slack.

"The vicar? I—no, I'm afraid I can't. I didn't see him."

"That's how you didn't see your husband. He was round the corner of the writing desk."

"O!" she paused. Suddenly her eyes grew round with horror. "It wasn't there that—that——"

"Yes, Mrs. Protheroe. It was while he was sitting there."

"O!" she shivered.

He went on with his questions.

"Did you know, Mrs. Protheroe, that Mr. Redding had a pistol?"

"Yes. He told me so once."

"Did you ever have that pistol in your possession?"

"No."

"Did you know where he kept it?"

"I'm not sure. I think—yes, I think I've seen it on a shelf in his cottage. Didn't you keep it there, Lawrence?"

"When was the last time you were at the cottage, Mrs. Protheroe?"

"O! about three weeks ago. My husband and I had tea there."

Puppy Love Comedy Theme of This Altalker

[ALL TALKER.]

★

Produced by R. K. O.
Directed by Melville Brown.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.
THE CAST.

Tommy Mills.....Arthur Lake
Marie Thurber.....Sue Carol
Warren Thurber.....Lucien Littlefield
David Tuttle.....William Collier Sr.
Mrs. Thurber.....Helen Ware

By Roberta Nangle.

"She's My Weakness," which was known as "Tommy" on the stage, presents Arthur Lake, the well known exponent of adolescent comedy, in the throes of puppy love. Tommy loves and wants to wed Marie Thurber, played by Sue Carol. Marie is willing and her parents are equally willing.

The parents' encouragement, in fact, is the cause of all the trouble. Mr. and Mrs. Thurber just can't wait to hear their daughter say "I do" at the altar. Marie's silly little head is befuddled by their approval. Her mother and father have been making up her mind for her all her life and she thinks she should be allowed to pick a husband without any help from them.

A wise old uncle, seeing Tommy's young dream of love about to go glimmering, sets out to turn Marie's mama and papa against her ardent swain. Knowing that parental disapproval is a strong incentive to matrimony, he manages to make Tommy look like the blackest of black sheep to Mr. and Mrs. Thurber.

If you like Arthur Lake's vapid face, juvenile mannerisms and hoarse soprano voice, you may enjoy this picture. The plot is clean, wholesome, and unexciting. Lucien Littlefield, playing old fashioned father, and William Collier, as the worldly-wise uncle, provide the best comedy in the show.

[SILENT.]

Presented at the Cinema Art theater.

"Stampede" is not the rushing action picture the title might lead you to expect. It is a slow moving, quiet affair that will appeal only to those persons who are curious about far countries and strange people.

The picture, acted by a tribe of Habbania Arabs in the Sudan, depicts the primitive struggle for existence in the desert. A noble Sheik leads his people to a locality where food and water are obtainable. They settle down in thatched houses built near a river and are content for several years. Then the river dries up, the heat becomes unbearable and the hunters can find no animals to kill for sustenance.

The tribe starts out again to search for a livable spot, reaching it after days of marching, hungry and footsore, through the desert and over dangerous trails. A forest fire blocks their way; their chief is lost; some die on the march, but the majority survive. The moral seems to be that the fit will survive and that life is sweet if one has enough of to eat and a place to sleep.

The Arab men and women in the cast are handsome, strong featured blacks with little camera consciousness. The photography is excellent in spots and should be geographically interesting to persons with the wanderlust.

Prince of Wales Has Private Show of His African Animal Movie

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The prince of Wales has adopted a new rôle—film impresario. Last night at Balmoral castle he gave a cinema entertainment consisting of films, most of the photography by himself, descriptive of his "big game hunt with a camera" in Uganda and the Sudan recently.

The prince, in addition to lecturing about his own films, worked the projection himself, assisted by the duke of Gloucester. The audience included King George, Queen Mary, and their guests, members of the royal household, and the castle staff.

The newcomer was baptized tonight with the name Badouin Albert Axel Marie Gustave—the first name for the elder brother of King Albert, who died in 1891, and this preliminary baptismal service will be followed by a formal ceremony within a month, King Albert acting as godfather.

The baby was born at Stuyvenberg castle, around which barbed wire had been stretched to keep back the curious public. However, when a salute of 101 guns announced the event a great crowd surrounded the castle to cheer the prince and his family.

Princess Astrid, who married the heir to the Belgian throne Nov. 4, 1926, is 25 years old. She is the first daughter of Prince Charles of Sweden, brother of the Swedish king, and of Princess Ingeborg.

Prince Leopold and Princess Astrid have another child, Princess Josephine Charlotte, who is nearly three years old.

News of the birth immediately was telephoned to the crown princess of Italy, the former Marie Jose of Belgium, sister of Crown Prince Leopold. Marie Jose herself expects a baby about next January.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 7.—In the presence of a visiting party of movie folk, prominent Canadian public officials and a large turnout of the public generally, the first sod was turned this afternoon at Chambly, fifteen miles south of Montreal, for the new studios to be erected by the Canadian American Talking Pictures, Ltd.

Alex Thurber, member of the provincial legislative assembly for Chambly county, turned the sod. Mayors of surrounding cities were present. Canadian aspirants for movie honors took hope when Ray Jackson, managing director of the company, said local talent will be encouraged in the employment of the organization. He said the company would make pictures at Chambly for world wide distribution.

"All the large distributing companies have pledged their support," he declared.

Balchen Flies to Lief Erikson Festival.

Navy pier was a blaze of color from flags and vivid costumes yesterday as thousands of Norwegians paraded under the auspices of the Norwegian National league at the annual observance of Leif Erikson day, held in connection with a water carnival. After the aquatic events a program of music and speaking was held in the auditorium, followed last night by a ball.

Bernt Balchen, who accompanied Admiral Byrd on his flight to France and was chief pilot for the antarctic expedition, was the guest of honor at the fête. He flew to Chicago for the occasion, and distributed the medals and other prizes during the auditorium program.

The $10,000 McDonald trophy was captured by the Evinrude company. Arthur Reinking of Minneapolis was the pilot of the winning outboard motorboat in the event, a race over a ten mile course in two five mile heats. Reinking won on points, coming in second on the first heat and fourth in the second. He was presented with a miniature of the trophy by Commander Eugene McDonald on the latter's yacht, the Mizpah, which was moored off Randolph street.

Jack Maypole, a 14 year old Chicago boy, made a strong bid for the trophy by coming in first in the initial heat, but had the misfortune to overturn his craft during the second spurt, and failed to finish. His showing was regarded as remarkable.

All afternoon stately sail boats danced across the waves about the pier, and the deep growl of outboard motors hummed and died as the speedy craft raced around and around a course marked out by red buoys.

Ships of Sea Scouts competed against each other in the cutter races held in the river, and naval reserve men manned similar boats. The main event of the boat races was the competition for the Eugene McDonald $10,000 trophy of gold and bronze. The trophy was executed by McClelland Barclay.

Logan Square post band of the American Legion in sky blue uniforms, gold braided, and white caps, led the parade of Norwegian societies that formed on the balcony and marched down and twice around the plaza.

A second division of the parade led off with the trimly uniformed members of the Northwest Parks drum and bugle corps, all boys of fourteen or under.

Knute Nelson was general chairman of the indoor program. Chorus numbers were given by the Norwegian Ladies Singers' league and the Norwegian Men's Singers' league, after which cups and medals won in the races were presented. Maj. M. J. Bromberg was in charge of the water sports.

CHICAGO LEADS IN MAKING CLOTHES FOR MEN, EXPERT SAYS

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Ladies—they're learning! Perhaps the Chicago tailor who a few days ago asserted that Chicago men were "absolutely terrible" dressers was right. Yet it became known yesterday, on inquiry among those who know that the smartest tailor shops the loop can boast made five times as many full dress suits for the opening of the opera season last year as had been ordered in any one season since the war. Moreover, the Beau Brummels went all the way—they ordered tails, not mere Tuxedos.

With the opera season again in the offing, it may encourage the males who are accused of being too self-conscious to be well dressed to the extent of walking stick, spats and gloves, to learn that Chicago has just been designated as the habitat of the world's most expert tailoring for men. The assertion comes from an officer of the national association of male clothes artists, who is widely traveled, but dared not permit his name to be used lest the hue and cry from other cities embarrass him professionally.

"It's perfectly true," he reiterated. "I know Chicago men who have gone to Bond street for clothes, then found they couldn't wear them. England has woolens. No one can deny them that. But their tailors can't make them up for any one but Englishmen. France never has pretended to make good clothes for men. Swedish tailors used to be the best, but now it's the Italians who are the masters. And Chicago is the place where the finest work is available."

Frank J. Birk of 1448 Lake Shore drive voted yesterday for present day fashions in comparison to those of two decades ago. He is one of the business men who merit the designation of well dressed.

"There's no comparison as to comfort—clothes today are so much better made," he said. "The average man takes far more interest in his appearance than he used to, realizing that it helps him in business. Men generally have better taste now, I think, as to colors and patterns. One thing I do like—they've brought back the style of suspenders for men. It's far more healthful, my physician tells me, and I don't expect to wear belts any more except in sports. Now if any more except in sports."

THE STAGE

"ARTISTS AND MODELS."

A revue presented at the Grand Opera house Sept. 7, 1930, by the Messrs. Shubert. Music by Ernie Golden, Harold Stern, and Maurice Reubens; lyrics by Frank Bannister.

THE COMPANY.

Phil Baker, James Barton, Lillian Taiz, Peggy O'Neill, Rosemary Deering, Dorothy Drum, Dimple Reide, Paul Cadieux, Sally Rits, Aileen Stanley, Shaw & Lee, Pierce & Harris, Don Lanning, Rath Bros., John Cherry, Archie Roberts, George Del Drigo, Gertrude Sheffield.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

A FULL fledged Broadway revue, rich in nudes and nifties, came to town last night, and the new theatrical season seems much less anæmic than it did day before yesterday. "Artists and Models," which opened at the Grand Opera house before an audience hungry for this sort of entertainment, may not be the greatest revue that ever crossed the Hudson river, but it is certainly far from being the worst. It is almost long enough to make a double header, and it is lively enough to bounce theatergoers out of their summer inertia.

The honorable mentions in this copious program of song, dance, spectacle, and skit should run in this manner, more or less:

Phil Baker—The rollicking curbstone cherub with his eternal accordion, blithely making everybody feel at home. Whether his cracks are wise or foolish, he is a great boy to stop a show; and although his routine does not vary much, he never seems to wear off the edge of his novelty. Mr. Baker is still standing for the heckling of his employé in the upper box, and the customers continue to hope gleefully that the better man will win.

Aileen Stanley—A muse of refined boop-a-doopery; queen of the soft-shoe singers. A great big wholesome gal with a refreshing style of singing. She treats her ditties quietly, but puts them over with emphasis. Lyrics are understood when Aileen croons. Among her numbers in this amusement are "Ro-ro-rolling Along," and "Like Jimmy and Me." They will probably be much in circulation this fall.

James Barton—A big shot of the Manhattan pastimes who doesn't get out here very often. But he's no soft boy from Babylon—he has the hard facial map of a marine and he sings like a gifted artilleryman. James wears a sailor suit when he does his first act stuff—song, dance and a bit of mimicry with Maurice Chevalier as his target—and he gives the impression of being on shore leave off a battle wagon. The first nighters took to him warmly.

Shaw & Lee—The familiar pair of dumb-pan comedians who get their hands and feet all tangled up. They are rare, rough clowns, unique in their vein. It seems, however, that they haven't invented anything new for several years. Last night, among their old friends, they did not arouse the customary riot of laughter; but that will come when the audiences at the Grand become less seasoned.

A paragraph is also due the episode called "Sirens of Ceylon," which is announced as a submarine ballet imported directly from the Folies-Bergères of Paris, where good Americans go to study old Gallic customs. This is a brief exhibition of nudes in an aquarium or torsos in a tank. [Mirrors do the trick, if you want to know.] The girls wriggle about much like angle worms at the bottom of a shiny new tin can, and finally a male enters to pursue and capture a graceful mate. I have an idea that the lights or the stage settings were not correctly arranged last night. Anyway, it didn't seem like much of anything.

For the first act finale there is a rumba number which is effective in its color, costuming, and rhythm. If you are curious about the rumba, you should know that it is a Spanish-American version of the female convulsions that helped to make the Midway famous back in 1893 and therefore is nothing to get startled about.

A Turk's head as high as the proscenium arch which winks and puffs smoke out of its lips while a harem of girls dances decorously and brazenly is still another item to pass into the record. . . . Lillian Taiz attends to the prima donna duties attractively; Paul Cadieux warbles like a faithful tenor while troops of tall girls in transparent draperies parade before him, and Pierce & Harris contribute an amusing new style tango.

While this revue is in performance you will never wonder where are the "artists" of its title. Your attention will be completely absorbed by the models.

Ireland "Fairly Good."

New York, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. John J. Glennon, Roman Catholic archbishop of St. Louis, Mo., returned today on the liner Carinthia after a three weeks' visit to Ireland. He said he found conditions in Ireland ("fairly good" and called attention to the stability of that government.

Tries to Make Sea Produce Electric Power

Frenchman Sinks Tube Off Cuban Coast.

MATANZAS, Cuba, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Prof. Georges Claude, noted French scientist, succeeded today in launching a tube by which he believes he will be able to produce inexpensive power from the waters of the gulf stream. The work required six hours.

This is the third tube that he has constructed. The others were destroyed in the attempts at launching, and the inventor charged at the time that sabotage by interests opposed to his scheme was indicated.

Scientist Tells of Work.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 7.—In telling of his plans to harness the deep, ice cold waters of Matanzas bay in an effort to produce the greatest and cheapest source of electrical energy the world has ever known, Prof. Claude said:

"I have spent $1,200,000 in this project, my own invention, the dream of my life, and I hope to revolutionize hydraulic engineering as well as industry by proving to the world that the difference in the thermostat temperatures between the waters on the surface and bottom of Matanzas bay can be made to produce an unlimited source of electric energy capable of running the industrial life of this or any other nation at a very small cost.

"The latest tube cost $80,000. I am greatly pleased with the interest, ability, and energy demonstrated by all those who have helped me in its construction and especially the welding work accomplished by Henri Dalme and M. Pierre, French engineers."

The government of Cuba will receive 25 per cent of the net profits. This was announced by Secretary of Public Works Cespedes.

"I have made a definite business arrangement with Prof. Claude," said Mr. Cespedes, "and the government will receive 25 per cent of the net profits on all plants installed on the island. The administration will not invest one cent in the plan, but two of our best engineers have been assigned to assist in the work.

"Inasmuch as Gov. Gronlier of Matanzas has received confidential reports to the effect that some enemies of Claude were planning the wrecking of his plant, I have ordered armed forces under the command of an army officer to surround the plant which has been completely fenced in."

Prof. Claude, in a statement to the press, explains the theory upon which he is working, and which he and M. Vouchert, member also of the French Academy of Science, have been developing for the last two years, by utilizing the differences in temperature of sea water at various depths.

"It has proved," said Prof. Claude, "that with slight difference in temperature, such as that between ice at melting point and 20 degress centigrade, or 68 degrees Fahrenheit, vapor is produced sufficient to run a small turbin at 5,000 revolutions per minute. I demonstrated that fact before the Havana Academy of Science last year."

"Wide differences of temperature are to be found in the waters of the sea off the Cuban coast," Prof. Claude added. "Sea water has an average temperature of 25 degrees centigrade, or 77 Fahrenheit, at the surface; but 500 to 600 meters deep it is as low as 19 degrees centigrade, or 66 Fahrenheit. In view of this fact, Vouchere and I conceived the idea of using the limitless waters placed at our disposition by nature in tropical regions.

"The cold water needed exists in unlimited quantities in the depths of the sea, but it is necessary to go after it and the big tube constructed at Matanzas was for that purpose."

OUR SECRET AMBITION

Smartest Coiffure? It's One That's the Most Becoming to You

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"What you haven't discussed for some time is the length of hair. I notice so many girls with shoulder length hair like mine, and if they feel as I do, they'd sooner it were short again. However, I suppose they feel as I do—they don't want to be the last to have long hair.

"I am athletic and short hair is so much more convenient. Furthermore, I'm no ravishing beauty in long hair, whereas I get by more presentably with short locks. VICTORIA."

The difficulty about discussing hair lengths is the lack of news we have to offer. You will see many smart looking girls and women wearing their hair short. Also, you may see many of our good looking and chic ones with the tidy little knob at the nape of the neck. And, as you say, the woods are full of the shoulder length or semi-shoulder length coiffures, most of which are either ridiculous or terrible looking, or only passing well, according to the looks and grooming of the individual.

The screen star imitators with the overgrown nursery curls or straight hair are, as a general rule, a pathetically long cry from the original model. You must have a lot of prettiness to wear the shoulder length and be young of face and figure contour. If there is anything that is distressingly unbeautiful it is the plump sister of uncertain years trying to act on the head like a young and pretty screen favorite.

The best guide, whether it is dresses, hats or coiffures you're trying to keep up on the style with, is to choose for becomingness every time. Even a last year's dress model, not too hopelessly outdated, may make a prettier girl of one than a last minute import, so why choose the least flattering? It is so with coiffures. If short hair makes you smarter looking, younger, neater, prettier, by all means cling to it, for there is no arbitrary ruling against it yet.

No one can truly say short hair is passé.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Offers Gas Plate.

"I have a three burner gas plate which I shall be glad to give to your department. Some one should be able to make use of it. Mrs. E. S."

If your quarters are too small for a large gas range, you'll find this plate a convenient addition to your culinary equipment. If you can make use of it, write for it; please do not telephone.

Needs Shoes.

"I am an elderly man, out of work, and need a pair of shoes, size 8 or 8½ EE. Do you think you could get me a pair? I walk around nearly all day and my shoes are full of holes. "W. H."

Sometimes you discard shoes which have been scuffed at the toes but are, otherwise, in good condition. If you wear size 8 or 8½ won't you keep this elderly man in mind when you are disposing of a pair again?

FARM AND GARDEN

BY PAUL POTTER

A CHILD'S GARDEN.

One of the most interested of all Chicago's amateur gardeners who have come into prominence for floral achievements made a significant statement the other day.

She attributed her interest and acumen in the cultivation of flowers to her mother, who had given each child in the family a small section in the garden, seeds, tools, rocks, and whatnot, and helped them to learn the unending wonders of nature from an early day.

Why isn't an education in the care and development of gardens just as valuable as piano or voice culture? Libraries and book stores have suitable texts on the subject which will guide mothers in this realm, but for the most part it is a matter of fostering patience until the child has achieved results which we all need to whet the gardening appetite.

The one cautious note in such a worthy endeavor, however, is that parents stick to simplicity in starting children in garden work. A few bulbs this fall, perhaps the fertilizing or mulching of shrubs, may be the start. Then next spring some sure growing varieties of annuals will suffice in the first year.

Humane Education Session.

Wed 40 Years, Fred T. Wests Will Celebrate

BY THALIA

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick T. West of Chicago and Pittsfield, Mass., have issued invitations for a dinner tomorrow evening to celebrate their forty-fourth wedding anniversary.

Chicago friends of the Wests who wish to congratulate them on the occasion, will have to express their good wishes by wire, because the affair is to be held at their summer residence, Dorr Hill, at Pittsfield, Mass.

Mr. West is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John K. West of Pittsfield. Mrs. West is the former Miss Anna S. Ogden, daughter of the late Mahlon Ogden, Chicago capitalist. They have one son, Mahlon Ogden West, of Chicago, and two daughters, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson of Winnetka and Mrs. Perry M. Shepard of Geneva, N. Y.

The autumnal beauty of the Berkshires is causing a number of Chicagoans to prolong their annual summer stay. Miss Kate S. Buckingham, who will remain in the east until October, has as her guests at Bald Head, Lenox, Mass., this week the Siamese minister at Washington, Prince Kridakara, and his daughter, and Dr. Herbert Torrance, a medical missionary at Tiberius on the Sea of Galilee. Miss Buckingham gave a dinner for her guests on Friday evening and afterwards took them to a performance at the Berkshire playhouse in Stockbridge.

Mrs. E. P. Prentice gave a musical on Saturday afternoon at Mount Hope farm for 150 guests of the North Berkshire colony. Mrs. Prentice is to continue until October the series of musicals, which she started in July. The last of Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge's series of ten Sunday afternoon chamber music concerts at her Pittsfield residence was held yesterday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. F. T. West and Mr. and Mrs. James Ransom Walker were among the Chicagoans at the final concert. Arthur Meeker is visiting the Walkers at Fair Acres in Stockbridge.

William Willeke, cellist, who conducted the concerts for Mrs. Coolidge, is to remain at her mountain residence until October. Mrs. Coolidge is in Pasadena at present for a short holiday before coming to Chicago to direct arrangements for her festival to be held from Oct. 12 to 16 in the James Simpson theater of the Field museum.

Mrs. Prentiss L. Coonley and her daughter, Miss Eleanor Coonley, will arrive in Chicago this week. Miss Coonley and her cousin, Miss Constance Hasler, will make their debuts on Saturday at the residence of Miss Hasler's mother, Mrs. Edward L. Hasler, in Lake Forest.

Other Chicagoans returning from the Berkshires include Mr. and Mrs. Darrow Bruce Fulton, and Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Bartlett, who went east for the croquet golf tournament held recently at Tor court, the Kimball Salisbury's place at Pittsfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Insull Jr. of 1344 Astor street are to sail on Sept. 26 on the steamship Duchess of Atholl for England. They have been spending the summer at Libertyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurence B. Robbins were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Dick Jr. at the Oyster Harbors club on Cape Cod, where the Dicks have been spending the summer. Miss Helen Dick won a ribbon in the riding competition class for children under 12 years of age in the Oyster Harbor horse show on Labor day.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Walter S. Crosley have had as their guest at the commandant's house at the Great Lakes Naval Training station, Miss Dorothy Crowthers of New York City. Miss Crowthers is a member of the faculty of the Institute of Musical Art of the Guilliard Foundation of New York City, and writes special articles for eastern newspapers and magazines each summer about the Ravinia opera.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller of 200 Lake Shore drive and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Strong of 1320 North State street are visiting Mr. Strong's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Strong, at their summer place at Lake St. Clair, Mich. They are attending the Detroit Yacht club races aboard the Strong's cruiser, Grathea II., and will visit the Henry Standarts of Grosse Pointe before returning to Chicago.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 7.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover reversed the order of things for the week-end and returned to Washington last evening from the Presidential camp on the Rapidan, as the President was detained from going there yesterday.

Vice President Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gann have as their guest for the week-end the Vice President's son-in-law, Maj. C. P. George Jr., who made a short visit to his former post at Fort Sill, Okla., last week after leaving his family at Sconset, Mass. He will take over the quarters at Fort Myer, where he has been ordered which he and his family occupied during a former station. Mrs. George and their children will remain at Sconset for several weeks yet.

The secretary of state and Mrs. Stimson have closed their summer home and are returning to Washington, reaching here tomorrow.

The marriage of Miss Ellen Thoron, daughter of Mrs. Harry Leonard, to her sister's brother-in-law, Francis MacVeagh, took place yesterday in Bethlehem chapel of the Washington cathedral, the Rev. Dr. Walter Lowry officiating in the presence of only the members of the families and a few intimate friends.

The bride wore a gown of heavy silver cloth backed with blue, worn by her aunt, Mrs. John W. Garrett, wife of the American ambassador to Italy, at the wedding of the crown prince of Italy and Princess Marie José of Belgium. It was fashioned after the robe of a second century Byzantine madonna, with a very long train or mantle of the silver cloth and a veil of silver lace falling from a coronet of silver.

One Young Woman Writes Plainly on Marriage Attitude

BY DORIS BLAKE.

If you wonder what young women are thinking about in connection with the ever-current marriage question, the following gives an idea of what goes on in the minds of some of them, at least:

"We still regard marriage," Gertrude writes, "as an institution, and a sacred one at that. But we believe it should have a sound foundation. We have seen the damage done by the old idea that if you loved a man you would marry him regardless of whether he had a cent to his name and whether there'd be hope of providing decently for children. If we are overcautious in choosing a mate it is because we are looking ahead.

"The average business girl, despite general opinion, has learned a few things in regard to making a home that would astonish the average man. She is in a position to coördinate her business with her home training and often is willing to prepare herself for marriage by studying subjects that will enable her to be a better wife and mother.

"As regards babies, about which we are commonly accused of having a selfish distaste, it is the inherent wish of every girl, whether she admits it or not, to marry and have children. But can the average man who demands so much bring a clean bill of health and a good record to marriage, proving his ability to assume the responsibilities of fatherhood?

"We young women have self-respect. Those who dress indecently and act ditto do so either through ignorance or because they would have acted so in any age.

"If men do not want the mothers of their children to have been necked by every man who fancied them they can quickly rectify that by restraining their own impulse in the direction named.

"Perhaps the social butterfly does not want children, but the average healthy American girl, regardless of social position, wants a husband and babies, but demands that the man be capable of supplying the wherewithal to keep them going. When they marry men of this caliber, we note, they usually stay married."

Soup's On!

"She" was looking at "him" with a teasing smile. He reciprocated, only more so!

I easily became interested in them, and speculated as to their state—engaged or newlyweds.

In the course of serving people I was to serve them. Slowly walking over I eyed them speculatively and then popped out with, "Pardon me, but are you married?" instead of the regular "Are you served?" Horrors! I'll never forget their expression, and my embarrassment. M. N.

Opening of School Means a Big Change for the Youngsters

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

When school opens, keep a weather eye on the children for a few weeks, and see that they get plenty of sleep and one, or if small, two rest periods.

It is a sharp change, the one from vacation to school, and it takes time for children to adjust themselves to it. They may not be conscious of it—but if you are keen you will see the symptoms. The whole vibration of school days is different from that of vacation days—and the readjustment to school life again often brings with it tension and fatigue.

If you analyze it, you realize it is natural enough. During all the weeks of vacation children become used to a way of living that is a much more natural one for them than the routine that school brings. During vacation they have outdoors and physical freedom, they don't have to watch the clock, play is the principal occupation of their days—and their time is pretty much their own to do as they please with.

Then school opens. They have to get up in the morning—slept out or not. Physical confinement takes the place of freedom—concentration takes the place of relaxation—and the close proximity of many human beings for hours at a stretch takes the place of the casual contacts of vacation time. A child's nervous system, his mind, his muscles have to readjust themselves. Often tension results.

The best way to compensate for this is by seeing that the children have more sleep at night than usual, trying to work this in by an earlier bed hour. Also, all the younger children, even if they have long omitted their naps, should go back to them or to a rest period in a quiet, darkened room. If they have a 3 o'clock school session, then you will have to tuck the rest in between 3 and supper.

It is not only the experienced mother who has gradually had this need borne in upon her, but the impersonal child expert, too.

Cornstalk Board Ordered by Tons for World's '33 Fair

A trainload of cornstalks from fields in Illinois and Iowa has been made into insulation board and will be used on the roofs of the first two buildings being constructed for the 1933 Century of Progress exposition, celebrating the Chicago centennial.

Some of this 460,000 square feet of one-half inch insulation material is to be laid on the roof of the administration building on the Chicago lake shore southeast of the Field museum. In addition the rest of the contract calls for coverage of five acres of roof on the travel and transport building.

General contractors for the two buildings are the J. B. French company for the administration structure, and John Griffiths & Son for the travel and transport building. The Luse-Stevenson company, which was awarded contracts for the roofing on each of the buildings, has purchased the cornstalk insulation from the Maizewood Products company of Chicago, which has its factory at Dubuque, Ia.

From the headquarters of the Illinois Agricultural association in Chicago comes the statement that the total cornstalks producton in the country annually probably is around 150,000,000 tons, and that if 100,000,000 could be used to manufacture insulatin, material with a return of $3 per ton to the farmer, the agricultural income would be increased around $300,000,000 annually or an additional return to corn belt farmers of about $4.50 for every acre of corn.

Judge H. N. Fisher Heads Zionist Group for Chicago Vicinity

Reorganization of the Zionist movement in Chicago took place yesterday at the annual conference of the Chicago Zionists at the Hotel Sherman. An administrative committee of 23 was chosen to direct the group's activities until the next annual conference in December, 1931. Judge Harry M. Fisher was elected the new president. An executive committee also was named.

Jacob de Haas of Boston, an associate of Justice Louis D. Brandeis of the Supreme court, head of the national Zionist organization, made the principal address at the conference. He described the growth and progress of the Zionist movement throughout the world and said Zionism was assured a place in the family of nations, Rabbi Solomon Goldman of Anshe Emet congregation, addressed the night mass meeting which closed the conference.

Federated Charities Tag Chicagoans on City's Streets Today

The Chicago Federated Charities hope to collect $100,000 today by selling heart shaped tags throughout the city. That amount is the minimum which must be raised to prevent widespread suffering through poverty, according to Miss L. Ellen Babcock, president of the federation.

More than 40 homes, clinics, and hospitals organized as the Chicago Federated Charities depend on today's collections for their maintenance for the coming year.

The heart shaped tags will be on sale throughout Chicago by volunteer workers for the Chicago Federated Charities.

The institutions which will benefit include homes for aged men and women, industrial homes for children, day nurseries for children of working mothers, free clinics for children and adults, dispensaries, homes for convalescents, girls, homes, and orphanages.

Cardinal Mundelein's Titular Church Lighted for Religious Fete

ROME, Sept. 7.—(AP)—The façade of the Church of Santa Maria del Popolo, the titular church of Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago, was ablaze with electric lights this evening in honor of the vigil of tomorrow's feast of the Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

A band massed on the church steps played religious and classical music for a crowd that filled the nearby Piazza del Popolo.

The municipality's contribution to the commemoration was a fireworks display along the banks of the Tiber, witnessed by most of the city's populace strung along the riverside or on the heights of the Pincian hill.

The manifestations will be repeated tomorrow evening, the whole quarter around the church and adjoining square being festooned with bunting and Chinese lanterns. Lights were shown in most of the windows of hotels and dwelling houses.

Ostrich Embroidery Trims Black Velvet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—The predilection Paris couturiers are showing for embroidered trimmings this winter was bound to give birth to novel versions of the same. Velvet is being embroidered with string, net with chenille, cloth with metal, chiffon with leather. But probably the most unusual embroidery idea yet invented is the use of delicate ostrich tendrils as though they were silk or chenille.

Philippe and Gaston are the originators of this sensation. They make the dress sketched above of supple black velvet embroidered with black and white ostrich tendrils, and it's the prettiest dress for a young girl I've laid my eyes on for many a day!

It's very simple in line. The shallow hip yoke extends into a panel front and back in the skirt. The sides are cut with a low circular flare. The long sleeved kimono blouse pulls over the head. Its deep sailor collar and flaring cuffs are of the ostrich embroidery, worked on a net foundation. The effect is indescribably soft and utterly flattering. A three inch ostrich belt marks the natural waist. A black velvet bow finishes the seagoing décolleté in front. Philippe and Gaston show this frock with black velvet slippers and snow gray stockings.

Food Talk.

Mischievous, merry making onions! Puck of all vegetables! What food plays more interesting and pleasing rôles than this despised yet loved, humble yet proud, member of the lily family?

The strong odor and flavor which are responsible for both objections and praise of onions are due to pungent volatile oils rich in sulphur.

In fact, the strong oils that volatilize may be so completely lost in cooking that the cooked product is flat flavored. Cooking in a steam or pressure cooker retains the maximum amount of the strong flavor. The best tasting product, mild and pleasing is secured when onions are cooked in a rather large volume of rapidly boiling water in an open kettle until they are just tender.

Every cook will do well to take onions more seriously. Raw they are a valuable source of both vitamins B and C, and remember we need an abundance of these vitamins in the diet at all seasons. Onions contain much cellulose and they form gas in digestion — two good reasons why onions aid in elimination.

FRENCH FRIED ONIONS.

Deep fat.

Peel the onions and cut them across the grain into 1-3 inch slices. Separate the slices into rings. Heat fat to 375 degrees F., or hot enough to turn a one inch cube of bread a golden brown in 40 seconds. Put onions into frying basket and dip basket into deep fat shaking continually. Fry to a light brown. Drain on unglazed paper to absorb excess fat [paper toweling or coarse brown paper is excellent]. Sprinkle with salt and serve immediately. These are also excellent with steak.

AA-1 SALES OPPORTUNITY.

Increasing sales of Oakland and Pontiac cars in Chicago due to drastic price reductions offer a few immediate openings for men of character and ability; we prefer experienced automobile salesmen; to men with this experience we offer the possibility of a permanent connection selling cars of splendid buyer appeal; if for any reason your present line is inactive, it will pay you to seek this connection.

Leads and prospects are ready and will be furnished at once to men selected; we can place you near your home.

Apply Monday and Tuesday between 9 and 11 a. m. Ask for W. S. Farrant.

A SPECIALTY

To such a man there is a genuine opportunity for rapid advancement to executive position through our national expansion program, which has created 37 such positions that must be filled within the next 30 days.

Those selected must be capable of selling a $50 absolute necessity on terms of $1.00 as $1.00 down and $1.00 per week.

Merchandise is brand new, never before shown in Chicago, and our original and unique method of securing a favorable interest in the homes has proven highly successful. Call 10 a. m. to 2 p. m.

A LIFE WORK.

If you are dissatisfied and unhappy in your present work, or if you are unemployed, your problem may be lastingly solved by joining our organization. Our work is dignified, healthful, interesting, constructive and permanent. We have no dull periods. Learn our business and you will never have any difficulty obtaining employment as new and different, and has a universal appeal. We have a number of new men who are earning in excess of $100 per week. Those selected will receive every assistance and an intense course of training.

A Real Opportunity

For Building Tradesmen and Mechanics.

Four men will be selected and trained for Chicago territory; must be willing to work 8 hours a day and start at our terms. This means about $50 a week to start and a permanent position. Neat appearance and a good reference required. Call in person on branch manager, Room 1502, 66 E. South Water, one-half block west of 300 N. Michigan.

A GOOD SELLING

opportunity for a few ambitious men is now open; experience in our business not necessary as we train all new employees to sell our way. Junior Mortgage.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

A five year test has proven conclusively that second mortgage loans can be made at a cost which is not out of proportion to the rates charged on first mortgage loans and other types of recognized and regulated financial transactions.

And these rates which we have introduced in this community and all of the conditions attached to our way of loaning have stood the test of prosperous times, and are standing the test of a period of depression in real estate.

We are making second mortgage loans and invite the home owner who may be looking for new funds or who may be desirous of refinancing a part or all of maturing mortgage financing to make use of the facilities which we offer.

We charge 7% accruing interest and a commission of 3½% for 1 year, 6% for 2 years, and 9% for 3 years.
